Brief Biography of Diane Narasaki

Diane Narasaki is Executive Director of Asian Counseling & Referral Service (ACRS), one of the oldest and largest pan-Asian Pacific American community organizations in the country. ACRS is located in South Seattle, has over 200 staff and approximately 700 volunteers, and serves 23,000 people a year with culturally competent behavioral health and human services and social justice advocacy in nearly 40 languages. She was appointed by the U.S. Secretary of Health & Human Services to serve on SAMHSA's Center for Mental Health Services National Advisory Council. She has served on the Governor appointed Washington State Asian Pacific American Affairs Commission and on the Behavioral Healthcare Disparities Committee of the Governor's Interagency Council on Healthcare Disparities, chairs the King County Asian Pacific Islander Coalition, chaired the Minority Executive Directors Coalition and its Racial Profiling & Police Accountability Task Force, chaired the Asian Pacific Directors Coalition, co-chaired the Committee to Reverse the Japanese American Wartime Internment Cases, Asian Pacific Women's Caucus, and Washington Equal Rights Amendment Coalition. She co-founded the National Asian American Pacific Islander Mental Health Association.

Seattle Magazine named her one of the "Most Influential People of the Year" in 2009. The Seattle City Council proclaimed a "Diane Narasaki Day" in 2006. She received a Puget Sound Business Journal Women of Influence Award, a Ford Foundation Leadership for a Changing World Award, the ACLU of Washington's William O. Douglas Award, and leadership, advocacy and community service awards from the National Association of Asian American Professionals, Northwest Immigrant Rights Project, Japanese American Citizens Leagu e, Korean American Professional Society, Int ernational Examiner ("Community Voice Award"), and the Northwest Asian Weekly. She was voted "Favorite Executive Director" by International Examiner readers.

Under her leadership, ACRS has been recognized by the White House, American Psychological Association, Washington State Mental Health Division, King County Mental Health, Chemical Abuse & Dependency Services Division, University of Washington, Georgetown University, Asian Bar Association of Washington, Northwest Asian Weekly and others for promising practices, advocacy, culturally competent service delivery, innovative services, community service, exemplary service integration and agency excellence. SAMHSA has recognized ACRS' behavioral health/primary care integration project as a model project. ACRS was voted "Favorite Community Center" by International Examiner readers.

Prior to joining ACRS, Diane served as Executive Director of the Northwest Labor & Employment Law Office, which organized class action race discrimination lawsuits on behalf of African American construction workers, Asian, Pacific Islander, and Alaska Native cannery workers, and Latino farmworkers. She was also Development Director at the Wing Luke Museum and Associate Director of the Pacific Northwest Regional Office of the American Friends Service Committee.

Diane has a Master's degree from Seattle University's Master of Not-for-Profit Leadership program, and Bachelors' degrees in History and Slavic Languages and Literature from the University of Washington.
