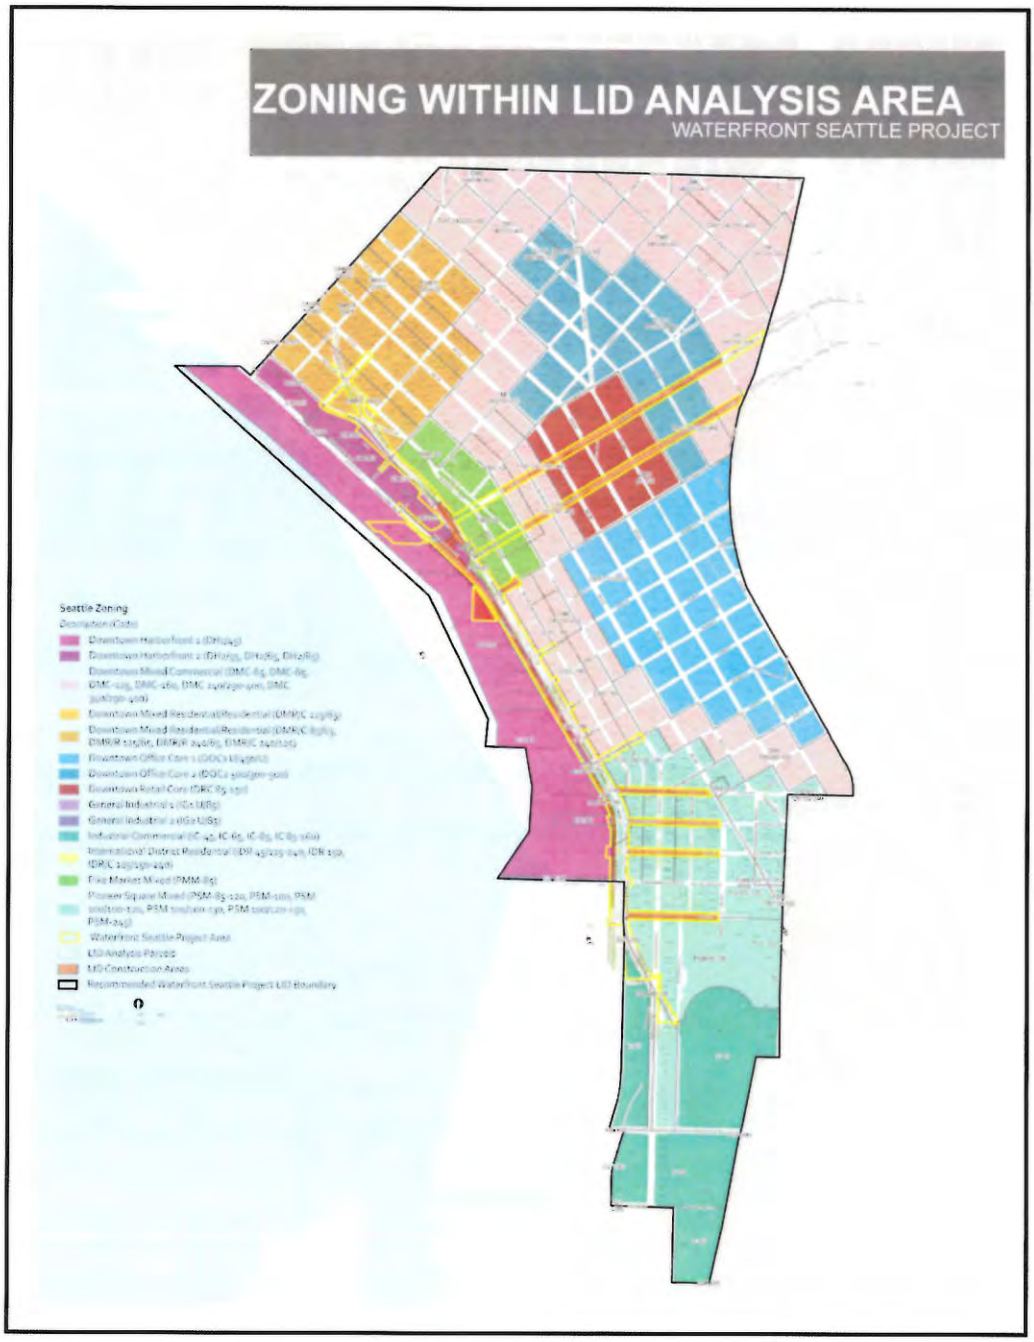
Zoning Within LID Analysis Area Map



Executive Summary

Recommended Preliminary LID Boundary: As shown in more detail on the maps included with this report, the recommended LID boundaries are generally described as Denny Way on the north, Wall Street on the northwest (due to the presence of the Olympic Sculpture Park and Myrtle Edwards Park northwest of Wall Street), Puget Sound and the waterfront proper to the west, Interstate Highway 5 and 4th Avenue South on the east, and portions of South Massachusetts Avenue/Edgar Martinez Drive (Safeco Field) on the south.

Definition of Special Benefit: Special benefit is defined as: The difference in the fair market value of the property without the improvement and the fair market value of the property with the improvement (commonly called "before and after," more properly called "without and with")." (Local Road Improvement Districts Manual for Washington State. Sixth Edition. 2009.)

Project Overview: The LID project would construct the following six main elements: (1) Promenade--a continuous public open space extending along the west side of Alaskan Way from S. King Street to Pine Street, (2) Overlook Walk--situated immediately west of the recently completed Pike Place MarketFront building, it would feature a 28-foot-high elevated "lid" over the surface street, 47,000± SF of open space with excellent view amenities and an accessible pedestrian pathway with many connections between the Pike Place Market and the waterfront, (3) Pioneer Square Street Improvements--streetscape and new roadway/ sidewalk improvements on portions of S Main Street, S Washington Street, Yesler Way and S King Street from Alaskan Way/First Avenue east to 2nd Avenue S, creating pedestrian-friendly links from Pioneer Square to the waterfront, (4) Union Street Pedestrian Connection--a universally accessible pedestrian link between the new waterfront and Western Avenue with an elevated pedestrian walkway and elevator extending from the southwest corner of Union Street and Western Avenue to the eastern side of Alaskan Way, (5) Pike/Pine Streetscape Improvements--pedestrian improvements along Pike and Pine Streets from First Avenue to Melrose Avenue, providing enhanced pedestrian access to and from the Pike Place Market and waterfront., and (6) Waterfront Park--located between Pier 57 and Pier 59, the park provides a unique atmosphere for social gatherings/performance spaces with excellent view amenities.

The total project cost is approximately $700 million. LID improvement costs are estimated at approximately $320 million, with funding provided through a variety of sources. Further discussion of both the before (without) and after (with) elements is in subsequent sections of this report and in the Addenda.

Neighborhood Descriptions:

Although neighborhoods typically blend into one another at the peripheries, six can be identified within the recommended LID boundary; they are known as Belltown, Denny Triangle, Waterfront, Retail/Commercial Core, West Edge/Pike Place Market, and the Pioneer Square/Stadium District. Characteristics of each neighborhood and land use regulations affecting each are described in more detail in the report.

Summary of Individual Parcels:

Within the recommended LID boundary, there are approximately 6,130 individual tax parcels, comprised of a mix of residential/commercial condominium units, high rise office towers, other office properties, hotels, retail spaces (waterfront and non-waterfront), historic structures and special purpose properties including sports stadiums, an art museum, a performance hall, a convention center and a ferry terminal. Of this total, about 4,960 tax parcels are residential condo units in 54 projects. Considering the large number of parcels (individual ownerships), recommended preliminary assessments and other pertinent information on each has been compiled on a lengthy spreadsheet separate from the remaining 1,170± ownerships, for ease of reading and comprehension. The same type of information on the other 1,170± parcels is aggregated on a second spreadsheet.

Special Benefit/Proportionate Assessment Methodology:

Enabling legislation providing authority to levy assessments by an LID is statutory in Washington State. All assessments must meet two criteria: (1) the amount of an assessment on a particular parcel may not materially exceed the special benefit to that parcel and (2) all assessments within the district must be fair and in rough proportion to all other assessments. This is a mass appraisal report prepared under the requirements set forth in the Uniform Standards of Professional Appraisal Practice (USPAP) of the Appraisal Institute. Market value is estimated for each parcel within the recommended LID boundary based on highest and best use, both without and with the improvement project completed as of the date of this study. The increase in value, if any, is the special benefit accruing to that parcel due to the project.

Based on Washington State legal statutes, the fee simple interest in the market value of each individual parcel is estimated herein.

Valuation Summary:

Because the project elements focus on the waterfront, Pike/Pine corridor and Pike Place market vicinities, these areas experience the highest special benefit, as reflected in the following spreadsheets. Property abutting the waterfront improvements generally reflects the highest range in special benefit; from approx. 2.5% to less than 4% of estimated market value without the project, depending on location and use. These increases in value are based on total property value, comprised of both land and improvements. The Pike/Pine corridor reflects the second highest increases in market value due to the project, generally ranging from 1% or less at the eastern periphery of the corridor to over 3% of market value without the project at the western (Pike Place Market Area) end. The Pioneer Square neighborhood generally experiences slightly less special benefit as it is not as close to significant project amenities such as the Overlook Walk. Average property value increases are slightly less than for the Pike/Pine corridor to the north. Similarly, the Belltown, Denny Triangle and Stadium District neighborhoods reflect lesser (1±%) market value increases.

Because the project is anticipated to have some positive impact on tourism levels, hotel and retail land uses typically reflect a slightly higher special benefit compared to nearby properties with different uses, the magnitude of which depends on various elements affecting value. Similarly, condominium/apartment complexes and office buildings also experience various degrees of market value increases relative to proximity to the LID improvements.

The table below summarizes the estimated special benefit ranges for each affected property type, based on the percentages of property value increase.

Estimated Special Benefit Ranges By Property Class

Property Class	Percentage of Property Value Increase
	High	Low
Land value	<4.00%	<0.50%
Office/Retail	<3.50%	<0.50%
Hotel	<3.50%	<1.00%
Apartment/Subsidized housing	3.00%	0.00%
Residential condominium	3.00%	<0.50%
Waterfront	<4.00%	<0.50%
Special purpose	<0.50%	<0.50%

Based on the analysis completed to date, which is subject to change, the total estimated special benefit to assessable property within the recommended LID boundary is $414,714,100 (Rd). The findings resulting from this study, which is subject to the accompanying assumptions and limiting conditions, as of March 1, 2018, are as follows:

Residential & Associated Retail - Total Estimated Market Value Without LID	$ 4,295,511,100 (Rd)
All Other Properties - Total Estimated Market Value Without LID	$44,538,817,500 (Rd)
Total Estimated Market Value Without LID	$48,834,328,600 (Rd)
Residential & Associated Retail - Total Estimated Market Value With LID	$ 4,353,091,200 (Rd)
All Other Properties - Total Estimated Market Value With LID	$44,895,951,500 (Rd)
Total Estimated Market Value With LID	$49,249,042,700 (Rd)
Residential & Associated Retail - Special Benefit	$ 57,580,100 (Rd)
All Other Properties - Special Benefit	$ 357,134,000 (Rd)
Total Estimated Special Benefit	$ 414,714,100 (Rd)

As of the date of this document, the City of Seattle has not set the formation special benefit cost/benefit ratio. The formation special benefit cost/benefit ratio is anticipated to be determined in late May 2018. Multiplying the individual special benefit estimates for the affected parcels by this constant cost/benefit ratio results in recommended proportionate assessments to each parcel.

WATERFRONT SEATTLE LID PROJECT

The Seattle waterfront is densely developed with various maritime docks, (public ferry, tour boat, cruise ship), public piers/parks, hotels and retail/cultural attractions including the Seattle Aquarium and adjacent Pike Place Market. East of the generally west-facing waterfront are the Belltown neighborhood, Pioneer Square/ Stadium District and the retail/ commercial core; one of the most densely developed portions of the downtown central business district. The Seattle waterfront is the most urbanized portion of the Elliott Bay shoreline and attracts locals and tourists year-round. The area is well-known for its public attractions including the Seattle Aquarium, Pike Place Market, "Seattle Great Wheel" Ferris wheel, "Wings over Washington" amusement park ride, and a variety of retail spaces, marinas and restaurants with spectacular views of Puget Sound, together with small public spaces and access to boardwalks adjacent to several of the historic piers.

Additional projects in the waterfront vicinity are either planned, underway or have been recently completed; the elements studied herein (and upon which the estimated special benefit to affected properties is based) are those denoted by the City of Seattle as the "Waterfront Seattle Program". Some of the related but separate projects are listed below, followed by a list of the major elements of the Waterfront Seattle Program.

Without the LID Project (Before)

Based on information provided by the City of Seattle, without the LID project, or in the "before" condition, none of the LID project elements would be built. However, as stated above, there are several ongoing projects in the subject area that are separate from the LID and are assumed complete for purposes of this analysis. Major changes assumed to be in place in the "before" condition include:

- The Alaskan Way Viaduct Replacement project is assumed complete; the viaduct has been removed and Alaskan Way is reconstructed at conventional street level.
- The Seawall project is assumed complete, with new sidewalks.
- The Pike Place MarketFront project is assumed complete.
- The Pier 62/63 Phase 1 rebuild is assumed complete.

Without the LID project, it is assumed that SDOT (Seattle State Department of Transportation) will construct the improvements along the new Alaskan Way to their design standards and using WSDOT (Washington State Department of Transportation) funding.

With the LID Project (After)

The purpose of the project is to create a more pedestrian-friendly waterfront with convenient and safe connections to the downtown core, Pike Place Market, Pioneer Square, the Stadium District and Belltown. The goal is to improve safety and accessibility with high-quality pedestrian connections as well as provide public gathering spaces, permanent and temporary amenities, access to the water and educational experiences to draw both locals and tourists to businesses and destinations along the waterfront.

The major improvements are:

- The Promenade would be a continuous public open space extending along the west side of Alaskan Way from S King Street to Pine Street designed for walking, sitting, gathering and viewing the waterfront.
- Overlook Walk, immediately west of the recently completed Pike Place MarketFront building, would feature a 28-foot-high elevated lid over the surface street, 47,000 SF of open space with excellent view amenities and an accessible pedestrian pathway with many connections between the Pike Place Market and the waterfront.
- Pioneer Square Street Improvements would include streetscape on S. Main, S. Washington, Yesler Way, and S King Streets. The improvements would include new sidewalk paving and landscaping to create more pedestrian-friendly links between the waterfront and Pioneer Square. Improvements could include curb extensions, new seating opportunities and coordinated development of sidewalk cafes with food and beverage uses fronting on these streets. Because this area lies within the Pioneer Square Preservation District, improvements would be made in accordance with the Preservation District guidelines.
- Union Street Pedestrian Connection would be a universally accessible pedestrian link between the new waterfront and Western Avenue. An elevated pedestrian walkway, stairs and elevator would extend from the southwest corner of Union Street and Western Avenue to the eastern side of Alaskan Way.

- Pike/Pine Streetscape Improvements would include pedestrian improvements along Pike and Pine Streets from First Avenue to Melrose Avenue, providing enhanced pedestrian access to and from the Pike Place Market and waterfront.
- Waterfront Park, located between Pier 57 and Pier 59, would provide a unique atmosphere for social gathering/performance spaces with excellent view amenities, water features and a play area.

More detailed information was provided by the City of Seattle on the Waterfront Seattle Program; this data can be found at www.waterfrontseattle.org.

Summary of Formation Special Benefit Study and Assumptions Forming the Basis of Recommended Assessments – Waterfront Seattle LID Project

Introduction

Utilizing limited assignment/mass appraisal techniques, the special benefit study involves appraisal of the market value of the fee simple interest in each subject parcel both without the local improvement district (LID) and with the local improvement district assumed completed. The difference in market value, if any, of each parcel without and with the LID is the special benefit accruing due to the project. The terms "without' and "with" are used instead of ·'before" and "after'" to remove the inference of a time interval between the two value estimates. The meaning of the two sets of terms is identical.

Recommended Preliminary LID Boundary:

As shown in more detail on the maps included with this report, the recommended LID boundaries are generally described as Denny Way on the north, Wall Street on the northwest (due to the presence of the Olympic Sculpture Park and Myrtle Edwards Park northwest of Wall Street), Puget Sound and the waterfront proper to the west, Interstate Highway 5 and 4th Avenue South on the east, and portions of South Massachusetts Avenue/Edgar Martinez Drive (Safeco Field) on the south.

Client and Intended Users

The client is the City of Seattle Department of Finance and Administration Services. Intended users of this report are the City of Seattle, its appointed representatives and owners of property within the recommended LID boundary.

Purpose and Intended Use of the Study

The purpose and intent of this study is to estimate recommended preliminary assessments to assist the City of Seattle in allocating appropriate, proportionate assessments to each assessable tax parcel within the LID boundary which is specially benefitted by the project and to aid in their decision as to whether to form the LID. To accomplish this, estimates of market value of the fee simple interest in each of the parcels within the boundary, based on respective highest and best use, are made, both without and with completion of the LID project as of the date of this formation special benefit study.

Exposure Period

An exposure period is the estimated length of time the property interest being appraised has been offered on the market prior to a hypothetical sale at market value as of the effective appraisal date. Based on review of comparable sales and discussions with market participants, exposure period for various parcels within the recommended LID boundary is estimated at 6 to 9 months.

Washington State Definition of Market Value

"Fair Market Value" is the amount in cash which a well-informed buyer, willing but not obliged to buy the property, would pay, and which a well-informed seller, willing but not obligated to sell it would accept, taking into consideration all uses to which the property is adapted and might in reason be applied (Washington Pattern Instruction 150.08).

Based on Washington State legal statutes and case law, the fee simple interest in each individual parcel is estimated herein.

Definition of Fee Simple Interest

Absolute ownership unencumbered by any other interest or estate, subject only to the limitations imposed by the governmental powers of taxation, eminent domain, police power, and escheat ("The Appraisal of Real Estate" (Fourteenth Edition, 2013), Appraisal Institute, page 354).

Highest and Best Use

Highest and best use is the most fundamental premise upon which estimations of market value are based. According to "The Appraisal of Real Estate" (Fourteen Edition, 2013), highest and best use is defined as:

"The reasonably probable and legal use of vacant land or an improved property that is physically possible, appropriately supported, financially feasible, and that results in the highest value. The four criteria the highest and best use must meet are legal permissibility, physical possibility, financial feasibility, and maximum productivity. Alternatively, the probable use of land or improved property – specific with respect to the user and timing of the use – that is adequately supported and results in the highest present value."

The primary reason for estimating the highest and best use of land as vacant is to estimate land value. If there is an existing improvement on the site, the land is viewed as though vacant. A conclusion is then reached as to what use creates the highest residual to the land or the highest land value. It is then possible to identify comparable sales of vacant land.

Highest and best use of property as improved considers the existing improvements and estimates whether they represent the maximally productive use or create the highest market value. If not, a decision must be made as to whether the improvements should be expanded, renovated, converted or razed to make way for that use which produces the highest return to an investor.

Market sale prices often indicate that an increase in the value of real property within the LID boundary occurs as a result of a proposed project. This anticipatory increment in value is called project enhancement and, as in eminent domain procedures, is not included in the estimate of value without, or before, the LID project. The market value estimate with the LID project assumed completed within a reasonable time recognizes changes in locational characteristics, intensity of use and value resulting from the project.

Interim Use and Interim Value

The use that a site or improved property is put to until it is ready for its highest and best use has traditionally been known as the interim use. An interim use is not the highest and best use of the property at the present time, and it should not be represented as the subject property's current highest and best use. Rather, the current highest and best use of a property with an interim use would be to leave the property as is until land value rises to a level that modification of the interim use (or demolition of the improvements and redevelopment for some other use) is financially feasible. An interim use may or may not contribute to value until the highest and best use of the property can be achieved.

Anticipatory Use and Market Value

In some instances, highest and best use of a parcel of land or an improved property may be anticipatory investment. Anticipatory highest and best use of unimproved land would be to remain vacant until development is justified by market demand, which occurs frequently when real estate markets are oversupplied. For many parcels, however, achieving the highest and best use requires some change or improvement which may be provided by the LID project.

Within this analysis, anticipatory use reflects the current market's anticipation of intensity of use as measured by buyers and sellers in the marketplace both without and with the LID project. Market value for an anticipatory use is not an estimate of projected future value but reflects the current market for real estate based on its highest and best use. Anticipatory use resulting in project enhancement is not recognized in the valuation of real estate under the "without LID" premise.

Definition and Discussion of Special Benefit

A special benefit is defined as a specific, measurable increase in value of certain real property in excess of enhancement to the general area (and benefitting the public at large) due to a public improvement project. It is measured as the difference, accruing by reason of the LID project, between market value of each parcel studied, without the LID project, and market value of the same parcel with the LID project completed and as of the same date. For this analysis, the date of valuation is March 1, 2018.

Enabling legislation providing authority to levy assessments by an LID is statutory in Washington State. All assessments must meet two criteria: (1) the amount of an assessment on a particular parcel may not materially exceed the special benefit to that parcel and (2) all assessments within the district must be fair and in rough proportion to all other assessments.

Formation Special Benefit/Proportionate Assessment Study Methodology

The formation special benefit study uses mass appraisal techniques and is reported in a summary format including narrative and tabular presentation. This report is intended to comply with Standard 6 of the Uniform Standards of Professional Appraisal Practice (USPAP) promulgated by the Appraisal Foundation for a summary mass appraisal report. As such, it includes limited discussions of the data, reasoning and analyses utilized in the valuation process; supporting documentation is retained in the appraiser's files. The depth of discussion is specific to the needs of the client, the City of Seattle, and for the intended use stated herein. The report conforms to the Code of Professional Ethics and Standards of Professional Appraisal Practice of the Appraisal Institute, which include USPAP, as well as additional reporting requirements discussed. The aggregate conclusions presented are subject to specific assumptions and limiting conditions. The first estimate is of market value without the project and the second is with the project assumed completed as of the same date. The increase in value, if any, is the special benefit accruing to that parcel due to the project.

Recent sales of comparable commercial and multi-family residential land, together with local commercial and apartment lease rates, were researched. Supply and demand information, as well as vacancy rates and absorption costs pertaining to the local commercial and residential markets, were considered. Developers of some projects proposed (or underway) in the subject vicinity were interviewed to obtain (when possible) perspective on the LID project and its influence on property values.

As of the date of this document, the City of Seattle has not set the formation special benefit cost/benefit ratio. The formation special benefit cost/benefit ratio is anticipated to be determined in late May 2018. Multiplying the individual special benefit estimates for the affected parcels by this constant cost/benefit ratio results in recommended proportionate assessments to each parcel.

Definition of Local Improvement District

An LID is a defined geographical area with a specific improvement of a public nature which provides a special benefit to the real property within its boundaries. The increase in market value of each ownership provides for a portion of the cost of improvements to be paid by the owners of the benefited property over a period of time, usually 10 to 20 years.

Date of Valuation

The effective date of the applicable land use regulations and valuation analysis contained in this report is March 1, 2018.

Purpose of the Analysis

The purpose of this study is to provide estimates of special benefit and recommended preliminary assessments to all assessable parcels resulting from the City of Seattle LID improvement project as described herein.

Use of the Study

This study is intended for use by the client and their authorized representatives for internal purposes. It is a mass appraisal report prepared in accordance with the requirements set forth under "Standard 6: Mass Appraisal, Development and Reporting" of the Uniform Standards of Professional Appraisal Practice (USPAP) of the Appraisal Institute and, as such, utilizes limited appraisal valuation techniques.

Primary Phases of the Assignment

Valbridge Property Advisors | Puget Sound was requested by the client to perform the following tasks:

1. Estimate special benefit and recommend LID boundaries and preliminary assessments to each parcel.
2. Prepare preliminary assessment rolls including map number, ownership, tax parcel number, site address, land area, brief improvements description, zoning, probable market value without the LID and probable market value with the LID assumed completed. As of the date of this document, City of Seattle has not set the formation special benefit cost/benefit ratio. The formation special benefit cost/benefit ratio is anticipated to be determined in late May 2018. Multiplying the individual special benefit estimates for the affected parcels by this constant cost/benefit ratio results in recommended proportionate assessments to each parcel.
3. Prepare a formation special benefit/proportionate assessment study report summarizing pertinent findings.

The scope of work for Phases I and II of this assignment (completed to date), as taken from documentation provided by the client, consists of the following major items:

1. Determine general LID boundaries
2. Prepare a LID parcel map
3. LID Boundary Recommendation and Total Special Benefit Memo
4. Investigate physical and economic characteristics of each parcel and inspect exterior of each parcel
5. Review market data and develop special benefit study for LID formation
6. Develop Report

Extraordinary Assumptions

An extraordinary assumption is defined as that which, if found to be false, could alter the opinion of market value. It presumes as fact otherwise uncertain information about the legal, physical or economic characteristics of the subject properties. Refer to page ten for a description of the "before" conditions, which are considered to be extraordinary assumptions. After, or with, the LID, the improvements are assumed to be complete.

Hypothetical Conditions

A hypothetical condition is that which is contrary to what exists but is supposed for purposes of analysis. For this study, market value of each parcel is estimated without the LID and again assuming that the LID project has been completed.

Legal Description of Proposed Project

The local improvement district is located in portions of Section 6 of Township 24 North, Range 4 East, and Section 31 of Township 25 North, Range 4 East, WM, in the City of Seattle, King County, Washington. A more detailed legal description is to be provided by the City of Seattle.

Scope of the Study

The scope of the study and this report which resulted from the assignment involved estimating the current market value of each assessable parcel, both without and with the LID project completed. As part of this assignment, the appraiser made number of independent investigations and analyses. Area and neighborhood research included examination of data such as demographic information, land use policies and trends, growth forecasts and employment statistics pertaining to King County and the City of Seattle. The purpose of the assignment is to recommend LID boundaries and preliminary assessments based on special benefit resulting from the LID-funded improvements within the Waterfront Seattle Project as it is currently designed and described in the Addenda. The study area analyzed is bounded to the west by the Seattle waterfront, on the east by Interstate Highway 5, north by Denny Way and to the south by a portion of South Massachusetts Street, as visually depicted on the maps included in this report.

The difference in estimated market value of individual parcels without the improvement project and again with the project assumed completed, as of the same date, is the special benefit estimate. Estimated value ranges without and with the LID project are refined into valuation conclusions based on factors affecting market value of individual parcels. Examples of such factors include changes in locational characteristics, differing highest and best use, or potential development density before/after completion of the LID improvements. Electronic data based on records of the King County Assessor's office forms the basis of the preliminary assessment roll spreadsheets which are integral parts of this report. The right is reserved to make revisions, if necessary, to the analysis of individual parcels and special benefit estimates made herein are subject to change if additional relevant information is provided.

Identification of Study Areas and Neighborhoods

The initial LID study area contained approximately 760 acres and 9,610± individual property parcels comprised of 1,330± commercial-related parcels and 8,280± individual condominiums that are primarily residential, but also include office and retail units. It was generally bounded by Denny Way to the north, Puget Sound to the west, Interstate Highway 5 to the east and S Massachusetts Street/S Holgate Street to the south. The properties included a range of commercial, public/institutional, and multi-family residential uses.

For purposes of analysis in the 2017 economic feasibility study, this larger vicinity was divided into five smaller study areas, each of which is described below. Because the five designated study areas do not conform with established neighborhood boundaries, following the descriptions of these areas are brief summaries of six distinct neighborhoods found within the recommended LID boundary: Denny Triangle, Belltown, Pike Place Market/West Edge, Retail/Commercial Core, Waterfront, and Pioneer Square/Stadium District.

Area A

Area A incorporates the central waterfront; this is one of the most directly impacted portions of the subject LID as this section includes the Waterfront Park. Generally, Area A starts to the south at S Washington Street and extends north to Vine Street (directly along the Elliott Bay shoreline and Alaskan Way).

Overall, in the "before" condition, the area to the west of Alaskan Way (Elliott Bay piers) is highly developed with various maritime uses and the Washington State Ferries Colman Dock ferry terminal, retail centers, public parks/piers, the Seattle Aquarium, the Edgewater Hotel, small boat marinas, the Bell Street Pier and a cruise ship terminal and conference center. Generally, the greatest concentration of retail and cultural development is located on Piers 54 through 59 (Seattle Aquarium). To the north is Pier 66 (private small boat marina), a cruise ship terminal, Pier 67 (Edgewater Hotel) and Pier 69 (Port of Seattle headquarters and Victoria Clipper dock), parking lots and additional improvements.

The east side of Alaskan Way, south of Pike Street, is less developed. This is due in large part to the former presence of an elevated viaduct and to a lesser extent the overall uphill slope that leads from the waterfront to the downtown core. Generally, more developed east/west connections between the waterfront and the uphill core area are centered around the Harbor Steps apartments development, Pike Place Market and the Bell Street pedestrian stairs/elevator and overpass, which connects the waterfront to the upland portion of the World Trade Center as well as the Belltown neighborhood.

North of Pike Street, Alaskan Way was not encumbered by the former viaduct and current development includes a Marriot Hotel, Waterfront Landing residential condominiums and World Trade Center Seattle. With the LID completed, the waterfront Area A is benefited by the Promenade, which creates better open space and aesthetic amenities. Additionally, the area is enhanced by the Overlook Walk/Pike Place Market new pedestrian connections, together with the new Union Street connection.

In the Pioneer Square area, the new S Washington Street, S Main Street, S King Street and Yesler Way improvements will help provide better pedestrian routes to/from the waterfront. It should be noted that Alaskan Way will be widened to eight lanes in this area both without and with the LID completed.

Areas B and C

These two areas are approximately ¼- to ½-mile east of the incorporate several of the project's smaller east-west streetsc south at S King Street and extends north to Denny Way (mov Avenue to 2nd Avenue). Area C has the same north/south start Avenue and extends east to the vicinity of 4th Avenue.

As discussed further in this report, the roughly rectangular shaped area north of Union Street and south of Olive Way (east of Alaskan Way and west of Convention Place) is excluded from Areas B and C as it represents the Pike/Pine Corridor (Area E).

These two areas incorporate the Pioneer Square, West Edge, Retail Core and Belltown downtown neighborhoods. Overall, in the "before" condition, highly developed east/west connections between the waterfront and this core area of downtown Seattle are centered around the Harbor Steps and Pike Place Market. While other pedestrian/street connections exist, they are relatively underdeveloped and consist of older and less visible stairwells, pedestrian bridges, and/or lower traffic roadways with various levels of streetscape buildout that lead to dead end cul-de-sacs, alleyways or parking lots. These underdeveloped streetscape connections are due largely to the past presence of an elevated viaduct and, to some extent, the overall uphill slope of the downtown core. In the "after" condition, key east/west streets within Areas B and C will receive streetscape upgrades that create more welcoming, cohesive and navigable connections from the waterfront/Alaskan Way to the core areas of these neighborhoods. S King Street, S Main Street, S Washington Street, Yesler Way, Columbia, Seneca, and Bell Streets will see two to four city blocks of streetscape upgrades that start at Alaskan Way (the Pike and Pine Street corridors will be upgraded east to 9th Avenue).

Within Areas B and C, Pioneer Square is the southernmost neighborhood. The district has one of the highest concentration of historic (late 19th century and early 20th century) buildings in Seattle and is on the National Register of Historic Places (Pioneer Square-Skid Row Historic District). Notable structures include the Smith Tower, Pioneer Building, Occidental Square, Union Station and the Arctic Building. Due in part to its historic nature, the neighborhood draws extensive tourism activity and predominant building uses center on boutique ground level retail, restaurant, coffee shop, and art gallery businesses with office and/or multi-family uses above. Newer construction mixed use multi-family and hotel complexes are located at the southern end of the area, near the athletic stadiums (Safeco Field and CenturyLink Field). Several large social service providers are also located within the Pioneer Square area.

Pioneer Square is bounded roughly by Alaskan Way S on the west; by S King Street on the south; by 4th Avenue S on the east (north to Yesler Way) and located between Alaskan Way S and 3rd Avenue northwest to Columbia Street. Because Yesler Way marks the boundary between two different plat areas, the street grid north of Yesler Way does not necessarily line up with the area's narrower and more angled southern street grid area; therefore, the northern "border" of the Pioneer Square district has a zigzag pattern along numerous streets. Generally, elevation changes within the neighborhood are upward from west to east.

The southern end of the district, west to east from Alaskan Way S to 2nd Avenue S and south to north from S King Street to Yesler Way, has overall level topography. Elevations start at around 20 feet above mean sea level to the west and end at around 25 feet at the easternmost boundary. North of Yesler Way, topography begins a distinct upward climb. From Alaskan Way S to 1st Avenue, average elevation increases by 10 feet and from 1st Avenue to 2nd Avenue, average elevation increases by 15 feet. From 2nd Avenue to 3rd Avenue, average elevation increases another 30 feet. Overall, the northern end of the Pioneer Square neighborhood has an elevation increase, west to east, of over 50 feet.

Due to the historic nature of the Pioneer Square neighborhood, in addition to the conventional zoning regulations, the area is subject to the Pioneer Square Preservation District overlay. Per city ordinance ".....the Pioneer Square Preservation Board (hereafter "the Board") was created to advise the Director of the Department of Neighborhoods. In accordance with the ordinance establishing the District and the Use and Development Guidelines, the Board recommends appropriate use, site development and architecture of the private and public buildings and the use of the space therein. The Board also reviews and rules upon any improvements within the public rights of way, open space and areaways throughout the District. (7/99)".

The improvements within the historic district require a Certificate of Approval to be issued by the Board and the Director of the Department of Neighborhoods before the City will issue any permits. Due in large part to the underlying zoning restrictions on height and density and the extra certifications, land values in this portion of Areas B and C are lower than what is observed through most of the downtown core.

The "West Edge" neighborhood of the Seattle downtown core is in the center of the former LID study area. The area consists of mid- to high-rise mixed use buildings that generally feature ground level retail with residential, office, or hotel uses above. Along Western Avenue, Post Alley and 1st Avenue, improvements are generally low- to mid-rise mixed use residential, retail, civic and parking garages. Moving east between 2nd and 3rd Avenues, the general character of the neighborhood changes, with a substantial increase in high-rise office-oriented construction that includes several sky-line buildings such as the Wells Fargo Financial Center, Chase Tower (formerly WaMu) and Russell Investment Center. The West Edge is also home to the Benaroya Symphony Hall, Seattle Art Museum and Moore Theater.

The district's boundaries begin at Columbia Street, east of Alaskan Way S and west, but not including the buildings on the west side of 3rd Avenue and end at Virginia Street. Currently, this section of downtown Seattle is experiencing tremendous growth and redevelopment, with several mixed use high-rise towers currently under construction on what were once multiple tax lot sites improved with older low-rise retail and office structures. Overall elevation changes within the neighborhood are upward from west to east. The western side, along Western Avenue and Post Alley, has overall level topography. East of Post Alley, topography begins a steep upward slope. From Post Alley to 1st Avenue, average elevation increases by 10 feet and from 1st Avenue to 2nd Avenue, average elevation increases by 40 feet. From 2nd Avenue to 3rd Avenue, the average elevation climbs another 35 feet. Overall, the neighborhood has an elevation change from west to east of over 95 feet.

17-0291 Summary of Waterfront Seattle Project Formation SB/Proportional Assessment Study for LID - Copyright © 2018

The commercial core is located east of the West Edge neighborhood, in the east-central portion of the LID study area. This is one of the most densely developed portions of the downtown Seattle business core. The southern end of the district consists of mid- to high-rise office and mixed use buildings that generally feature ground level retail with office, multi-family, hotel or civic uses above.

The northernmost section of the district consists of a dense retail center of low- to mid-rise buildings anchored by national flagship retail stores, multi-story indoor retail malls, several mid to high-rise hotels, and the Seattle Convention Center. Civic and art centers located within this northern area include the Seattle Public Library Main Branch, the 5Th Avenue Theater, Paramount Theater, and the ACT Theater.

Generally, the district's boundaries begin at Yesler Way, east of 3rd Avenue S. and west of the I-5 Interstate. Moving north, the district eastern boundary line follows Interstate 5 and expands out to 9th Avenue; the Retail/ Commercial Core district ends south of Olive Way. Properties within the West Edge and Retail/Commercial Core areas have highly permissible zoning overlays that allow for various levels of density that include high-rise construction; the three-main zoning designations in these two study areas are Downtown Mixed Commercial, Downtown Office Core I and II, and Downtown Retail Core.

Downtown Mixed Commercial (65, 85, 125, 160, 240/290-400, 340/290-400): "Areas characterized by lower scale office, retail and commercial uses related to activity in the office core, retail core or other moderate-scale commercial cores in the Downtown Urban Center, and with use patterns that may include housing. These areas provide for less intensive activity along the western and northern edges of the Downtown retail core and Downtown office core."' The area between the government sector and University Street is more office/commercial than retail-oriented.

Downtown Retail Core: "Areas that provide highly concentrated, regional retail shopping activity in the core of downtown. Retail shopping, entertainment and consumer services predominate at street level, and related and supporting uses occur in the upper floors of buildings. Office and other commercial uses may also be present, but at a density and scale of development that does not conflict with the primary retail function or make the street level environment less conducive to shopping."

Maximum Height:	N/A (Depends on official zoning designation, Building Use, and other permitted variances/bonuses)
Base FAR:	3
Maximum FAR:	5

At the northern end of Study Areas B and C is the Belltown neighborhood. The vicinity consists mainly of mid- to low-rise mixed use buildings that generally have ground level retail with residential, office, or hotel uses above. Currently, this section of Downtown Seattle is experiencing visible growth and redevelopment, with several mixed use mid- to high-rise towers currently under construction on what were once multiple tax lot sites improved with older low-rise retail and office buildings, as well as significant remodeling and updating of older historic apartment and retail building sites. Recently, a high concentration of proposed or under construction high-rise developments have made a presence along the northeast and southeast portions of the neighborhood.

Overall, the neighborhood is predominantly known for its residential, retail, restaurant, and night life amenities. Well known establishments and sites include the Cinerama, Moore Theater, and the outdoor Olympic Sculpture Park. In addition to its concentration of restaurant, bar, and boutique retail establishments, Belltown has a high concentration of private universities, including the Art Institute of Seattle, Antioch University, Argosy University, and the Seattle School of Theology and Psychology.

Belltown is bounded on the north by Denny Way, beyond which lies the Seattle Center and Queen Anne Hill, on the southwest by Elliott Bay, on the southeast by Virginia Street, and on the northeast by 5th Avenue, beyond which lies the Denny Triangle. All the neighborhood's northwest- and southeast-bound streets are major thoroughfares (Alaskan Way and Elliott, Western, 1st, 2nd, 3rd, and 4th Avenues); major northeast- and southwest-bound thoroughfares are Broad, Wall, and Battery Streets (State Route 99).

Properties within the Belltown neighborhood have a slightly less permissible zoning overlay than those directly to the south. The southern end of the area has a mix of Downtown Mixed Commercial (DMC) and Downtown Mixed Residential (DMR) designations. The DMR zoning overlay generally has lower height limits than the DMC and is predominantly focused on encouraging mixed use multi-family style construction.

Downtown Mixed Residential and Commercial (65, 85, 125, 160, 240/290-400, 340/290-400): "Areas characterized by lower scale residential, office, retail and commercial uses related to activity in the office core, retail core or other moderate-scale commercial cores in the Downtown Urban Center, and with use patterns that may include housing. These areas provide for less intensive activity along the western and northern edges of the Downtown retail core and Downtown office core."

Maximum Height: 65 to 400 feet (Depends on official zoning designation, building use, and other permitted variances/bonuses).

Downtown Mixed Residential (DMR) Coverage and Floor Size Limits (except lots in DMR/R 95/65 zones)*:

Acquisition of Regional Development Credits can add bonus FAR, as can various uses and amenity additions.*

Area D

Area D is approximately ¾- to 1-mile to the east and south of the proposed waterfront park improvements. Generally, this area represents the outer limits of the LID boundary and demonstrates the lowest level of project impact/benefit. This area incorporates the Stadium/SODO business and industrial areas to the south of Safeco Field (ending at S Holgate Street), the historical International District (south of Yesler Way, east of 4th Avenue S, and west of Interstate 5), downtown areas along 5th and 6th Avenue (west of Interstate 5) and the Denny Triangle ("Denny Regrade") neighborhood to the north (south of Denny Way, east of 5th Avenue, northwest of Olive Way and west of Interstate 5). As previously mentioned, the roughly rectangular area north of Union Street and south of Olive Way (east of Alaskan Way and west of Convention Place) is excluded from Area D as it represents the Pike/Pine Upgrade Corridor.

The northernmost section of this area consists of the Denny Triangle ("Denny Regrade") neighborhood. Once a lower intensity area dominated by single story warehouse and retail uses, within the last 10 years it has rapidly expanded to become an intensely developed multi-family and office mid- to high-rise expansion region due to the growth of Amazon.com and the large, speculative developments by local firms such as Vulcan and Graystar.

Generally, the Denny Triangle neighborhood boundaries begin at Denny Way, east of 5th Avenue and west of I-5. Moving south, the eastern boundary line follows Interstate 5 and its western boundary follows 5th Avenue; both end at the neighborhood's southern boundary along Olive Way. Zoning includes a mix of DMC and DMR overlays.

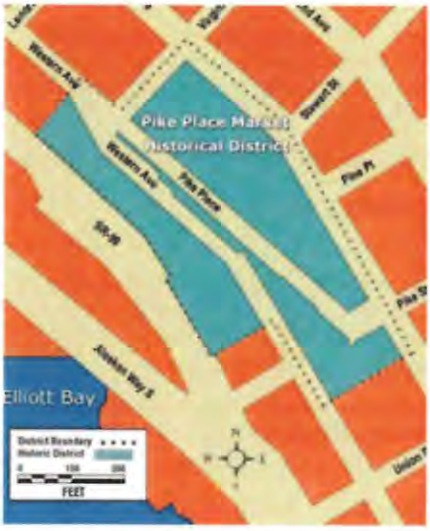
Moving south along 5th and 6th Avenue, through the retail core and municipal tower areas of downtown Seattle, Area D ends at the International District. Generally, the neighborhood boundaries begin at Yesler Way, east of 4th Avenue and west of Interstate I-5. Moving south, the district's eastern boundary line follows I-5 and its western boundary follows 4th Avenue; both end at the neighborhood's southern boundary along the S Royal Brougham Way/I-90 freeway on/off ramps. There are three distinct areas within the overall International District; Chinatown, Japantown, and Little Saigon. The Seattle Chinatown Historic District is on the National Register of Historic Places.

Like Pioneer Square and Pike Place Market, the area is covered under the International Special Review District overlay under which, per City ordinance, various development and improvement changes must first gain approval from the historical preservation board and the Director of the Department of Neighborhoods. Due in large part to the underlying zoning restrictions on height and density and the extra certifications required, plus the unique characteristics of the historic buildings, land values in this region of Area D mirror those observed in the Pioneer Square neighborhood and are generally significantly lower than surrounding higher density development areas.

Area E

Area E incorporates the main Pike/Pine corridor of downtown Seattle. As previously discussed, significant streetscape additions and reconstruction will be performed along the length of Pike and Pine Streets, from Alaskan Way to the south to Interstate 5 at the north. Area E includes the immediate areas to the north and south, beginning on the south side of Olive Way and ending along the north side of Union Street.

In the "before" condition, the Pike and Pine corridor streets have various levels of overall streetscape buildout that varies from minimal older concrete sidewalks/curbs with vintage street lights, little public landscaping and no pedestrian and bike amenities to the more robust public pavilion space buildout found at Westlake Park, Westlake Center and the Washington Convention Center. In the "after" condition, this study area has a cohesive updated streetscape buildout along both major arterial roadways that will incorporate new wider sidewalks, crosswalks, lighting, public seating, extensive landscaping, bike facilities and wayfinding signage.



The southwestern end of Area E centers around the Pike Place Market. Moving north, the streetscape transitions into the downtown area's main retail center, consisting of a mix of historic and new construction mid-rise buildings anchored by national flagship retail stores (Nordstrom, Macy's), two multi-story indoor retail malls (Westlake Center and Pacific Place), several mid- to high-rise hotels, and the Seattle Convention Center at the district's northernmost point. Currently, this section of downtown Seattle is experiencing sustained growth and redevelopment, with several significant remodels and expansions recently announced at both the Pacific Place and Westlake Center malls, the recent completion of the Premier on Pine, and the current construction of the Helios project at 2nd Avenue and Pike Street.

Overall, properties within Area E have highly permissible zoning overlays that allow for various levels of density including high-rise construction; the four main zoning designations in this study area are Pike Market Mixed, Downtown Office Core I and II, and Downtown Retail Core.

Due to the historic nature of the Pike Place Market, the market and immediately surrounding area fall under the Pike Place Market Historical District overlay. Per city ordinance, a preservation board was created to oversee various improvement changes within the designated district. The Board recommends appropriate use, site development and architecture of the private and public buildings. Improvements located within the historic district require a Certificate of Approval to be issued by the Board and the Director of the Department of Neighborhoods before the City will issue any permits. Due in large part to the underlying zoning restrictions on height, density, and extra certification requirements, plus the overall unique characteristics of the market, land values in this region mirror those observed in the Pioneer Square neighborhood and are generally significantly lower than the surrounding higher density areas.

Neighborhood Descriptions

Although neighborhoods typically blend into one another at the peripheries, six can be identified within the recommended LID boundary; they are known as Belltown, Denny Triangle, Waterfront, Retail Core, West Edge/Pike Place Market, and the Pioneer Square/Stadium District. Each is described briefly below, with major zoning classifications listed in the a subsequent "Land Use Regulations" section.

Belltown

The subject neighborhood farthest to the northwest is Belltown; although extending beyond the recommended LID boundary to the vicinity of Denny Way, the portion within the boundary is bordered by Wall Street to the northwest, 5th Avenue to the northeast, Lenora Street to the southeast and Elliott Avenue and the waterfront neighborhood to the southwest, forming a roughly rectangular shape. All the neighborhood's northwest/southeast streets are major thoroughfares (Alaska Way and Elliott, Western, 1st through 4th avenues) and the main northeast/southwest thoroughfares are Broad, Wall and Battery streets (aka State Route 99).

Land uses in Belltown consist mainly of mid- to low-rise mixed use buildings with ground level retail and residential, office or hotels above. This section of downtown Seattle is experiencing significant growth and redevelopment, with several mixed use mid- to high-rise towers under construction on what were once multiple tax lots containing older low-rise retail and office structures, as well as extensive remodeling and updating of older historic apartments and retail building sites. Recently a high concentration of proposed or under construction high-rise developments have made entries along the northeast and southeast portions of the neighborhood.

The Belltown neighborhood is known for its residential, retail, restaurant and night life amenities including the Cinerama Theater, several jazz venues and other nightclubs, and the outdoor Olympic Sculpture Park. In addition to the numerous restaurant, bar and boutique establishments, Belltown has a high concentration of private universities including the Art Institute of Seattle, Antioch University, Argosy University and the Seattle School of Theology and Psychology.

Denny Triangle

Historically known as the "Denny Regrade", this neighborhood is in the northeastern portion of the recommended LID boundary. It extends to Denny Way on the north and is generally bounded by I-5 on the east, Olive Way on the southeast, 5th and 6th avenues on the southwest, and a small portion of Wall Street on the northwest.

Once a low intensity use area dominated by single story warehouse and retail uses, within the last ten years the Denny Triangle has rapidly expanded to become an intensely developed multi-family residential and office mid- to high-rise expansion region due to the growth of Amazon.com and large, speculative developments by local companies such as Vulcan and Graystar. There are also some long-established retail uses, primarily restaurants, due in part to the area's close proximity to the Seattle Center (to the north and not in the subject area).

Waterfront

The waterfront neighborhood generally encompasses a series of piers extending west from Alaskan Way into Puget Sound and a strip of properties along the east side of Alaskan Way, running northwesterly between Alaskan Way and Western Avenue/Elliott Avenue within the northern portion of the recommended LID boundary.

The area to the west of Alaskan Way (Elliott Bay piers) is highly developed with various maritime uses and the Washington State Ferry System's Colman Dock terminal, retail centers, public parks/piers, the Seattle Aquarium, the Edgewater Hotel, small boat marinas, the Bell Street Pier, the "Great Wheel" amusement ride, and a cruise ship terminal and conference center. The highest concentration of retail and cultural development is located on Piers 54 through 59 (Seattle Aquarium). Further north is Pier 66 (private small boat marina), a cruise ship terminal, Pier 67 (Edgewater Hotel) and Pier 69 (Port of Seattle headquarters and Victoria Clipper dock), together with parking lots and additional improvements. The Waterfront Trolley, a service using old-fashioned trolley cars, runs along the entire waterfront and is heavily used by sightseers and other visitors to the area, especially in the summer.

The east side of Alaskan Way south of Pike Street is less developed; this is due in large part to the former presence of an elevated, two-tiered street known as a viaduct (bridge-like structure) and to a lesser extent the overall uphill slope that leads from the waterfront to the downtown central business district ("downtown core"). Generally, more developed east-west connections between the waterfront and the uphill core area are centered around the Harbor Steps condominium development, the Pike Place Market vicinity and the Bell Street pedestrian stairs/elevator and overpass, which connects the waterfront to the upland portion of the World Trade Center and the Belltown neighborhood.

North of Pike Street along the waterfront, Alaskan Way was not encumbered by the former viaduct and current development includes a Marriot Hotel, Waterfront Landing residential condominiums and World Trade Center Seattle. With the LID completed, the waterfront neighborhood will benefit from the Promenade, creating better streetscapes, open space areas and other aesthetically pleasing amenities. Additionally, the area is enhanced by the new Overlook Walk/Pike Place Market pedestrian connections, together with the improved Union Street connection.

Retail/Commercial Core

The southern portion of this neighborhood is generally known as the "government sector" since many of the office buildings are government-owned and provide a wide variety of public services. Together with the rest of the "Retail Core" neighborhood, boundaries are approximately Yesler Way on the south, I-5 on the east, mid-block between 2nd and 3rd avenues on the west, and portions of Olive Way and Lenora Street to the north. Also located in this neighborhood is what is sometimes known as the "Pike/Pine Corridor", two major thoroughfares through downtown connecting with access to Interstate 5; both these streets are flanked with intense retail and office uses as well as theaters and other entertainment venues.

This neighborhood, in the east-central portion of the recommended LID boundary, is one of the most densely developed portions of the downtown Seattle business district. The southern end contains mid- to high-rise office and mixed-use structures that generally feature ground level retail with office, multi-family residential, hotel or civic uses above. The northern portion of the neighborhood consists of a dense retail center of low- to mid-rise buildings anchored by national flagship retail stores, multi-story indoor retail malls, several mid- to high-rise hotels, and the Washington State Convention Center. Other arts and civic land uses within this northern portion of the retail core include the Seattle Public Library's main branch, the 5th Avenue Theater, Paramount Theater, and the ACT Theater.

West Edge/Pike Place Market

Generally rectangular and situated near the center of the recommended LID boundary, this neighborhood is bordered by Lenora Street on the northwest, mid-block between 2nd and 3rd avenues on the northeast, mid-block between Western Avenue and Alaskan Way on the southwest, and Columbia/Cherry streets on the southeast.

Most of the neighborhood consists of mid- to high-rise mixed-use buildings that generally feature ground level retail with residential, office or hotel uses above. Along Western Avenue, Post Alley and 1st Avenue, improvements are generally older low- to mid-rise mixed use residential, retail, civic uses and parking garages. Along 2nd Avenue, the general character of the neighborhood changes, with an increase in high-rise office-oriented construction that includes several skyline buildings such as the Wells Fargo Financial Center, Chase Tower (formerly WaMu) and Russell Investment Center. The West Edge neighborhood is also home to the Benaroya Symphony Hall, the Seattle Art museum and the historic Moore Theater. This section of downtown Seattle is experiencing sustained growth and redevelopment, with several major remodels and expansions recently announced at both the Pacific Place and Westlake Center malls, the recent completion of the Premier on Pine and the Helios hotel and apartment project at 2nd Avenue and Pike Street.

One of the dominant features of the neighborhood is the Pike Place Market, an historic multi-level indoor/outdoor retail market containing shops selling a wide variety of produce, seafood, flowers, baked goods, artisan crafts and locally made souvenirs, second hand items, as well as quaint restaurants and lower level gaming arcades. This part of the neighborhood draws tourists and locals alike on a year-round basis; the first-ever Starbuck's outlet (opened in 1971) is a perennial favorite. Due to its unique and historic nature, the market and immediately surrounding area fall under the Pike Place Market Historical District zoning overlay.

Pioneer Square/Stadium District

The southernmost neighborhood within the recommended LID boundary, this district is generally bordered by portions of S Massachusetts Street and Edgar Martinez Drive on the south, 4th Avenue South on the east, Alaskan Way on the west, portions of Cherry and Columbia streets on the northwest and 3rd Avenue on the northeast.

In the northern portion of the neighborhood, a park known as Pioneer Square--to the east of the intersection of 1st Avenue and Yesler Way--gives the neighborhood its name. In days past, many railroad, shipyard, lumber and other workers lived in the "cold water flats", hostels and rooming houses that were abundant along 1st Avenue, known as Skid Row or Skid Road, a term that originally referred to the path along which timber workers skidded logs. The district has one of the highest concentrations of historic (late 19th century and early 20th century) buildings in the city.

Due in part to its historic nature, the neighborhood attracts extensive tourism activity and building uses focus on boutique ground level retail, restaurants, coffee shops and art galleries with office/residential uses above. Notable structures include the Smith Tower, Pioneer Building,

Occidental Square, Arctic Building, Union Station (former railway station, now the headquarters of Sound Transit), and King Street Station (Amtrak long distance trains and Sounder commuter trains). Several large social service providers are also located in the Pioneer Square area.

Further south in the neighborhood are CenturyLink Field, a multi-purpose stadium and event center that is also home to the NFL franchise Seattle Seahawks and Major League Soccer's Seattle Sounders, and Safeco field (home of Major League Baseball's Seattle Mariners). These two venues provide a vibrant character to the southern portion of the neighborhood and land uses around the stadiums consist mainly of open air parking lots, parking garages, bars/restaurants, and small retail spaces on the ground level of older buildings with office/residential uses above. The athletic district has also attracted newer hotel and multi-family residential complexes to the area.

Individual properties in the affected neighborhoods within the recommended LID boundary specially benefit from the project to varying degrees due to enhanced pedestrian connectivity, improved aesthetic appeal and other factors affecting market value. Favorable market elements include increased retail and hotel revenues, lower vacancy rates, lower capitalization rates, and reduced risk in the marketplace for investors.

Parcel Descriptions

Within the recommended LID boundary, there are approximately 6,130 individual tax parcels, comprised of a mix of residential/commercial condominium units, high rise office towers, other office properties, hotels, apartment buildings, retail spaces (waterfront and non-waterfront), historic structures and special purpose properties including sports stadiums, an art museum, a performance hall, a convention center and a ferry terminal.

Of this total, about 4,960 tax parcels are residential condo units in 54± projects. Considering the large number of parcels (individual ownerships), recommended preliminary assessments and other pertinent information on each has been compiled on a lengthy spreadsheet separate from the remaining 1,170± ownerships, for ease of reading and comprehension. The same type of information on the other 1,170± parcels is aggregated on a second spreadsheet; property types on the latter spreadsheet consist primarily of high rise office buildings, high rise condominium and apartment structures, retail uses (both within larger buildings and "stand alone" space), hotels, older buildings in the Pike Place market vicinity, sports stadiums, and various historic and special use properties.

Land Use Regulations

A summary of the predominant zoning designations covering each subject neighborhood follows. Further detail on these classifications and maps can be found in the 2017 economic feasibility study and on various websites created and maintained by the City of Seattle.

Belltown

Except for a square in the neighborhood's eastern corner (4th/5th avenues between Blanchard and Lenora streets), the entire area is zoned Downtown Mixed Residential with varying allowable densities and height restrictions. As stated above, further detail on precise zoning for individual parcels can be found elsewhere. The square area described above is zoned Downtown Mixed Commercial.

Denny Triangle

The northern portions of this neighborhood are zoned Downtown Mixed Commercial and the remaining portions are designated Downtown Office Core 2.

Waterfront

Except for narrow strips of land on the upland (east) side of Alaskan Way, the entire waterfront neighborhood is a mix of Downtown Harborfront 1 and Downtown Harborfront 2. These strips are zoned Downtown Mixed Residential, Pike Market Mixed, Downtown Mixed Commercial, and Pioneer Square Mixed, consistent with designations for the adjacent neighborhoods to the east.

Retail/Commercial Core

Small portions at the southern end of the Retail/Commercial Core neighborhood are zoned Pioneer Square Mixed and Downtown Mixed Commercial while the larger part of the neighborhood is designated Downtown Office Core 1.

West Edge/Pike Place Market

Three zoning designations (again, with varying density and height restrictions) cover this neighborhood; Pike Market Mixed to the northwest, Downtown Office Core to the southeast, and Downtown Mixed Commercial for the remainder.

Pioneer Square/Stadium District

Most of the northern portion of the neighborhood, in the Pioneer Square vicinity, is zoned Pioneer Square Mixed, and the southern area (including both stadiums) is zoned Industrial Commercial.

Basis of Valuation

As discussed on the following pages, numerous studies were reviewed that provided varying elements of comparability to the subject project. These studies, together with extensive information on the local Seattle market, were utilized to make estimates of probable increases in market value (special benefit) resulting from the Waterfront Seattle Project. Following the discussion of these other major municipal projects, a summary valuation analysis is presented.

Comparable Projects and Research

Projects involving similar improvements across the country were researched for indications of impacts on property values and the geographic radius of special probable benefit created by such projects. Research includes published studies and reports on waterfront, park and street beautification projects, as well as interviews with real estate brokers and appraisers in many of the affected neighborhoods. These projects are compared to the elements of the Waterfront Seattle LID to help understand how project improvements affect real estate marketing times, demand and overall property values.

It is important to remember that 1) while aspects of the projects discussed and used for comparison purposes are similar, none of the projects discussed are highly similar to the Waterfront Seattle LID (i.e., differences in view amenity, specific improvements, neighborhood and parcel characteristics, etc.); and 2) ongoing and proposed construction will have profound impacts on market value of individual subject properties; the magnitude of such impacts, considering the current strength of local market demand, is the major influence on property values with waterfront projects (the subject and others, including removal of the viaduct) contributing in varying degrees.

Economic Studies

HR&A Advisors completed an economic study in 2013 to determine the benefits of investment in public space and related infrastructure specific to the Seattle waterfront. However, their study considered the economic impacts of all waterfront area improvements, including removal of the existing two-tiered viaduct (viewed herein as a separate project, together with others listed on page 1). HR&A estimated that the waterfront area has potential to generate $1.7 billion to $3.6 billion in new economic value (tourism and real estate values) with redevelopment as envisioned by the City of Seattle. This benefit is in fact created by a combination of several factors: 1) current and forecasted strong demand and extensive new and proposed construction; 2) several other projects not related to the LID (including viaduct removal and Alaskan Way reconstruction); and 3) improvements and enhancements provided by the subject project. An updated study is being prepared but is not available at the time of this writing.

An article titled The Impact of Parks on Property Values: A Review of the Empirical Evidence, published by the National Recreation and Park Association in 2001 (updated in 2014) summarized the findings of a study completed by the Department of Recreation, Park and Tourism Sciences at Texas A & M University. This article refers to approximately 30 studies that investigate the "proximate principle" that suggests a positive impact of 20%, on average, on property values "abutting or fronting a passive park area." It goes on to conclude that if it is a heavily used park catering to large numbers of active recreation users, then the proximate value may only reach 10% and affect properties two or three blocks away. Key points in the article include:

- "The premise that parks and open space have a positive impact on property values derives from the observation that people frequently are willing to pay a larger amount of money for a home located close to these types of areas, than they are for a comparable home further away."
- Some types of parks are more desirable than others; large, flat open spaces are less preferred than natural areas.
- Large public parks tend to encourage new residential development within a city which can expand and strengthen the tax base.
- Linear parks tend to create a higher benefit since there is more frontage compared to large circular or rectangular parks.
- Properties that have frontage along the park or a superior view of the park tend to see the greatest increase in value.
- Design features of the park can affect the impact on surrounding property values; "parks that serve primarily active recreation users were likely to show much smaller proximate value increase than those accommodating only passive use." Neighborhood parks that are primarily used by the surrounding residents result in a higher increase in property value than larger parks that attract active users from outside the neighborhood due to the adverse effects of noise, nuisance and congestion.
- Some circumstances can negatively affect surrounding property values including poor park maintenance or the fact that the "park is not easily visible from nearby streets and, thus, provides opportunities for anti-social behavior," or the privacy of nearby properties is compromised.

As described earlier, the author of the article, John L. Crompton, most recently updated his study in 2014 and the findings have been used by municipalities across the country. Crompton based his findings on empirical evidence going back to early 1900s England and early developments in the United States, all the way through major municipal development in the 1990s and beyond. He looked at greenway trails, water-based features, golf courses, parks and open space. The "proximate principal" represents a "capitalization" of park land into increased property values and a widening of the tax base. Two major findings based on his results include the location and proximity of property to the park improvements and a grading system as described below.

In relation to residential and multi-unit buildings – both in urban and suburban environments:

- 75% of the benefit from a park is captured within 500 feet, or three blocks.
- The remaining 25% of the benefit is likely dissipated over a 500- to 2,000-foot range, or 4 to 12 city blocks.

The following exhibit summarizes Crompton's grading scale for park amenities.

Exhibit A Park Quality Scale for Determining Proximate Premiums

Unusual Excellence: A signature park; exceptionally attractive; natural resource based; distinctive landscaping and/or topography; often mentioned in sales advertisements for nearby properties; well maintained; genuine ambiance; engenders a high level of community pride and "passionate attachment."

Above Average: Natural resource based; has charm and dignity; regarded with affection by the local community; pleasant, well maintained.

Average: Rather nondescript; not really "noticed" by the local community; adequately maintained; no distinguishing features.

Below Average: Sterile; absence of landscaping or trees; athletic fields with noise, lights, congestion; intensive use.

Dispirited, Blighted: Dilapidated, decrepit facilities; broken equipment; unkempt, dirty; unofficial depository for trash; noisy; undesirable groups congregate there; rejected and avoided by the community.

- Condominiums within a three-block radius experience an increase in property value of:

Quality of Park	Distance	Green Premium
Excellent – Average	1 block	16-20%
Excellent	1-3 blocks (500ft)	15%
Above Average	1-3 blocks (500ft)	10%
Average	1-3 blocks (500ft)	5%
Poor	1-3 blocks (500ft)	-5%

When looking at the Waterfront Seattle project, it is important to consider that there is an existing waterfront amenity; the current waterfront area can be rated as average to above average since it provides a unique public amenity. With the project elements completed, the area will be upgraded to excellent, which indicates an average 5% increase in condominium values situated within three blocks. Note that this is an average based on empirical data and is utilized for background information when analyzing the subject project elements.

The above article sets up a good basis for the argument that a large, linear, well-maintained public park that attracts active users- such as the Seattle waterfront park- will likely have a positive impact on residential property values and that the most benefit is evident within a two- to three-block radius.

The Waterfront Seattle LID also includes elements of street beautification along the waterfront as well as along the Pike and Pine corridors. The Economic Benefits of Sustainable Streets was published in 2014 by the New York City Department of Transportation and looks at the effects of "street projects that improve safety and design and that welcome pedestrians, cyclists and transit riders..." Similar to the previous article cited, this publication is the summary of a multitude of studies but is focused on street design projects. This study relies on retail sales as a measure of the impact on surrounding property values. The basic premise of the New York study is that "changes in travel patterns, spending patterns and neighborhood desirability caused by changes in the street environment can impact businesses' and property owners' bottom lines, most directly by affecting retail sales but also retail rents, office rents, and commercial property values." Some additional key observations in the study include:

- Changes to the street have a direct correlation to the "potential customers making trips to that street or change the frequency or spending patterns of their trips."
- Improving access through parking, bike lanes, bike parking and transit services can increase the customer base.
- "Creating a more comfortable and enjoyable public realm" will encourage potential customers, once already on site, to stay for longer durations and "potentially result in their patronizing local businesses more than they otherwise would." Features with this goal in mind usually include "functional improvements such as benches, tables and chairs, wayfinding signage and urban design enhancements such as distinctive paving, landscaping, street lighting and public art.

The study noted that while there exists a long history of studies documenting the increases to safety and mobility that updated streetscapes provide, it has only been in the last four to five years that municipalities have focused on the economic impacts that a cohesive "urban village" streetscape can produce. The New York report evaluated several measures of local economic activity, including sales at street level retail and restaurant/food service businesses, to provide indicators of the overall market health of a particular neighborhood. A paired data approach was taken where specific areas of study were charted based on recent street improvement projects and then compared to areas without similar streetscape upgrades. Before and after data was collected on the subject sites and compared to changes seen within comparable neighborhoods over the same time frame.

The NYCDOT study focused on eight case study areas; all had project components similar to the subject LID. Project features included the addition of a significant amount of converted pedestrian space with the introduction of coordinated landscaping, public seating areas, and improved loading areas for people leaving their parked cars. Angled parking was introduced along the roadways and improvements were made to all marked crosswalks. One case study found that within the first year of the project's completion, sale prices in the study area went up 18% and within the second year, prices were up 48%. The three comparison or control neighborhoods saw only a 4% to 13% rise in the same 1-year time period and only 7% to 22% rise in the second year (one test neighborhood actually had a 9% drop in sales). These figures indicate an increase in value due to the project of 5% to 14%. The same type of increased sale prices was observed throughout the various case study areas.

While the New York real estate market is unique, this study provides a good indication of the positive effect that streetscape projects provide to a neighborhood while excluding the water view amenity. Assuming the Alaskan Way viaduct replacement is complete in the "before" scenario, it is reasonable that enhancing the streetscapes in the subject area will increase property values in the range of 4% up to 10% of the "before" market value, reflected in lower vacancy and higher rental rates for well- located properties abutting the streetscape area and less for those further away from the improvements.

Specific Improvement Projects

Research was also completed on six municipal improvement projects across the country and in Canada to compare various project components and the general effect on real estate markets. Many of the projects researched included an enhanced view amenity that is not being considered for the subject area; since the Alaskan Way viaduct replacement project is assumed complete, the view amenity will not change due to the LID project. Observation of projects in other markets is not necessarily indicative of the Seattle market and the following sections are presented to provide market-based historical evidence in a similar vein, to be used as background data only.

Tom McCall Waterfront Park, Portland OR

This is a 36.59-acre park located along the Willamette River at the east end of the Portland, Oregon CBD. Spurred by the 1974 removal of six-lane Harbor Drive, the park was constructed and opened to the public in 1978. The park extends approximately 2.1 miles and is bordered by River Place to the south, the Steel Bridge to the north, Naito Parkway and the Portland CBD to the west, and the Willamette River to the east. In October 2012, Tom McCall Waterfront Park was voted one of America's ten greatest public spaces by the American Planning Association.

In 2000, prompted by the need for extensive repairs to the seawall and reconfiguration of Naito Parkway, plans began for an extensive remodel of the existing park facilities. Starting in 2003 and continuing through 2011, overall improvements to the green space included new designated pathways for pedestrians, cyclists, and joggers, updated public boat docks, new public gardens, upgrades to existing kids' play fountains, and the construction of three distinct public plazas suitable for larger public events. The Salmon Springs/Waterfront Plaza at the north end of the park was designed to accommodate an expansion of the weekly Burnside Saturday Market craft fair from its historical neighborhood location to the west down to and within the park. Street beautification projects along several connector roadways were completed to facilitate better overall pedestrian circulation from the park to the adjacent Portland CBD. This included the installation of larger, decorative pedestrian crosswalks, expanded sidewalks, streetscape landscaping, and new directional signs.

To date, six interviews have been conducted with area brokers familiar with the residential, commercial, and office markets in downtown Portland. The brokers were asked how, if at all, the waterfront park upgrades affected overall market rental rates and what general perceptions were held by market participants regarding the park's influence on potential values. Generally, in terms of retail and office rents, due to the presence of heavily trafficked Naito Parkway between the river park amenities and the larger downtown, the consensus of brokers has been that the highest level of positive influence was seen within the immediate one- to two-block radius of the three new/upgraded public pavilions. These three public spaces primarily act as the main entry points to the park and have the greatest sense of overall connectivity to the larger Portland CBD. It was noted several times by brokers that the expansion of the Saturday market into the park helped bring larger crowds to the Historic/Burnside neighborhood areas and contributed to the lowering of overall vacancy rates.

Two brokers familiar with the business district located at the southern end of the park area (World Trade Center office buildings and several other high-rise medical/office structures) indicated that before the upgrades were completed, proximity to the park was negatively perceived due to lack of upgraded infrastructure and perception of the area as being somewhat unsafe. That perception has drastically changed over the last 10 years and proximity to the park is currently used in marketing materials to attract larger companies from neighborhoods further west.

Based on research from CoStar, properties within the six blocks adjacent to the park maintain much lower vacancy rates and show an average of 16% higher sale prices. It is important to note that some of the increase in property values can be attributed to the waterfront view amenity. Similar to the Waterfront Seattle project, the view amenity exists without the park enhancements. However, conversations with brokers in the Portland area, including Nick Kassab, director of HFF, indicated that before park renovations were complete, the waterfront area had the perception of being unsafe and was not inviting to pedestrians or tourists. Since completion of the park improvements, development activity has increased and perception of the area has drastically changed; it is now viewed as a significant amenity to surrounding property and much of the increase in property values is attributable to the park.

In comparison to the subject project and recognizing the viaduct removal before the project, currently strong tourism and economic conditions, it is reasonable to conclude that the impact from the Waterfront Seattle project on surrounding property would be most significant in the immediate two- to three-block radius of the improvements and dissipate further away. The data collected on Tom McCall Waterfront Park indicated an average 16% higher sale price per square foot for similar properties within six blocks of the park compared to those further away; some of the value is created by the waterfront view amenity. It is reasonable that the subject improvement project, which excludes any increased view amenity, would range from nominal (outlying areas) up to 10% (areas directly adjacent to project elements).

Rose Kennedy Greenway, Boston MA

The Rose Fitzgerald Kennedy Greenway officially opened in Boston, Massachusetts in October 2008 and consists of an approximately 1-mile long, 15-acre greenway created on land that opened up due to demolition of the John F. Fitzgerald Expressway (the park is located above the "Big Dig" tunnel). One of the largest public park projects completed in Boston to date, it consists of landscaped greenways, gardens, several plazas, public fountains and art, and public boat docks within the river frontage portions. The park travels through the Waterfront, North End, Financial, and Historic Chinatown neighborhoods of Boston. Funding for the improvements was based on a 50%-50% public/private funding model. Currently, each dollar from the state/city government is leveraged by more than one dollar of private support.

In March 2010, a study was completed by HR&A Advisors for the Boston Redevelopment Authority detailing overall market changes within a four-block radius of the RFK Greenway. The study used several different valuation approaches and took into careful consideration various controls to account for real estate trends and variations in the data sets. The market areas abutting the expressway demonstrated property values and market rents significantly lower than other nearby Boston CBD neighborhoods. Once demolition of the expressway and construction of the greenway was completed, these four-block radius neighborhoods quickly saw increases in overall market values to levels that mirror and, in some markets, exceed the overall Boston CBD. This trend was most visible in the residential and office markets.

Fifteen years since the Central Artery/Tunnel project began, the value of commercial properties along the mile-long Rose Fitzgerald Kennedy Greenway strip increased by $2.3 billion, up 79% - close to double the citywide 41% increase in assessed commercial property values in the same period. A 2006 study indicated that projects worth $5.3 billion had been completed or were underway within ¼-mile from the project from 2003 through 2005 – including 4,200± housing units.

While Boston features a diverse CBD, the impact of the Rose Kennedy Greenway is visible, based on research from CoStar Properties. Since the CBD is surrounded by water on three sides, the six-block radius immediately west of the park was researched so as not to have the results impacted by other water or unique features. Commercial properties within the closest three blocks maintain a lower vacancy rate and higher per square foot sale price. The three-block radius has a five-year average vacancy rate of 9.6% and is currently at 5%, while the three blocks further west have a five-year average vacancy rate of 11.9% and a current rate of 10.7%. Properties closer to the park also generally command a higher sale price; office properties within a three-block radius of the park currently sell for approximately $562/SF with a 5-year average of $440/SF while properties further west are currently selling for $473/SF with a 5-year average of $426/SF. Properties within the three-block radius are selling for approximately 19% more than properties in the four- to six block-radius.

Neighborhoods near the Rose Kennedy Greenway have experienced a large increase in property values based on land use changes and demolition of the expressway. The enhanced view amenity is a major factor that is not considered for the Waterfront Seattle project. Research was done while attempting to eliminate the view amenity; values within six blocks of Rose Kennedy Greenway still show a 19±% premium compared to those further away but even that increase is influenced by changes in land use. Vacancy rates may be the best indicator of the park's influence on nearby property values; within three blocks of Rose Kennedy Greenway, vacancy rates are historically 2% to 5% lower than the adjacent three blocks further away, even considering buildings with similar view amenity. A lower vacancy rate in a strong economy is correlated with higher rental rates and overall sale prices.

Hudson River Park, New York NY

Hudson River Park contains 500± acres and is located on Manhattan's west side waterfront in an area that was previously known as a wasteland, featuring only minimal warehouse properties and older businesses. After over 25 years of planning, the park began to take shape in the late 90s and was finished in the early 2000s. It features sports fields, mini golf, a carousel, a promenade, dog parks, play areas, bike paths and other waterfront amenities. Evidence of a revitalized neighborhood directly corresponded to the park project; with real estate sales activity increasing as soon as park construction began. Condominium construction and prices also rose.

In 2008, a report entitled The Impact of the Hudson River Park on Property Values was completed by an appointed committee known as "Friends of Hudson River Park". The committee was made up of objective local real estate professionals, public planners, lawyers, and government employees. The committee reviewed all sales of property bordering the park from 1990 through 2005 as well as various economic published studies referring to the area. Based on their research, the following key conclusions were made:

- The properties within a three-block radius of the park saw the most increase in value and "approximately 20% of the value of properties within the first two blocks of the Greenwich Village section of the park can be attributed to the park."
- Real estate prices saw a significant increase when the park officially opened in 2003 and continued to grow at a fast pace through 2005.
- The park made a significant impact on condominium values; price increases of up to 80% were observed.
- The study qualifies their research and acknowledges an improving real estate market overall as well as an increase in value due to high quality condominium developers.
- Value of the properties within three blocks of the completed Greenwich Village section of the park were positively impacted.

The Hudson River Park project featured a dramatic change in land use and complete redevelopment of the area, unlike the enhancement project for the Seattle waterfront. This study is included for informational purposes to illustrate the positive effect of parks in metropolitan areas; however, it is reasonable that the Seattle waterfront will see a lesser increase in property values than the Boston neighborhoods, as shown above, based on the project elements.

The Embarcadero, San Francisco CA

The Embarcadero parkway is a series of interconnected parks, pedestrian/cycle rights-of-way, public plazas and public/private docks that run alongside the eastern waterfront and the 8-lane Embarcadero in San Francisco. The three-mile long parkway runs along an engineered sea wall and covers reclaimed land formally occupied by the elevated Embarcadero Freeway. The freeway was demolished in 1991, after being damaged in a 1989 earthquake. The Embarcadero right-of-way begins at the intersection of Second Street and King Street, near AT&T Park, and travels north, passing under the San Francisco–Oakland Bay Bridge. From there, the Embarcadero continues north past the Ferry Building at Market Street, Fisherman's Wharf, and Pier 39, before ending at Pier 45. The vision behind the extensive public space improvements and park land was to reestablish a connection between the expanding San Francisco CBD to what at the time was an underutilized Bayfront area. The main components of the project, all of which were completed by the early 2000s, were:

- A new alignment for the Embarcadero boulevard that incorporates bicycle lanes and an exclusive right-of-way for an extension of the F streetcar line from the Ferry Building to Fisherman's Wharf (service started in 2000); a water-side pedestrian promenade that runs from Fisherman's Wharf to China Basin Channel (Herb Caen Way); an extension of MUNI's light-rail system south of Townsend Street along an exclusive right-of-way in the center of the Embarcadero, completed in 1997;

- An underground MUNI switching yard that was originally to be placed under the elevated freeway;
- Open-space pavilions and greenscape public park improvements.

The Embarcadero is a well-studied public benefit project and the area has several ongoing improvement/enhancement projects currently under review. Overall, a Port of San Francisco public statement that the waterfront partnership "singularly changed the character of the northern waterfront from an industrial service corridor to an outdoor living room for San Francisco" best sums up project impacts.

Current market-related reports indicate that the greatest value enhancement due to the Embarcadero project was observed within the bayfront/port side public/private properties (most located on piers). Residential and retail properties located alongside the eastern half of the Embarcadero expressway have shown marked improvements associated with proximity to the public park/pavilion areas along the three-mile stretch. While the project is considered to have completely revitalized the waterfront area, there are no special benefits associated with the project beyond a one- to two-block radius east of the expressway.

Due to the unique geographical and neighborhood characteristics of San Francisco, as well as design of the interconnected parks, it is difficult to measure the direct impact on property values due to the project. The CBD has many points of interest and features that attract pedestrians, tourists and property owners. Also, the park project was completed during the same time the Embarcadero Freeway was demolished, which created an enhanced view amenity that many adjacent properties lacked. According to reports published by the city and interviews with brokers, there has been a positive impact on demand for property near the park and it is used as a marketing tool for leasing and sales. The greatest impact is reportedly within the two-block radius east of the expressway and on the bayfront properties. Brokers indicate a 10% to 20% increase in values of properties adjacent to the enhanced portions of the park compared to similar properties a few blocks away.

Recognizing that the value increase in San Francisco is largely related to the enhanced view amenity, it is reasonable that the market impact from the subject waterfront development would be significantly less, based on the assumption utilized herein that the Alaskan Way viaduct was removed in the before (without LID) valuation scenario.

Millennium Park, Chicago IL

Millennium Park is a portion of Grant Park in Chicago, IL. It is one of the world's largest "green roofs" as it is constructed on top of a railroad yard and large parking garages; an area that was previously underutilized. Although some features were completed earlier, the park officially opened in 2004 and upgrades have continued since. The park features major art installations, an ice skating rink, a pedestrian bridge, a theater, a promenade and other public spaces including a 4,000-seat band shell. The cost of the park reached $500± million when completed and it had a reported 3 million visitors within the first year with annual attendance growing thereafter. The park won praise from The New York Times and Time magazine for being an accessible and innovative public space that helps define the city.

A 2014 article published in the Chicago Tribune recognized the ten-year anniversary of the park and looked at its impact on surrounding real estate. The article refers to a study conducted by Texas A & M University that found condominium units with a view of the park had purchase prices approximately 29% higher than comparable units without a view. The study also attributed $2.45 billion in new condominium, office and hotel construction in the park vicinity to the year-round benefit and attraction of the park's amenities, while also considering the improving economy in this timeframe. "To be sure, some of the building would have happened anyway. But without Millennium Park, the boom wouldn't necessarily have occurred to the degree and not with the speed it has", said Gail Lissner, vice president of Appraisal Research Counselors, a Chicago-based company that appraises commercial and residential properties. The case study prepared by Texas A & M University in 2011 showed that Millennium Park has a significant economic impact on the overall city of Chicago. They concluded that approximately 12% of Chicago tourists visit the park and these visitors account for $1.4 billion in direct spending in the park vicinity and over $78 million in tax revenue. This directly creates jobs in the neighborhood and "increased the number of residential units in a previously underutilized part of the city by 57%, resulting in an increase in residential housing and population growth."

According to CoStar, rental rates and sale prices vary widely in the area due to property specifics, points of interest and geographical features; however, there is a clear trend of lower vacancy rates for office properties within a three-block radius of the park and similar results were shown for retail property. The three-block radius from the park has a five-year average vacancy rate of 13.1% and is currently at 10.1%, while the three blocks further west have a five-year average vacancy rate of 16.2% and a current rate of 14±%.

A study conducted by Texas A&M University found that condominium units with a view of Millennium Park had purchase prices that were 29% higher than comparable units without a view. The same study also attributed $2.45 billion in new condominium, office and hotel construction in the park vicinity to the new public amenities, noting that market conditions were improving since the opening of the park. Mesa Development LLC in Chicago reported that between 2005 and 2014, 1,391 new condo units were constructed adjacent to the park (within a two-block radius) and the units with views sell for 25% to 30% higher than those lacking the view amenity.

Similar to the Hudson River Park project, Millennium Park drastically changed the neighborhood and surrounding land uses. The higher sale prices for condominiums is largely a result of the view amenity. As in Boston, the best indicator of positive influence from the park project is lower vacancy rates for properties within a six-block radius of the park, with the lowest rates in the immediate three-block area. Based on the research conducted on the Chicago market and the impact of Millennium Park, the market evidence derived from the study shows decreases in vacancy. It is reasonable to conclude that the Waterfront Seattle project will experience stronger demand and substantially lower vacancy with the most benefit to properties within the first three-block radius of the improvements.

False Creek Conceptual Plan/Stanley Park, Vancouver B.C.

The Southeast False Creek Master Plan is a recently approved public/private redevelopment project located at the east end of False Creek harbor by the City of Vancouver, BC. This represents the third and last segment of a waterfront revitalization project that started in the mid 90's. In October 2015, the city approved the removal of the current Georgia and Dunsmuir Viaducts and implementation of the proposed redevelopment plan. The 80-acre area is owned by the city and land use has historically been industrial. A large segment (60 acres) has been set aside for public/private development of multi-family mixed use retail buildings and a 20-acre segment designated for waterfront parkland and public open space. This project offers a unique opportunity to interview various market participants concerning the influences of an approved and funded waterfront redevelopment plan.

Collingwood Appraisal Ltd. in New Westminster, BC provided data on 322 sales of apartments and condominium units occurring between June 2016 and March 2017. The properties were located within a 6-block radius of Stanley Park and the waterfront of English Bay and Coal Harbor. Paired analysis suggests a premium of 12% to 16% paid for properties within a six-block radius of the park and waterfront amenities. In comparison to the subject project, some of the paired sales data is influenced by view amenities. Recognizing this, together with the unique nature of the Stanley Park/ Coal Harbor market areas, it is probable that the value impact of the Waterfront Seattle project on the condominium market would be below the range noted above.

Summary

Well-designed park and street improvement projects have a positive effect on surrounding neighborhoods and property values. Parks and "walkable" streets spur more activity from residents as well as make areas more inviting to tourists. These projects create a wider tax base for the city and create jobs in construction, public service, hotels, retail and services in nearby neighborhoods.

Most of the comparable projects include an enhanced view amenity, which is not considered for the subject neighborhood since the Alaskan Way Viaduct replacement project is assumed to be complete in the "before" scenario and therefore the view amenity does not change due to the LID project.

Based on research conducted and discussed, there is a positive impact on all property types within a three-block radius of an improved park with a lower yet still measurable impact on properties up to twelve blocks away. Many studies show that approximately 75% of the benefit from an improved park is captured within the first three blocks and the remaining 25% dissipated for up to twelve blocks.

This increase is well-supported in the indicated ranges shown in New York, Boston, Portland and Chicago. The economic studies on parks and streetscape improvements indicate increases in property value of 5% on average, with some properties benefitting up to 10% of overall value. Both studies indicate a geographical radius of benefit within 12 blocks, but most significantly within the first three blocks. Based on Crompton's park rating scale and considering the existing waterfront amenity, the Waterfront Seattle project would increase the quality rating from above average to excellent, which indicates an average increase in value of 5% for condominiums situated within a three-block radius. The Boston and Chicago park projects are strong indicators of the effect these types of projects have on vacancy rates for office and retail properties in the immediate vicinity; both indicated a decrease in vacancy of 2%-5% for properties within a three- to six-block radius.

All the projects reviewed indicated increases in demand and construction activity, decreases in vacancy rates and higher sale prices across all property types resulting from the completion of parks and streetscapes. Based on this research, the following is concluded for the Waterfront Seattle LID project:

- Positive increases in property values within a three-block radius of park and streetscape improvements;
- Measurable increases in property values within a twelve-block radius (depending on specific location) or bounded by geographical features such as Interstate 5;
- The waterfront grading on Crompton's scale will be positively increased from above average to excellent.
- A positive increase in condominium values of up to 5% or more, depending on location;
- Positive increase in demand resulting in lower vacancy rates, predominantly within three blocks of the improvements.

The increase in property values can be measured by lower vacancy rates, lower capitalization rates (risk) and higher rental rates. Based on the comparable projects researched and the project elements of the Waterfront Seattle LID project, it is reasonable that the benefit would range from nominal up to a 10% increase in the "before" market value of individual parcels based on proximity to improvements, property use and unique characteristics; properties located closest to the park and enhanced streetscapes experience the most special benefit.

Olympic Sculpture Park

One example is a nearby urban park, located outside the recommended LID boundary along the northern portion of downtown Seattle's waterfront. The Olympic Sculpture Park is a 9±-acre free admission outdoor public gallery space that opened on January 20, 2007. The site had been occupied by Unocal, an oil and gas corporation, until the mid-1970s and was subsequently labeled a "contaminated brownfield". Transformation of the site from an industrial parcel containing hazardous waste materials to an active outdoor green space was extensive and the overall design and implementation of the project took more than ten years.

Several brokers and site managers for office and retail buildings were interviewed, including managers at the Northwest Urban Works Loft and CTI building, both located directly adjacent to (in front of) the park amenity. Aspects of the park and its influence on the local real estate market were also discussed with the site manager for The Audrey Apartments. All the managers interviewed agreed that, in general, the area along Western and Elliott avenues is considered the northwestern edge of the downtown market and attracts business that do not require immediate access to the downtown core but desire to be located within a reasonable distance of public transit and other amenities, for reasons including employee recruitment. Rental rates tend to be lower than those observed in the downtown core.

The recreational and scenic amenities provided by the nearby park are a selling point. While businesses will not lease space there simply because it is next to the Olympic Sculpture Park, the overall amenity is far more appealing than the previously contaminated site and brokers indicate that vacancy rates were positively influenced by proximity to the park's amenities. Overall, the park gave the neighborhood a recognizable reference point and helped draw potential tenants to this somewhat "out-of-the-way" location relative to the more intense activity in downtown proper, to the southeast.

In terms of the multi-family residential market, apartment managers interviewed indicated that the park and its updated view amenity was an improvement that initially helped lower overall vacancy rates. The current multi-family market is strong enough that the locational amenity of the park remains a draw but is not a deciding factor in overall asking rental rates and vacancy percentages. Absent the Olympic Sculpture Park and with the continued existence of an abandoned and hazardous industrial area, it was the opinion of most brokers and managers interviewed that this would be a negative factor affecting overall rents and vacancy rates.

It should be noted that the Olympic Sculpture Park is not directly comparable to the park-like LID improvements. Creating the sculpture park transformed an undesirable (negative) site into a positive open space amenity, whereas the LID project involves enhancement of an already established area. The interviews conducted demonstrate that updated and aesthetically pleasing open space amenities are perceived as positive influences for the surrounding market area, supporting increased demand for space and therefore putting downward pressure on vacancy rates.

Valuation Analysis

Introduction

Three main valuation approaches (each of which encompasses various techniques) consisting of the Sales Comparison Approach, Income Approach and Cost Approach were considered, where appropriate, in the valuation estimates for each parcel, both without and with the LID project. Most market data analyzed focuses on sales of improved and unimproved property in the subject and comparable areas occurring in the last five years, with emphasis on the last two years. Additionally, significant research was done into the income-producing side of the market; office, retail and apartment rents, hotel room rates, vacancy rates, supply and demand trends, capitalization rates and other factors. Data was obtained from commercial market data research services that compile this type of information such as CoStar Realty Information Services and major commercial brokerage firms, together with public records, individual buyers and sellers, local Realtors, developers and area property managers. Pertinent data was analyzed and used as a basis for valuation conclusions.

Due to the extremely large number of parcels and unique/complex nature of a number of the properties, it is not the scope nor the intent of this report to address or discuss the individual valuation conclusions for each parcel. The conclusions reached are shown in the spreadsheets at the beginning of the report and briefly summarized by property classes within this section.

As mentioned throughout, increases in market value of individual parcels result primarily from enhanced location (improved pedestrian connections, open space, streetscapes) which, in turn, enhances the aesthetic appeal of the waterfront and a large segment of the downtown CBD.

The Sales Comparison Approach is the process of deriving value indications for the subject properties by comparing sales of similar properties to those being appraised. The Income Capitalization Approach is a specific appraisal technique applied to develop a value indication for a property based on its earning capability and calculated by the capitalization of property income. The Cost Approach to value, which was utilized on a limited basis, is the process of first estimating the value of the subject land, to which is added the replacement cost new of the structure(s), less depreciation.

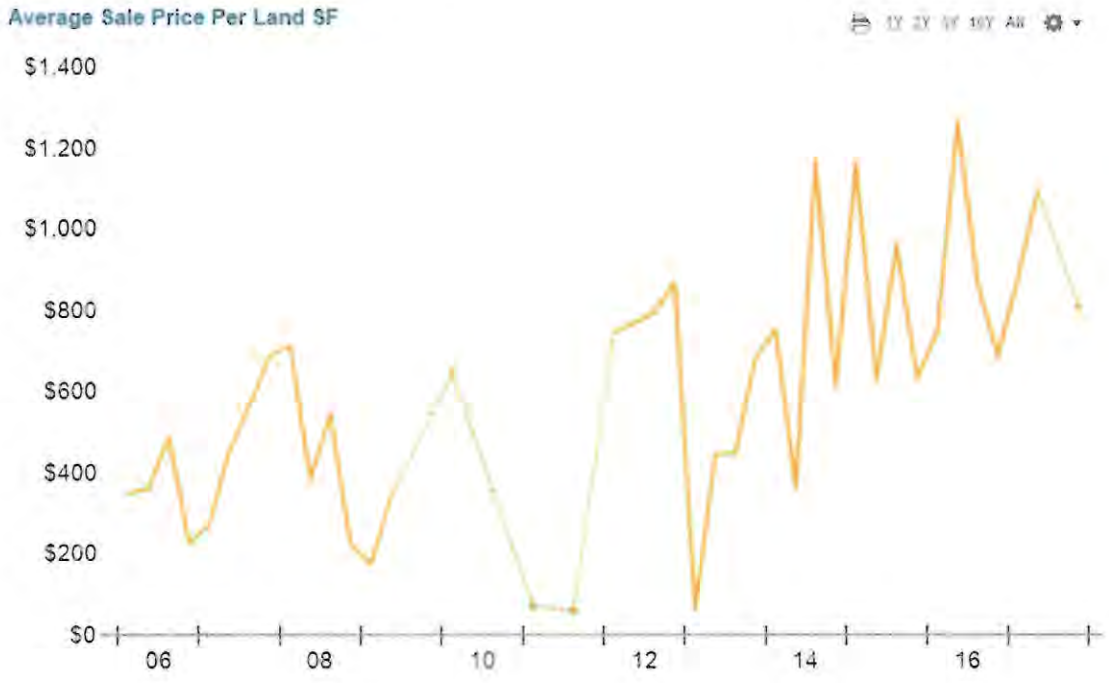
Valuation Summary---Without LID

The subsequent discussion, upon which the conclusions of value "before" or "without" the LID are based, focuses on the Sales Comparison Approach. It is broken into three segments: land sale transactions, improved commercial property sales (typically office/retail uses) and residential condominium sales. Next, the Income Approach to value is discussed, centering on the most common types of income-producing property found within the recommended LID boundary.

Land Value

The primary focus of the land value analysis is the Sales Comparison Approach to value. Market sales of land within the recommended LID boundary dating back to 2006 were reviewed. Information was gathered from CoStar, the Commercial Brokers Association (CBA), the Northwest Multiple Listing Service (NWMLS), King County Assessor's office, various trade publications and business journals, and from interviews with real estate brokers and building developers.

Estimated "before project" market values were analyzed based on the price paid per square foot of land. Land value in the downtown Seattle market varies depending on locational characteristics, site size, topography, assemblage needs, overall zoning/development potential, and other lesser factors affecting value. The relationship between land value and underlying zoning/development regulations and restrictions is discussed in this section; more detailed information on specific zoning designations for property within the recommended LID boundary (by neighborhood) can be found elsewhere in this report. Overall, the land/redevelopment market within the LID area has been robust for the last five years. According to CoStar, there were approximately 198 land sale transactions occurring between the beginning of 2006 and the present (early 2018). As shown below, although with some volatility, there has been a generally increasing trend in price paid per square foot of land since the beginning of 2013.



Source: CoStar Property

For the land value analysis, most weight is placed on sales of property within the recommended LID boundary with transaction dates from 2014 to early 2018; there were 70± reported transactions with an overall average sale price of $848± per square foot of land. The highest prices are predominantly captured within the downtown Seattle neighborhoods of West Edge/Pike Place Market, and Denny Triangle. These vicinities have highly permissible zoning overlays that include Downtown Office Core (DOC), Downtown Retail Core (DRC), and Downtown Mixed Residential (DMR); these designations allow for various levels of higher density residential, office, retail, and mixed uses that include high-rise construction.

Within these neighborhoods, factors such as corner visibility, lot shape, proximity to high traffic locations (Pike Place Market, Washington State Convention Center, Amazon headquarters, etc.) and other locational attributes contribute to variations in overall land values. To the north and south are the lower density neighborhoods of Pioneer Square and Belltown; due to zoning and/or historic preservation overlays, both areas lack the overall height allowance, FAR allowance, or broad range of permitted uses found in the Retail/Commercial Core neighborhood and land values typically fall in the middle to lower end of the demonstrated range. The following table summarizes recent land sale prices per square foot by zoning designation.

Land Sales/Listing Summary - January 2014 to January 2018

Zoning	Low/SF	High/SF	Average/SF	# of Sales	# of Listings
DMC 240/190-400	$954	$1,097	$1,026	2	0

The southern end of the subject LID area is represented by the Pioneer Square/Stadium District neighborhood. Located just north of the Stadium District is the historic Pioneer Square vicinity; it has one of the highest concentration of historic (late 19th century and early 20th century) buildings in Seattle and is on the National Register of Historic Places (Pioneer Square-Skid Row Historic District). As such, in addition to the conventional development regulations dictated by the area's Pioneer Square Mixed (PSM) zoning designation, the neighborhood is subject to the Pioneer Square Preservation District overlay. Per city ordinance ".....the Pioneer Square Preservation Board (hereafter 'the Board') was created to advise the Director of the Department of Neighborhoods. In accordance with the ordinance establishing the District and the Use and Development Guidelines, the Board recommends appropriate use, site development and architecture of the private and public buildings and the use of the space therein. The Board also reviews and rules upon any improvements within the public rights of way, open space and areaways throughout the District. (7/99)".

Any new construction, significant remodeling, or redevelopment within the historic district requires a Certificate of Approval to be issued by the Board and the Director of the Department of Neighborhoods before the City will issue any development permits. Due in large part to the underlying zoning restrictions on height and density and the extra certifications, land values within this portion of the recommended LID boundary are lower than throughout most of the downtown retail/commercial core. The high end of the commercial land value range is set by several sales of surface parking lots or older parking garages/shell buildings. Overall, these sites offer the widest range in development potential due to the lack of onsite historic structures. However, as previously noted, new construction proposals for sites in this area must also go through preservation board review and remain subject to historical preservation design requirements.

Two examples of new construction on former parking lots within this historic district are the Weyerhaeuser headquarters building and the Stadium Place complex. Notable land/redevelopment sales include an 8,849 SF surface lot located at 60 Yesler Way that sold in November 2017 for $512/SF of land and the Alaskan Way Garage that sold in August 2016 for $630/SF of land. The buyer of the Alaskan Way Garage has plans to redevelop the site into a mixed-use office/apartment complex. The buyers of 60 Yesler Way recently submitted plans for a nine-story hotel development to feature 232 guest rooms and ground floor retail space.

To the northeast of Pioneer Square, between Jefferson and Madison streets along 3rd, 4th and 5th avenues, is a small sub-neighborhood often referred to as the municipal/financial sector (or government sector). This vicinity features several predominant sky-line buildings including the Columbia Center, Seattle Municipal Tower, 800 Fifth Avenue Tower (formerly Bank of America Plaza), and the soon-to-be completed Mark Building and Madison Center. This market area has highly permissible zoning that allows for various levels of density including high-rise construction (Downtown Mixed Commercial and Downtown Office Core I).

The most notable land sale in this area occurred in September 2015 when a 28,560 SF site sold for $48,750,000, or $1,707±/SF. The transactions included two improved 14,280 SF parcels (a corner and an abutting interior lot) located at 701-719 4th Avenue. Both were improved at the time of sale with commercial surface and garage parking lots leased to Diamond parking with an expiry date of July 2016; however, the property was purchased for re-development and is a good indicator of land value for that purpose. The original proposal was for a 90-story, 1,470,440 SF multi-family high-rise tower over ground level retail, which would have made it fifteen stories higher than the tallest existing office building (Columbia Tower) in downtown Seattle. However, the design has been scaled back to a proposed 80- to 85-story development due to concerns by the FAA (Federal Aviation Administration).

Northwest of Pioneer Square is the "West Edge/Pike Place Market" neighborhood of Seattle's downtown. The area consists of mid- to high-rise mixed use buildings that generally feature ground level retail with residential, office, or hotel uses above. Along Western Avenue, Post Alley and 1st Avenue, improvements are generally low- to mid-rise mixed residential, retail, civic uses and parking garages. Moving east along 2nd and 3rd avenues, the general character of the neighborhood changes, with a substantial increase in high-rise office-oriented construction with several sky-line buildings such as the Wells Fargo Financial Center, Chase Tower (formerly WaMu) and Russell Investment Center. Currently, this section of downtown Seattle is experiencing tremendous growth and redevelopment, with several mixed-use high-rise towers currently under construction on what were once multiple tax lots improved with older low-rise retail and office structures.

Properties within the West Edge/Pike Place Market neighborhood have highly permissible zoning that allows for various levels of density including high-rise construction; the two zoning designations in this neighborhood are Downtown Mixed Commercial (DMC) and Downtown Office Core I (DOC1). Land sale transactions indicate a land value range of $950 to $1,300/SF with one 8,748 SF corner lot located at 1613 2nd Avenue selling for $1,955/SF in June 2016. Located next to the historic Broadacres building, just north of Pike Place Market, the irregular shaped lot is currently under development with a 39-story mixed-use residential and retail structure. In March 2016, a 12,839 SF lot located across from the Broadacres building sold for $12,254,539 or $954±/SF. Currently under construction on this corner lot is a 16-story, 229 room Hilton Hotel. Another notable sale was a December 2014 transaction involving a 13,320 SF site at the corner of 3rd Avenue and Columbia Street for $14,300,000 or $1,074±/SF. The property was improved at the time of sale with the Seattle Metro Credit Union building. Part of an assemblage, the buyer owns the remainder of the city block and is currently working on plans and approvals for a mixed-use office and residential full block redevelopment.

At the northern end of the West Edge neighborhood is the Pike Place Market district. Due to its historic nature, the market and immediately surrounding area fall under the Pike Place Market Historical District overlay. Per city ordinance, a preservation board was created to oversee various improvement changes; the Board recommends appropriate use, site development and architecture of the private and public buildings. Improvements located within the historic district require a Certificate of Approval to be issued by the Board and the Director of the Department of Neighborhoods before the City will issue any permits. Due in large part to the underlying zoning restrictions on height, density, and the extra certification requirements, plus the overall unique characteristics of the market, land values in this region generally mirror those in the Pioneer Square neighborhood and are typically significantly lower than in adjacent higher density areas.

The "Retail/Commercial Core" neighborhood is to the northeast of West Edge/Pike Place Market, in the east-central portion of the LID study area. This is one of the most intensely developed portions of downtown Seattle, characterized by a dense retail center of low- to mid-rise buildings anchored by national flagship retail stores, multi-story indoor retail malls, several mid- to high-rise hotels, and the Washington State Convention Center. Civic and arts centers within this northern area include the Seattle Public Library's main branch, the 5th Avenue Theater, Paramount Theater, and ACT Theater. Much like the adjacent West Edge/Pike Place neighborhood, zoning is designed for urban city center uses and represents the highest level of density allowed in Seattle. The three main zoning designations are Downtown Mixed Commercial (DMC), Downtown Office Core I and II (DOC I and II), and Downtown Retail Core (DRC).

Overall, land values in this neighborhood range from $1,000 to $1,400/SF. One of the most recent land sales was the former Chase Bank building located at the corner of 5th Avenue and Union Street. The 8,700 SF lot sold in January 2018 for $12,425,000 or $1,428± SF of land. The buyers intend to redevelop the site into a mixed-use hotel/retail complex. The property is located across the street from the Rainier Square redevelopment. There is a current listing of a 6,480 SF redevelopment site at 1513 3rd Avenue; it is improved with an older retail building (former Aaron Brothers retail store) marketed for its redevelopment potential at $7,000,000 or $1,080±/SF of land.

Near the northern end of the recommended LID boundary are the Belltown and Denny Triangle neighborhoods. Land use in Belltown consists mainly of mid- to low-rise mixed use buildings with ground level retail and residential, office, or hotel uses above. Currently, the neighborhood is experiencing visible growth and redevelopment, with several mixed-use mid-rise towers under construction on what were once multiple tax lots improved with older low-rise retail and office buildings, as well as significant remodeling and updating of older historic apartment and retail buildings. From 2014 to date, over 40± land and/or redevelopment site sales have been recorded within these two neighborhoods.

Properties within Belltown are governed by slightly less permissible zoning designations than those to the southeast (Retail/Commercial Core and West Edge/Pike Place Market neighborhoods). The southern portion features a mix of Downtown Mixed Commercial (DMC) and Downtown Mixed Residential (DMR) designations. The DMR zoning generally has lower height limits than DMC and is predominantly focused on encouraging mixed use multi-family residential style construction. Average land values in this area range from $750/SF to over $1,200/SF for well-situated corner sites closer to the South Lake Union Amazon headquarters or the downtown retail core. Recent land sale transactions include the November 2017 purchase of a 12,632 SF site located at 314 Bell Street for $10,750,000 ($851±/SF of land) and the October 2017 purchases of three assemblage sites along 4th Avenue (2208-2218 4th Avenue). These mid-block lots, all improved with older retail buildings and ranging in size from 6,033 SF to 7,118 SF, sold for $997/SF to $1,217/SF. The assemblage totaled 19,440 SF and sold for $21,600,000 ($1,111±/SF of land). The buyer has preliminary plans to develop a 22-story mixed-use apartment building.

The Denny Triangle ("Denny Regrade") neighborhood is generally located south of Denny Way, east of 5th Avenue, northwest of Olive Way and west of Interstate Highway 5. Once a lower intensity vicinity dominated by single story warehouse and retail uses, it has rapidly expanded over the last ten years to become an intensely developed multi-family residential and office mid- to high-rise region due to the growth of Amazon.com and large, speculative developments by local firms such as Vulcan and Graystar.

Data from several local real estate research companies and the City of Seattle Planning Department show that there are at least 26 mid-to high-rise projects in various stages of planning or construction within the Denny Triangle neighborhood. The area has two zoning overlays; the higher density, highly permissible Downtown Office Core II (DOCII) and the lower density Downtown Mixed Commercial (DMC). Overall, land values mirror those observed in the retail core, falling within a range of $900 to $1,500/SF. Recent land sale transactions include a mid-block 22,800 SF site at 1916 Boren Avenue that sold in May 2017 for $25,000,000 or $1,096±/SF. This irregular shaped property presents some development issues and was listed for an extended period of time; the buyer has plans in place for a 400-unit multi-family residential development. Other notable transactions are a 14,400 SF site comprised of two adjacent parcels located at 1200-1204 Howell Street that sold for $14,950,000 ($1,038±/SF) and the September 2015 sale of a 1.34-acre site located at 1200 Stewart Street for $52,800,000 ($905±/SF). This roughly triangular multi-corner site is slated for an 876-unit, two tower mixed-use multi-family residential/retail development that recently broke ground.

There have been no recent comparable land sales of similarly zoned waterfront and submerged land along Elliott Bay, so the best locational alternatives are Lake Union, the Ship Canal and Salmon Bay vicinities. Considering the transactions in those nearby market areas, together with location and other relevant factors, market value of the subject waterfront parcels is estimated around $250 per upland square foot, with submerged land at 20% of upland value, or approximately $50/SF. While the per square foot land values are significantly lower than in the downtown core, they reflect the challenges of the permit process involving waterfront and submerged land, along with costs associated with constructing and maintaining pier improvements.

Comparable Improved Sales

For the purposes of brevity, refer to the "Seattle Market Data" section in the Addenda for major downtown sales transaction activity for the third and fourth quarters of 2017. Based on the major downtown Seattle office sales, overall capitalization rates for Class A office space are 4% to 5% with Class B slightly higher at 4.5% to over 5.5% depending on type of use and investment risk.

The most recent (and relevant) improved sale on the waterfront involved Pier 54, anchored by Ivar's. It sold in May 2017 for $39.5 million or $452 per square foot of total building area, a portion of which was a leasehold interest.

For hotel properties, per room sale prices range from the low $200,000's to over $600,000. The more notable recent transactions include the: (1) Alexis Hotel on 1st Avenue, built in 1901-1906 and sold in April 2017 for $71,625,000 or $591,942 per room; (2) Motif Hotel on 5th Avenue (built in 1973 as an office building and subsequently converted to its present use), sold in February 2018 for $132.8 million or $403,647 per room as part of a seven-hotel bulk purchase; (3) Gatewood Hotel on 1st and Pine, built at the turn of the 20th century, and the leasehold interest sold in March 2017 for $2,495,400. The 96-room building is slated for a complete renovation; and (4) Pan Pacific Hotel on Terry Avenue, built in 2006 and sold in February 2017 for $79,000,000 or $516,340 per room. Overall capitalization rates ranged from 5.5% to 9.0%, based on sales in and near the CBD.

Although more market data is contained in the Addenda, recent apartment sale prices within the LID ranged from a low of $154,000 per unit for older product, with overall capitalization rates from 4.5% to 5%. At the upper end is Tower 12 Apartments, a complex that was completed and sold in 2017 for $716,357 per unit. For newer, higher-end apartments, overall capitalization rates are near 4.0%.

Comparable Residential Condominium Sales

The primary focus of the residential portion of the valuation analysis is on the Sales Comparison Approach. Recent market data on sales of condominium buildings within the recommended LID boundary was gathered from the Northwest Multiple Listing Service (NWMLS), the King County Assessor's office, and from online broker and building developer databases. Estimated "before project" market values were analyzed on an overall per square foot basis; variations depend on location, age, quality, and provided amenities of the individual complexes. The lower end of the overall downtown value range was $400 to $600 per square foot. Projects with units selling in this range tended to be older structures in outlying areas of Pioneer Square or Belltown and/or residential units in less desirable locations (basement, ground floor, alleyway entrances, etc.). Overall market value for newer construction projects in more desirable locations was in the range of $700 to $950 per square foot. The high end of the value range was $1,200 up to $2,500 per square foot. Market sales within this range represent penthouse suites or high-end premium residential condo units with excellent views and amenities.

Due to the scope of this limited assignment as a mass appraisal, individual unit updates/renovations were not considered as this data is not widely available and it is not practical nor economically feasible to inspect the interiors of all units. However, based on substantial residential market research and King County Assessor's data, value adjustments were made based on an individual unit's floor placement and overall view amenity. Per square foot values for units with superior water and/or city view amenities were adjusted at intervals of $25.00/SF (total adjustments were $25 to $100 per square foot when compared to lower level/ground floor units and/or units with average to no view amenities). Value adjustments were also considered for overall unit size since, on a per square foot basis, substantially smaller (studio) units typically reflect a higher per square foot value than larger multi-bedroom units. These adjustments were in line with established market data and county assessor's office practices to establish market value conclusions.

Income Approach

Again, for purposes of brevity, please refer to the Addenda's "Seattle Market Area" section for major downtown office rental and vacancy rates, and other related information.

Parcels along the waterfront within the LID extend from the Washington State Ferry Terminal/Pier 48 at the southerly boundary to the Edgewater Hotel at the north end. Parcels in between include the Seattle Fire Department, commercial enterprises (Piers 54 through 57), Seattle waterfront park and aquarium, and Bell Harbor Marina and Convention Center. Predominant zoning is DH 1/45, a Downtown Harborfront designation with base maximum building height of 45 feet. As stated, each of the economic entities is analyzed on a fee simple interest basis, although land and improvements between the inner and outer harbor lines are generally owned by the Washington State Department of Natural Resources (DNR) and leased to adjacent owners.

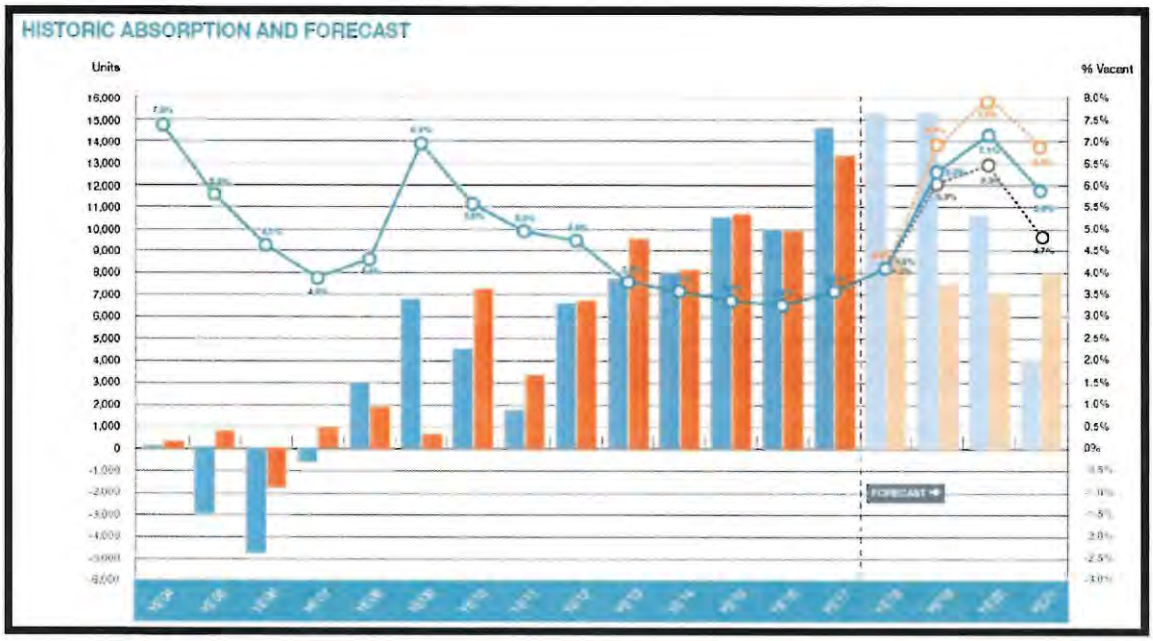
Generally, rental rates for waterfront properties range from $18.00/SF to $35.00/SF on triple net terms and vary depending on type (retail or office), quality, size, location within the building, and commercial exposure. The rates are somewhat lower than in the downtown core because of comparatively higher operating costs associated with the pier improvements.

In addition to this paragraph, there is supplemental data in the Addenda on the downtown hotel market. This market has had one of the highest occupancy rates in the region, exceeding 80% in December 2017 according to Kidder Mathews, and room rates have also increased. However, the 2018 average occupancy rate is expected to drop, and room rates are anticipated to flatten as significant new inventory comes online. In two hotels alone, for example, the Hyatt Regency and Embassy Suites will add over 1,500 rooms to the CBD inventory this year. However, this market softening (or correction) is forecast to be short-term because the primary drivers of hotel demand, continuing growth of the office market and tourist industry, will absorb this increased supply. The Downtown Seattle Association reported that there was 3.6 million square feet of office space under construction at the end of 2017. Predominant room rates are $200 to $400 per night, based on investigation of the 47 hotels within the recommended LID boundary; the rates vary depending on the season and day of the week.

In a September 2017 survey by Dupre+Scott of 97 apartment buildings containing 14,786 units, the overall vacancy rate in the Belltown/Downtown/South Lake Union submarket was 4.8%. The average rental rate was $2,287 per month or $3.13/SF, which is only second to the Bellevue West submarket ($2,307 per month).

Like the hotel market, new apartment construction has resulted in vacancy rates that are the highest in the previous five years. In 2017, over 1,600 units were added in just four projects; this year, the Seattle Times redevelopment site alone will add 1,950 units. Also, like the hotel market, growth of the office and retail market segments will absorb the new construction. In the interim, apartment rental rates are expected to flatten for the next two to three years. This is also evidenced by several newer high-rise projects, which are offering up to eight weeks free rent. Apartment rental rates downtown have been increasing by approximately 6% per year since 2013.

On a regional basis, apartment market vacancy is anticipated to peak in 2020, according to a September 2017 analysis by Kidder Mathews. Following is a chart that illustrates these supply/demand trends in the subject apartment market.



As noted, recent sale prices within the LID ranged from a low of $154,000 per unit for older product, with overall capitalization rates from 4.5% to 5.0%. At the upper end is Tower 12 Apartments, which was completed and sold in 2017 for $716,357 per unit. For newer, higher-end apartments, overall rates are as low as 4.0%. In the Addenda is a summary of apartment transactions within the recommended LID boundary that have occurred since January 2015.

As noted, the average apartment rental rate in the subject submarket is one of the highest in the region but another significant segment is subsidized housing, consisting of over 1,200 dwelling units. Most of these projects are encumbered by regulatory use agreements that run with the land. Because of the subsidies and use restrictions involved, no special benefit accrued to these complexes. Properties that do not have recorded regulatory agreements, those where a percentage of the units are subsidized, or buildings with imminent expiration dates are deemed to experience some degree of special benefit and are analyzed on an individual parcel basis.

Valuation Summary---With LID

In addition to review of the Seattle Market Area data in the Addenda, adjustments to the "without LID" valuation conclusions were made based on elements of similarity to projects completed in other cities, as previously discussed (Boston, Chicago, New York, Portland, San Francisco and Vancouver BC). These studies, along with others, were also utilized in the condominium valuation process.

With the LID in place, there is a new waterfront promenade, consisting of continuous open space on the west side of the waterfront corridor from Pine Street to South Washington Street, with enhanced landscaping and streetscapes. Pedestrian accessibility to the waterfront and view opportunities are greatly improved by the Overlook Walk and connection points west of the viewing area, leading down to the waterfront elevation. The Pike/Pine corridor improvements provide an enhanced pedestrian link to the Overlook Walk and connection points to the waterfront. Belltown has improved access from the Overlook Walk, as well as Elliott Avenue. Union Street features an excellent, visible access point to the waterfront from Western Avenue that is elevator-serviced. Additional street improvements within the Pioneer Square area provide a more aesthetically pleasing and "pedestrian friendly" link to the waterfront.

The main property types impacted by the Waterfront Seattle LID are summarized below, in the same general order as in the prior "without LID" discussion. The impacts on market value and estimated value changes from the prior analysis are based partly on discussions with Seattle area property owners/developers and real estate brokers, together with review of various similar projects in other cities and published economic studies.

Unlike most of the other major city projects discussed, some additional studies completed on open space/park elements, as well as examples in other cities like New York where several streetscapes and other open space projects were completed, reflect no view element difference. Positive market value increases for a wide variety of commercial uses and multi-family/condominium developments without view enhancements were well-supported. Boston also provides a good example of open space and pedestrian improvements to a major downtown waterfront area. Although portions of this project provided view amenity enhancement, other areas lacking improved view amenities also experienced positive market value increases for commercial (office, hotel, retail, multi-family/condominium) property. The other projects reviewed also offer similarities, particularly Vancouver BC, due to the abundance of condominium and apartment development, which provided good market evidence that the Waterfront Seattle project will increase value for these market types.

Land Value

Within the waterfront area, there are a few properties with market value consisting solely of land value. With the LID in place, developments can be created on these sites to take advantage of the new waterfront amenities; they reflect a slightly higher increase in market value than similarly situated improved property. Typical market value changes for waterfront land range from 3.5±% above estimated land value without the LID project, on the high end, to slightly less than 3.0% near Pioneer Square, where lesser LID-related improvements are being constructed.

Moving east from the waterfront, land values reflected gradually diminishing increases due to increasing distance from project improvements. Depending on location, land value increases generally ranged from less than 1% to below 2.5% of "without" market value. Belltown, Denny Triangle and the Stadium District areas experienced the lowest change in value, typically 1% or below, with the Pike/Pine corridor typically from 1% to 3% depending on specific location. Properties near the Overlook Walk (within the Pike/Pine corridor) were at the high end of the range and increases in value diminished further to the east, closer to Interstate 5.

Office/Retail

Many downtown office buildings contain some retail components. Depending on location, the LID project has a more positive impact on the retail market than on office space; this was considered in the "with LID" valuation analysis. Major retail buildings, such as Nordstrom and Macy's, have large office components (Macy's has been recently converted into both retail and office condominium uses), whereas Pacific Place and Westlake Center are stand-alone retail structures. The Pike Place Market and Pioneer Square vicinities are predominately retail in character although many of the buildings also contain a significant amount of office space. The historic preservation designations in these two areas, and other use restrictions in the Pike Place Market area, were considered in the "with LID" scenario. Property value increases are reflected in higher rental rates, lower vacancy and capitalization rates---indicating higher overall property values with the LID project completed.

The vicinity experiencing the largest estimated increases in value of retail/office properties encompassed the Overlook Walk, more particularly the Pike Place Market and lower Pike/Pine corridor. Market value estimates generally were 2% to slightly above 3% higher than estimated value without the project. Depending on location and property type, this level of increased value diminished moving east along the Pike/Pine corridor to 1% to 2% above estimated value without the project. There were similar 1% to 2% increases in value in the Pioneer Square area, although the increases were typically lower due to the less extensive LID improvements when compared to the Overlook Walk vicinity/lower Pike/Pine corridor. As with the land value discussion, Belltown, Denny Triangle and the Stadium District experienced the smallest changes in market value (typically 1% or less) due to distance from the LID improvements.

Hotel

As with the retail market, Seattle hotel properties typically experience a slightly larger change in value compared to a similarly situated commercial building, due primarily to projected increases in tourism resulting from the LID project. Higher room rates, restaurant/event sales increases, and lower vacancy/capitalization rates result in higher overall property values with the LID in place. The highest estimated increases in value are along Alaskan Way, near the Overlook Walk (Marriott Hotel) and other hotels such as The Inn at the Market situated near the major LID components. Estimated market value increases are 3+%, with others located further away from the waterfront and major LID components such as the Alexis Hotel, Hotel 1000, the W Hotel, Fairmont, Hyatt and Sheraton typically ranging from 1.5% to just above 2.5%. Increases in market value are estimated at less than 1% above value without the project for the Westin Hotel and others further away from the improvements.

As stated, increases in market value are reflected in average room rates and restaurant/event rentals, together with lower capitalization rates. Market value increases (special benefit) for hotel properties were typically slightly higher than for adjacent office or retail uses, with the exception of several major retailers (Pacific Place and Nordstrom) situated in desirable retail locations along the Pike/Pine corridor.

Apartment/Subsidized Housing

The downtown apartment market consists of units rented at market rates, as well as subsidized housing. Projects featuring market rental rate units reflected the highest increases in value along the waterfront (i.e., the Cyrene, for which special benefit is estimated at 3% above market value without the project), decreasing for properties further to the east, such as the Harbor Steps. Other apartment complexes located one to two blocks from the water typically reflected increases in value from 2.0% to 2.75%, depending on specific location. Belltown, due primarily to distance from the improvements, reflected much lower value increases, as did those in the Denny Triangle neighborhood. Also, estimated special benefit (market value increase) to multi-family residential complexes in the Pioneer Square and Stadium districts were below this range.

As noted, another significant segment of the multi-family residential market is subsidized housing, consisting of over 1,200 dwelling units in the LID recommended boundary area. Most of these projects are encumbered by regulatory use agreements that run with the land. Because of the subsidies and use restrictions involved, no special benefit accrued to those complexes. Properties without recorded regulatory agreements, those with only a percentage of the units subsidized, or buildings with imminent expiration dates on subsidies typically experience a minor special benefit and were analyzed on a case-by-case basis.

Residential Condominium

Projects involving similar improvements across the country were researched for indications of impacts on property values, and the geographic radius of special probable benefit, created by improvements similar to the Waterfront Seattle Project. Research included published studies and reports on waterfront, park and street beautification projects, as well as interviews with real estate brokers and appraisers in many of the affected neighborhoods. These projects are compared to the elements of the Seattle Waterfront LID to help understand how these project improvements affect real estate marketing times, demand and overall property values (see Addenda).

As noted, the research presents clear indications that well-designed park and street improvement projects have a positive effect on surrounding neighborhoods and property values. Parks and "walkable" streets spur more activity from nearby residents as well as create areas more inviting to tourists. These projects create a wider tax base for the city and create jobs in construction, public service, hotels, retail and services in nearby neighborhoods. It should be noted that many of the comparable projects include an enhanced view amenity, which is not considered for the subject LID since the Alaskan Way Viaduct replacement project is assumed to be complete in the "before" scenario and therefore the view amenity does not change due to the LID project.

Based on the research, there is measurable positive impact on market value of all property types within a three-block radius of an improved park with a lower yet still measurable value impact on properties up to twelve blocks away. Many studies show that approximately 75% of the benefit from an improved park is captured within the first three blocks and the remaining 25% dissipated for up to twelve blocks. This increase is well-supported in the value ranges indicated in New York, Boston, Portland and Chicago. These economic studies on parks and streetscape improvements reflected increases in property value of 5% on average, with some properties benefiting up to 10% of overall value. Urban amenity studies indicate a geographical radius of benefit within 12 blocks of the public improvement, but most significantly within the first three blocks.

In terms of direct residential impact, John Crompton's ongoing studies into the impact of parks on property values have been used by municipalities across the country. Crompton's "proximate principal" represents a "capitalization" of park land into increased property values and a widening of the tax base. One major finding based on his results deals with the location and proximity of property to the park improvements – both in urban and suburban environments:

- 75% of the benefit from a park is captured within 500 feet, or three city blocks.
- The remaining 25% of the benefit is likely dissipated over a 500- to 2,000-foot range, or 4 to 12 city blocks.

In summary, the studies discussed in this report are used as a basis of valuation, given the unique assumptions of the subject LID project. Properties located closest to the park areas/enhanced streetscapes experience the most special benefit. Based on the comparable projects researched and considering the project elements within the Seattle Waterfront LID, the "after" market value of multi-family residential properties is concluded to be less than 1% to 3% higher than the overall value without, or "before", the project.

Waterfront (Pier) Property

The waterfront properties are unique as they are mostly constructed on piers, on land leased from the State of Washington DNR (Department of Natural Resources) and consist of both leasehold value and leased fee value. As mentioned throughout this report, the conclusions presented (based on Washington State legal statues) are valuations of the fee simple interest. The highest estimated increases in value among the waterfront properties are near Piers 54 to 56; market value increases are estimated at 3% or above and recognize the parking losses compared to the "without LID" valuation scenario. Properties near the northern end of the waterfront within the recommended LID boundary include the Edgewater Hotel and Bell Harbor Conference Center/Marina; these parcels reflect market value increases (special benefit) of 1% to 2% of value without the project. Several special use properties, including the Seattle Aquarium and Washington State Ferries' Seattle Terminal, experience nominal increases in value.

As noted in studies of other projects in multiple cities across the country, special benefit due to these types of LID improvements has ranged up to a 5% change in market value. In this analysis, the maximum change in value for the waterfront parcels is 3.4%. These conclusions recognize that, while the properties benefit from enhanced relative location arising from the project, there is also a reduced amount of available parking in the vicinity, an important factor considered in the analysis.

Special Purpose Property

Aside from the waterfront area, the two most notable special purpose properties within the recommended LID boundary are CenturyLink Field and events center, and Safeco Field. Due to the unique nature of the improvements and large site sizes, estimated value increases are nominal and concluded to be less than .50% of estimated overall property value without the LID project.

In the analysis of special purpose properties, most reliance is placed on the Cost Approach; this methodology reflects the specialized improvements and unique nature of the current uses. The Sales Comparison Approach is not applicable since no known transactions involving professional athletic stadiums that can be compared directly with the subject stadiums have occurred within a reasonable time frame that could provide a reliable basis for comparison.

While analysis of the income stream generated by each facility is possible, an extensive amount of additional information would be required. Such information is not readily available to the public and would require extraordinary cooperation on the part of the property owner, as well as extensive review to segregate income sources attributable solely to the real estate as opposed to any number of business value categories associated with operation of the facilities. No available data was found regarding income, expenses or appropriate capitalization rates for such properties; therefore, the Income Approach method of estimating land and/or improvement value for the two stadiums is not used.

Other special purpose properties within the recommended LID boundary consist of churches, Benaroya Hall, the Seattle Art Museum and the Washington State Convention Center. Due to the special purpose nature of these improvements, the estimated increase in value due to the LID is concluded to be nominal (less than .5% of estimated market value without the project).

Summary

The table presented below pertains to the above valuation sections and is to be used for general discussion purposes. It summarizes the estimated special benefit ranges for each affected property type, based on the percentages of property value increase. It is noted that market value estimates without and with the LID project may fall outside of the summarized ranges for some individual parcels.

Estimated Special Benefit Ranges By Property Class

Property Class	Percentage of Property Value Increase
	High	Low
Land value	<4.00%	<0.50%
Office/Retail	<3.50%	<0.50%
Hotel	<3.50%	<1.00%
Apartment/Subsidized housing	3.00%	0.00%
Residential condominium	3.00%	<0.50%
Waterfront	<4.00%	<0.50%
Special purpose	<0.50%	<0.50%

The total cost for the above LID improvements is approximately $320 million, with funding provided through a variety of sources. Further discussion of both the before (without) and after (with) conditions is in prior sections of this report and a more detailed description is contained in the Addenda. There are several neighborhoods within the recommended LID boundary; properties within these areas experience different degrees of special benefit due to variations in proximity to the project elements and other factors that affect value.

As stated, the downtown/waterfront area was originally segregated into distinct study areas identified herein as "areas A, B, C, D and E". Properties within these areas experience different degrees of special benefit due to variations in proximity to the project elements and other factors that affect value. Based on analysis of these factors, the recommended boundaries of the specially benefited area, as shown on the exhibits in this document, encompass a somewhat smaller area than that covered by the five regions originally studied. As noted in the map's legend, it does not depict the final LID boundaries and does not mean all properties within the recommended boundary will be assessed.

The main valuation methods used are the Sales Comparison Approach and the Income Approach. Due to the special purpose nature of some of the properties (i.e., the sports stadiums), the Cost Approach was used on a limited basis. The primary reason the market reflects increased value due to the project is enhanced location, pedestrian connectivity and appeal created by the waterfront improvement amenities. In the Income Approach, this is reflected in increased rents and lower vacancy levels/capitalization rates as well as lower perceived investment risk. In the Sales Comparison Approach, higher land values and resulting overall property values result from improved market perception. These factors are interrelated in the decision-making process of an investor/developer/market participant when buying income-generating property like many properties in the study area. Condominium values typically increase due to enhanced location/appeal and positive market perception of the elements of the waterfront project. This study also recognizes that with the LID project constructed, Alaskan Way will be widened to eight lanes at the south end of the project. Additionally, some parking loss along Alaskan Way in the waterfront area will occur due to the project and this is considered in the analysis.

The conclusions reached herein are presented subject to the specific assumptions and limiting conditions listed following this section. The comments made on the currently strong downtown market trends are not meant to infer that the project would create further strong demand and intense development activity but rather that the new waterfront amenities and improved waterfront access would enhance positive trends already in evidence in the various downtown Seattle real estate markets. For example, as discussed in the "Seattle Market Data" section in the Addenda, there is a strong supply of new hotel, office, multi-family residential and retail space coming on-line in the subject area over the next several years. Although it is recognized that this new supply will be competing with existing space, the currently strong demand will be enhanced by the subject LID project and is expected to shorten the absorption period and aid in lowering vacancy rates, increasing rental rates and lowering capitalization rates for properties within the recommended LID boundary.

A map showing the recommended LID boundary, together with the spreadsheets of recommended preliminary assessments, follow the transmittal letter in this report. The findings resulting from this study, which is subject to the accompanying assumptions and limiting conditions, as of March 1, 2018, are as follows:

Residential & Associated Retail - Total Estimated Market Value Without LID	$ 4,295,511,100 (Rd)
All Other Properties - Total Estimated Market Value Without LID	$44,538,817,500 (Rd)
Total Estimated Market Value Without LID	$48,834,328,600 (Rd)
Residential & Associated Retail - Total Estimated Market Value With LID	$ 4,353,091,200 (Rd)
All Other Properties - Total Estimated Market Value With LID	$44,895,951,500 (Rd)
Total Estimated Market Value With LID	$49,249,042,700 (Rd)
Residential & Associated Retail - Special Benefit	$ 57,580,100 (Rd)
All Other Properties - Special Benefit	$ 357,134,000 (Rd)
Total Estimated Special Benefit	$ 414,714,100 (Rd)

As of the date of this document, the City of Seattle has not set the formation special benefit cost/benefit ratio. The formation special benefit cost/benefit ratio is anticipated to be determined in late May 2018. Multiplying the individual special benefit estimates for the affected parcels by this constant cost/benefit ratio results in recommended proportionate assessments to each parcel.

General Assumptions and Limiting Conditions

This report is subject to the following limiting conditions:

1. The legal description – if furnished to us – is assumed to be correct.

2. No responsibility is assumed for legal matters, questions of survey or title, soil or subsoil conditions, engineering, availability or capacity of utilities, or other similar technical matters. The appraisal does not constitute a survey of the property appraised. All existing liens and encumbrances have been disregarded and the property is appraised as though free and clear, under responsible ownership and competent management unless otherwise noted.

3. Unless otherwise noted, the appraisal will value the property as though free of contamination. Valbridge Property Advisors | Puget Sound will conduct no hazardous materials or contamination inspection of any kind. It is recommended that the client hire an expert if the presence of hazardous materials or contamination poses any concern.

4. The stamps and/or consideration placed on deeds used to indicate sales are in correct relationship to the actual dollar amount of the transaction.

5. Unless otherwise noted, it is assumed there are no encroachments, zoning violations or restrictions existing in the subject property.

6. The appraiser is not required to give testimony or attendance in court by reason of this appraisal, unless previous arrangements have been made.

7. Unless expressly specified in the engagement letter, the fee for this appraisal does not include the attendance or giving of testimony by Appraiser at any court, regulatory, or other proceedings, or any conferences or other work in preparation for such proceeding. If any partner or employee of Valbridge Property Advisors | Puget Sound is asked or required to appear and/or testify at any deposition, trial, or other proceeding about the preparation, conclusions or any other aspect of this assignment, client shall compensate Appraiser for the time spent by the partner or employee in appearing and/or testifying and in preparing to testify according to the Appraiser's then current hourly rate plus reimbursement of expenses.

8. The values for land and/or improvements, as contained in this report, are constituent parts of the total value reported and neither is (or are) to be used in making a summation appraisal of a combination of values created by another appraiser. Either is invalidated if so used.

9. The dates of value to which the opinions expressed in this report apply are set forth in this report. We assume no responsibility for economic or physical factors occurring at some point at a later date, which may affect the opinions stated herein. The forecasts, projections, or operating estimates contained herein are based on current market conditions and anticipated short-term supply and demand factors and are subject to change with future conditions.

10. The sketches, maps, plats and exhibits in this report are included to assist the reader in visualizing the property. The appraiser has made no survey of the property and assumed no responsibility in connection with such matters.

11. The information, estimates and opinions, which were obtained from sources outside of this office, are considered reliable. However, no liability for them can be assumed by the appraiser.

12. Possession of this report, or a copy thereof, does not carry with it the right of publication. Neither all, nor any part of the content of the report, or copy thereof (including conclusions as to property value, the identity of the appraisers, professional designations, reference to any professional appraisal organization or the firm with which the appraisers are connected), shall be disseminated to the public through advertising, public relations, news, sales, or other media without prior written consent and approval.

13. No claim is intended to be expressed for matters of expertise that would require specialized investigation or knowledge beyond that ordinarily employed by real estate appraisers. We claim no expertise in areas such as, but not limited to, legal, survey, structural, environmental, pest control, mechanical, etc.

14. This appraisal was prepared for the sole and exclusive use of the client for the function outlined herein. Any party who is not the client or intended user identified in the appraisal or engagement letter is not entitled to rely upon the contents of the appraisal without express written consent of Valbridge Property Advisors | Puget Sound and Client. The Client shall not include partners, affiliates, or relatives of the party addressed herein. The appraiser assumes no obligation, liability or accountability to any third party.

15. Distribution of this report is at the sole discretion of the client, but third-parties not listed as an intended user on the face of the appraisal or the engagement letter may not rely upon the contents of the appraisal. In no event shall client give a third-party a partial copy of the appraisal report. We will make no distribution of the report without the specific direction of the client.

16. This appraisal shall be used only for the function outlined herein, unless expressly authorized by Valbridge Property Advisors |Puget Sound.

17. This appraisal shall be considered in its entirety. No part thereof shall be used separately or out of context.

18. Unless otherwise noted in the body of this report, this appraisal assumes that the subject property does not fall within the areas where mandatory flood insurance is effective. Unless otherwise noted, we have not completed nor have we contracted to have completed an investigation to identify and/or quantify the presence of non-tidal wetland conditions on the subject property. Because the appraiser is not a surveyor, he or she makes no guarantees, express or implied, regarding this determination.

19. The flood maps are not site specific. We are not qualified to confirm the location of the subject property in relation to flood hazard areas based on the FEMA Flood Insurance Rate Maps or other surveying techniques. It is recommended that the client obtain a confirmation of the subject's flood zone classification from a licensed surveyor.

20. If the appraisal is for mortgage loan purposes 1) we assume satisfactory completion of improvements if construction is not complete, 2) no consideration has been given for rent loss during rent-up unless noted in the body of this report, and 3) occupancy at levels consistent with our "Income and Expense Projection" are anticipated.

21. It is assumed that there are no hidden or unapparent conditions of the property, subsoil, or structures which would render it more or less valuable. No responsibility is assumed for such conditions or for engineering which may be required to discover them.

22. Our inspection included an observation of the land and improvements thereon only. It was not possible to observe conditions beneath the soil or hidden structural components within the improvements. We inspected the buildings involved, and reported damage (if any) by termites, dry rot, wet rot, or other infestations as a matter of information, and no guarantee of the amount or degree of damage (if any) is implied. Condition of heating, cooling, ventilation, electrical and plumbing equipment is considered to be commensurate with the condition of the balance of the improvements unless otherwise stated. Should the client have concerns in these areas, it is the client's responsibility to order the appropriate inspections. The appraiser does not have the skill or expertise to make such inspections and assumes no responsibility for these items.

23. This appraisal does not guarantee compliance with building code and life safety code requirements of the local jurisdiction. It is assumed that all required licenses, consents, certificates of occupancy or other legislative or administrative authority from any local, state or national governmental or private entity or organization have been or can be obtained or renewed for any use on which the value conclusion contained in this report is based unless specifically stated to the contrary.

24. When possible, we have relied upon building measurements provided by the client, owner, or associated agents of these parties. In the absence of a detailed rent roll, reliable public records, or "as-built" plans provided to us, we have relied upon our own measurements of the subject improvements. We follow typical appraisal industry methods; however, we recognize that some factors may limit our ability to obtain accurate measurements including, but not limited to, property access on the day of inspection, basements, fenced/gated areas, grade elevations, greenery/shrubbery, uneven surfaces, multiple story structures, obtuse or acute wall angles, immobile obstructions, etc. Professional building area measurements of the quality, level of detail, or accuracy of professional measurement services are beyond the scope of this appraisal assignment.

25. We have attempted to reconcile sources of data discovered or provided during the appraisal process, including assessment department data. Ultimately, the measurements that are deemed by us to be the most accurate and/or reliable are used within this report. While the measurements and any accompanying sketches are considered to be reasonably accurate and reliable, we cannot guarantee their accuracy. Should the client desire a greater level of measuring detail, they are urged to retain the measurement services of a qualified professional (space planner, architect or building engineer). We reserve the right to use an alternative source of building size and amend the analysis, narrative and concluded values (at additional cost) should this alternative measurement source reflect or reveal substantial differences with the measurements used within the report.

26. In the absence of being provided with a detailed land survey, we have used assessment department data to ascertain the physical dimensions and acreage of the property. Should a survey prove this information to be inaccurate, we reserve the right to amend this appraisal (at additional cost) if substantial differences are discovered.

27. If only preliminary plans and specifications were available for use in the preparation of this appraisal, then this appraisal is subject to a review of the final plans and specifications when available (at additional cost) and we reserve the right to amend this appraisal if substantial differences are discovered.

28. Unless otherwise stated in this report, the value conclusion is predicated on the assumption that the property is free of contamination, environmental impairment or hazardous materials. Unless otherwise stated, the existence of hazardous material was not observed by the appraiser and the appraiser has no knowledge of the existence of such materials on or in the property. The appraiser, however, is not qualified to detect such substances. The presence of substances such as asbestos, urea-formaldehyde foam insulation, or other potentially hazardous materials may affect the value of the property. No responsibility is assumed for any such conditions, or for any expertise or engineering knowledge required for discovery. The client is urged to retain an expert in this field, if desired.

29. The Americans with Disabilities Act ("ADA") became effective January 26, 1992. We have not made a specific compliance survey of the property to determine if it is in conformity with the various requirements of the ADA. It is possible that a compliance survey of the property, together with an analysis of the requirements of the ADA, could reveal that the property is not in compliance with one or more of the requirements of the Act. If so, this could have a negative effect on the value of the property. Since we have no direct evidence relating to this issue, we did not consider possible noncompliance with the requirements of ADA in developing an opinion of value.

30. This appraisal applies to the land and building improvements only. The value of trade fixtures, furnishings, and other equipment, or subsurface rights (minerals, gas, and oil) were not considered in this appraisal unless specifically stated to the contrary.

31. No changes in any federal, state or local laws, regulations or codes (including, without limitation, the Internal Revenue Code) are anticipated, unless specifically stated to the contrary.

32. Any income and expense estimates contained in the appraisal report are used only for the purpose of estimating value and do not constitute prediction of future operating results. Furthermore, it is inevitable that some assumptions will not materialize and that unanticipated events may occur that will likely affect actual performance.

33. Any estimate of insurable value, if included within the scope of work and presented herein, is based upon figures developed consistent with industry practices. However, actual local and regional construction costs may vary significantly from our estimate and individual insurance policies and underwriters have varied specifications, exclusions, and non-insurable items. As such, we strongly recommend that the Client obtain estimates from professionals experienced in establishing insurance coverage. This analysis should not be relied upon to determine insurance coverage and we make no warranties regarding the accuracy of this estimate.

34. The data gathered in the course of this assignment (except data furnished by the Client) shall remain the property of the Appraiser. The appraiser will not violate the confidential nature of the appraiser-client relationship by improperly disclosing any confidential information furnished to the appraiser. Notwithstanding the foregoing, the Appraiser is authorized by the client to disclose all or any portion of the appraisal and related appraisal data to appropriate representatives of the Appraisal Institute if such disclosure is required to enable the appraiser to comply with the Bylaws and Regulations of such Institute now or hereafter in effect.

35. You and Valbridge Property Advisors | Puget Sound both agree that any dispute over matters in excess of $5,000 will be submitted for resolution by arbitration. This includes fee disputes and any claim of malpractice. The arbitrator shall be mutually selected. If Valbridge Property Advisors | Puget Sound and the client cannot agree on the arbitrator, the presiding head of the Local County Mediation & Arbitration panel shall select the arbitrator. Such arbitration shall be binding and final. In agreeing to arbitration, we both acknowledge that, by agreeing to binding arbitration, each of us is giving up the right to have the dispute decided in a court of law before a judge or jury. In the event that the client, or any other party, makes a claim against Valbridge Property Advisors | Puget Sound or any of its employees in connections with or in any way relating to this assignment, the maximum damages recoverable by such claimant shall be the amount actually received by Valbridge Property Advisors | Puget Sound for this assignment, and under no circumstances shall any claim for consequential damages be made.

36. Valbridge Property Advisors | Puget Sound shall have no obligation, liability, or accountability to any third party. Any party who is not the "client" or intended user identified on the face of the appraisal or in the engagement letter is not entitled to rely upon the contents of the appraisal without the express written consent of Valbridge Property Advisors | Puget Sound. "Client" shall not include partners, affiliates, or relatives of the party named in the engagement letter. Client shall hold Valbridge Property Advisors | Puget Sound and its employees harmless in the event of any lawsuit brought by any third party, lender, partner, or part-owner in any form of ownership or any other party as a result of this assignment. The client also agrees that in case of lawsuit arising from or in any way involving these appraisal services, client will hold Valbridge Property Advisors | Puget Sound harmless from and against any liability, loss, cost, or expense incurred or suffered by Valbridge Property Advisors | Puget Sound in such action, regardless of its outcome.

37. The Valbridge Property Advisors office responsible for the preparation of this report is independently owned and operated by Valbridge Property Advisors | Puget Sound. Neither Valbridge Property Advisors, Inc., nor any of its affiliates has been engaged to provide this report. Valbridge Property Advisors, Inc. does not provide valuation services, and has taken no part in the preparation of this report.

38. If any claim is filed against any of Valbridge Property Advisors, Inc., a Florida Corporation, its affiliates, officers or employees, or the firm providing this report, in connection with, or in any way arising out of, or relating to, this report, or the engagement of the firm providing this report, then (1) under no circumstances shall such claimant be entitled to consequential, special or other damages, except only for direct compensatory damages, and (2) the maximum amount of such compensatory damages recoverable by such claimant shall be the amount actually received by the firm engaged to provide this report.

39. This report and any associated work files may be subject to evaluation by Valbridge Property Advisors, Inc., or its affiliates, for quality control purposes.

40. Acceptance and/or use of this appraisal report constitutes acceptance of the foregoing general assumptions and limiting conditions.

Certification – Robert J. Macaulay, MAI

I certify that, to the best of my knowledge and belief:

1. The statements of fact contained in this summary report are true and correct.
2. The reported analyses, opinions, and conclusions are limited only by the reported assumptions and limiting conditions and are my personal, impartial, and unbiased professional analyses, opinions, and conclusions.
3. I have no present or prospective interest in the property that is the subject of this report and no personal interest with respect to the parties involved.
4. I have performed consultation services for the City of Seattle regarding the Waterfront Seattle Project and the property that is the subject of this report within the three-year period immediately preceding acceptance of this assignment.
5. I have no bias with respect to the property that is the subject of this report or to the parties involved with this assignment.
6. My engagement in this assignment was not contingent upon developing or reporting predetermined results.
7. My compensation for completing this assignment is not contingent upon the development or reporting of a predetermined value or direction in value that favors the cause of the client, the amount of value opinion, the attainment of a stipulated result, or the occurrence of a subsequent event directly related to the intended use of this appraisal.
8. My analyses, opinions and conclusions were developed, and this report has been prepared, in conformity with the Uniform Standards of Professional Appraisal Practice.
9. I have made a personal (exterior) inspection of most of the property that is the subject of this report.
10. Mr. Greg Goodman, Mr. Paul Bird, Ms. Mary Hamel and Ms. Ashley Zacharia provided assistance in researching, valuation analysis and report writing.
11. It should be noted that Mr. Matthew Sloan, MAI, one of Valbridge Property Advisors | Puget Sound's partners, resides in the Olive 8 condominium development and he has not participated in any valuation process for this formation study. Additionally, Mr. Robert Macaulay, MAI, is acquainted with several owners of condominiums located within the recommended LID boundary.
12. The reported analyses, opinions and conclusions were developed, and this report has been prepared, in conformity with the requirements of the Code of Professional Ethics and Standards of Professional Appraisal Practice of the Appraisal Institute.
13. The use of this report is subject to the requirements of the Appraisal Institute relating to review by its duly authorized representatives.
14. As of the date of this report, I have completed the continuing education program for Designated Members of the Appraisal Institute.

ADDITIONAL REPORTING REQUIREMENTS

Client

The client for this assignment is the City of Seattle, Seattle Department of Finance and Administrative Services.

Intended Use/Users

The intended use of this memorandum is to assist the City in recommending a boundary for the district and preliminary assessments to affected properties for the purpose of forming a Local Improvement District (LID) based on the estimated special benefit (increase in market value) resulting from the Waterfront Seattle LID Project. Supporting documentation concerning the data, reasoning and analyses is retained in the appraiser's file. The depth of discussion contained in this memorandum is specific to the needs of the client and per the limited scope of this analysis, and for only the intended use stated above. This memorandum is authorized for use by the client and its agents, representatives and legal counsel.

Effective Date of Study

The effective date of this study is March 1, 2018.

Purpose of the Analysis

The purpose of this analysis is to provide estimates of special benefit (market value increase) accruing to the varying ownerships within the Waterfront Seattle LID study area.

Legal Description

No defined legal description of the Waterfront Seattle LID study area was provided, and it is assumed that one will be prepared by City staff. Each individual parcel is identified by its King County Assessor's Tax Parcel Number (TPN). Due to the large amount of data, two spreadsheets based on King County Assessor's information were compiled showing various characteristics of individual parcels such as property owner, address, land area, building area, zoning, etc.

Property Rights Analyzed

The property rights analyzed in this memorandum constitute the fee simple interest.

Scope of the Study

In preparing this study, property data and physical characteristics were researched and exterior inspections performed of all the properties within the study area. Comparable improvement projects and their documented impact on surrounding/proximate property values were also researched, in order to refine ranges in probable special benefit to affected properties in the vicinity of the waterfront project into individual estimates of market value of each parcel, without and with completion of the LID project as described.

A summary of work and research completed for this assignment follows:

- Researched land and improved sales, rents, operating expenses, vacancy rates, and capitalization rates.
- Analyzed historical and current market information from the subject market area and competitive neighborhoods in nearby areas.
- Researched CoStar, CBA, NWMLS, Metroscan and King County Assessor databases.
- Researched Valbridge Property Advisors Puget Sound | Allen Brackett Shedd's existing databases.
- Reviewed all documents as cited throughout this report.
- Researched comparable waterfront/parks/streetscape projects throughout the United States.

Given the large number of properties within the project area, the appraiser did not conduct thorough (interior and exterior) inspections of each individual property, nor were property owners solicited for the most current, property-specific information. This level of investigation would be typical in appraising individual properties but is beyond the scope of a mass appraisal assignment for the possible formation of an LID. In addition, due to the large number of properties involved and limited scope of the assignment, individual appraisal reports for each property were not prepared; rather, a master spreadsheet with relevant property information was developed. Such an approach conforms to USPAP and is typical for large LID projects (see "Local and Road Improvement Districts Manual for Washington State," Sixth Edition).

Definitions

Fair Market Value - Fair Market Value is the amount in cash which a well-informed buyer, willing but not obliged to buy the property, would pay, and which a well-informed seller, willing but not obligated to sell it, would accept, taking into consideration all uses to which the property is adapted or may be reasonably adaptable.[1]

Fee Simple - Absolute ownership unencumbered by any other interest or estate, subject only to the limitations imposed by the governmental powers of taxation, eminent domain, police power, and escheat.[2]

Highest and Best Use - The reasonably probable and legal use of vacant land or an improved property, which is physically possible, appropriately supported, financially feasible, and that results in the highest value. The four criteria the highest and best use must meet legal permissibility, physical possibility, financial feasibility, and maximum profitability[3]

Special benefit - The difference in the fair market value of the property without the improvement and the fair market value of the property with the improvement (commonly called "before and after," more properly called "without and with").4

Area Description

Demographic, economic and growth data on western Washington, King County and the City of Seattle's neighborhoods were reviewed to inform the analysis; this data can be furnished on request.

Hypothetical Conditions

This term is defined as a condition, directly related to a specific assignment, which is contrary to what is known by the appraiser to exist on the effective date of the assignment results, but is used for the purpose of analysis.

The without LID (before) and with LID (after) conditions are assumed to be as described in this memorandum.

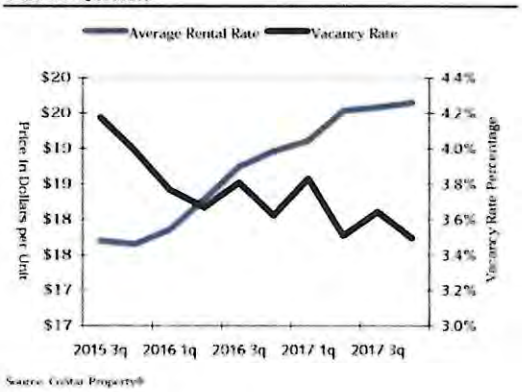
Extraordinary Assumptions

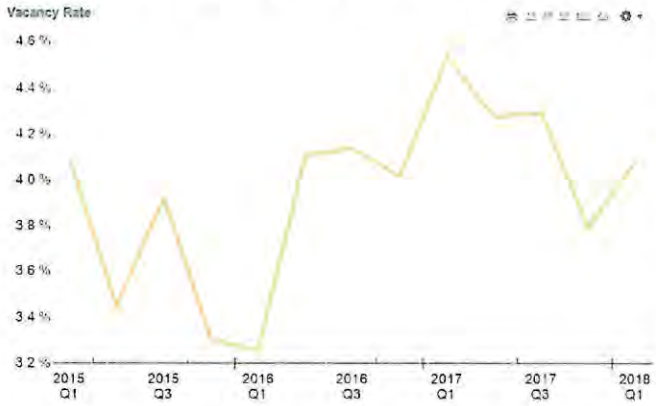
This term is defined as an assumption, directly related to a specific assignment, as of the effective date of the assignment results, which, if found to be false, could alter the appraiser's opinions or conclusions. It presumes as fact otherwise uncertain information about the legal, physical or economic characteristics of the subject property.

SEATTLE MARKET DATA

Retail Market

According to a 4th quarter 2017 retail study of the three-county region (King, Snohomish and Pierce counties) by CoStar, the overall retail vacancy rate was 3.5%, down from 3.8% at the end of last year. Quoted average retail rental rates for the region were $19.65 per square foot, which has been increasing slowly over the past two years. During the fourth quarter of 2017, two retail buildings totaling 16,106 square feet were completed with another 868,909 SF under construction. During all of 2017, almost a million (983,840 SF) of retail space was constructed. In the fourth quarter of 2017, 19 sales of retail space were reported at an average sale price of $250.35/SF and average capitalization rates were reported at 6.50%.





The LID area is within the "Downtown Seattle" submarket as defined by CoStar, more specifically described as the Seattle CBD, Belltown/Denny, and Pioneer Square/Waterfront market areas. Per CoStar, there are currently 230 retail buildings in the submarket totaling 5,003,691 SF with an overall reported vacancy of 4.1% and quoted rental rates averaging $26.81 per square foot.

The Seattle CBD maintains the highest rental rates, currently reported at an average of $35.81 per square foot, compared to averages of $23.15/SF averages in Pioneer Square/Waterfront area and $25.33/SF in the Belltown/Denny neighborhoods. Belltown/Denny includes 129 retail buildings with an average of 4.8% vacancy. The Pioneer Square/Waterfront neighborhoods include 46 retail buildings with a current vacancy rate of 3.1% and the Seattle CBD offers 51 buildings with a current vacancy of 3.0%. There are no general retail buildings reported as being under construction in these neighborhoods per CoStar; however, with retail space components included in the overall design, including the Rainier Tower project, are in various stages of development/construction.

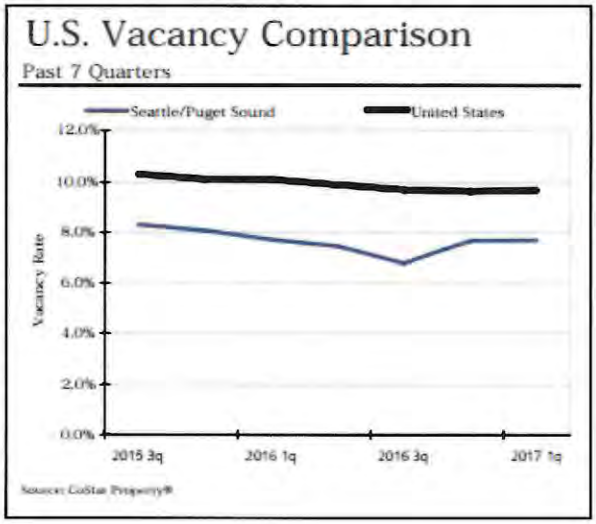
Belltown/Denny Triangle	129 Buildings 1,550,044 sq.ft.	4.8%	0	$25.33
Pioneer Square/Waterfront	46 Buildings 566,486 sq.ft.	3.1%	0	$23.15
Seattle CBD	51 Buildings 2,702,415 sq.ft.	3.0%	0	$35.81

Office Market

The 1st quarter 2017 vacancy rate of 7.7% in the Puget Sound area (King, Snohomish and Pierce counties) has been on a gradually declining trend since 2011. Average rental rates for the region were $30.96/SF over all office classes; Class A space was $40.76/SF, Class B was $26.70/SF and Class C was $21.53/SF. Three buildings totaling 78,358 SF were completed in the first quarter of 2017 with another 8,021,277 SF under construction. There were 55 reported sales of office buildings in the fourth quarter of 2017 with an average sale price of $403.70/SF, up from the average of $356.25/SF the previous quarter. Capitalization rates for office space averaged 6.38% over 2016.



In the fourth quarter of 2017, the Downtown Seattle submarket had 10 buildings with various office components under construction containing a total of 2,779,567 SF of dedicated office space; a reported 77.6% of this space has been preleased. There are currently 315 office buildings in the submarket that total 46,619,579 SF with an average vacancy of 10.1% and quoted rental rates averaging $42.52 per square foot; Class A was $46.67/SF, Class B was $37.59/SF and Class C was $22.02/SF. As of year-end 2017, 8 of the top 11 construction projects in the region are located within the Downtown Seattle submarket, 7 of which are Class A buildings and 1 is Class B. Recent construction included the newly finished Amazon II building, which opened in the third quarter of 2017 and was 100% preleased. It features 37 floors and 1,100,000± SF of Class A office space. The Block 20 building is similar in size, 100% preleased, and expected to be complete by the end of the first quarter of 2018.

The Seattle CBD maintains the highest office rental rates, currently reported at an average of $35.43 per square foot across all three classes, compared to $34.99/SF in the Pioneer Square/Waterfront and $34.77/SF in the Belltown/Denny neighborhoods. Belltown/Denny features 29 Class A office buildings with an average of 6.6% vacancy. The Pioneer Square/Waterfront neighborhoods include 10 Class A buildings with a current average vacancy rate of 4.2% and the Seattle CBD offers 34 Class A buildings with a current vacancy of 14.5% (several Class A buildings recently came online, lease-up is expected within the next three months). There is currently 2,988,407 SF of office space under construction in the subject neighborhoods; all is designated Class A space. The following tables show statistics by class (A, B, C) for the three subject downtown neighborhoods (as defined by the commercial market data research service CoStar).

Industrial Market

The Seattle CBD does not contain any significant industrial space. Most of the submarket's industrial space is within the Pioneer Square/Waterfront neighborhoods, where 9 buildings with 438,654 SF of space are fully leased, with an average vacancy of 0%. Rental rates average $6.25/SF for warehouse space and $19.60/SF for flex, as shown in the tables below. Many of the existing, older industrial uses in this area are being converted to higher intensity development such as office space and condominium units.

Apartment Market

The regional apartment market (King, Pierce, Snohomish, Thurston and Kitsap counties) was the first category to recover from the recession. Per the market research firm of Kidder Mathews, intense development started in 2012 with more than 31,900 units delivered between 2012 and 2016. Of the 68,162 units planned for delivery over the next five years, 28,321 are located in the Seattle market. Seattle multi-family vacancy is currently 3.9% and newly constructed space is only expected to increase vacancy temporarily as there is consistent demand. Partially offsetting new construction is the loss of units demolished or converted to other uses such as condominiums.

The table below lists sales of apartment complexes within the recommended LID boundary that have occurred since 2015, along with their LID map numbers.

Condominium Market

To gain insights into the study area's overall 2017 residential condominium market, both for new construction and overall residential sites, a review of Northwest Multiple Listing Service (NWMLS) information for median housing prices, marketing times and numbers of units sold has been conducted. The subject LID vicinity is within MLS designated area number 710. It should be noted that these statistics are only for properties listed through the NWMLS service; while most resales are conducted through this system, newer condominium units and buildings under construction that conduct pre-sales will often contract their sales with a specific real estate firm and the units are not necessarily entered into the NWMLS database.

Condominium sale prices were on a downward trend through 2012; starting in 2013, however, prices began to display gradual upward momentum, with significant gains of 15% and 26% over the last two years. In addition to recovering home prices, the average number of days required to sell a condo unit (marketing period) has steadily declined to lows of 14 to 15 days and the volume of overall sales continues to gradually increase. As shown on the above graph, average sale prices for newly constructed condominium units increased dramatically between 2015 and 2016 before leveling off at almost $900,000 in 2017.

Discussions with area brokers indicate that, after years of sluggish sales of older condo units and no new construction, the area is experiencing a strong developer/sellers' market; there are not currently enough units on the market to meet demand and units are often selling for above list price with multiple offers. This rebound has been building, but many brokers indicate that the largest increases in potential buyer interest have been in the last year. The significant number of new residents moving to Seattle for employment in the South Lake Union and Downtown markets, combined with overall high rental rates and long commute times, has created a larger pool of buyers interested in purchasing centrally-located condo units. This is especially true for buildings within the north downtown neighborhoods of West Edge and Denny Triangle. After years with no new condominium construction, a search of New Home Trends for the Downtown Seattle market reveals a total of 18 listed "future" projects that include residential condominium components located within the overall LID area.

However, per a recent report from Urban Condo Spaces, a Seattle-based real estate research group, in January 2018, there were just 15 recorded sales of condo units in the Downtown Seattle market; in January 2017, there were 35 sales, representing a 52% decline. This is attributed to the depleted inventory of older condominiums, with the thought that many sellers are choosing not to move out of older and/or smaller units due to the current lack of new/fresh inventory. As of January 2018, Downtown Seattle had just 52 condominium units available for sale; that number includes new construction. Current projects (including the Gridiron) are close to selling out and the Nexus project is over 92% pre-sold.

Hotel Market

According to Kidder Mathews 4th quarter 2017 "Hotel Market Review", hotel occupancy rates in the Seattle area were essentially unchanged from the previous year, both within and outside the Seattle metro area. This comes after a very strong year in 2016 with rates at 84% for the upscale tier, which is the highest annual rate in 30 years. Per this report, 2017 will likely mark the peak of the current business cycle for hotel rooms in western Washington.

Although room prices rose during the year, the rate of increase has moderated and the strongest growth came in markets outside the downtown core. In the tri-county region of King, Pierce and Snohomish, more than 4,000 rooms are slated to open in 2018 and lower occupancy rates and stagnation in room prices are expected. According to John Gordon, Kidder Mathews' senior vice president, the Seattle area hotel market tends to operate on an 8 to 10-year cycle and that the recent large increase in supply may result in the occupancy rate dropping below 70% by 2019 or so. Although, he added," The demand for hotels in Seattle is not going down, it's continuing to increase. The market occupancy percentage is simply the ratio of supply and demand. So, we could have demand growing at 5 to 10 percent a year, but if the supply grows by 20 percent then the occupancy percentage will go down."

Among western Washington hotel markets, those in Seattle and SeaTac achieved the highest room prices in 2017. Seattle and SeaTac hotels also generated the highest occupancy rates, with annual averages of 80±% but remaining at 84% for upscale downtown hotels. The 2017 average daily room rate for upscale hotels in the downtown/south Lake Union market was $192, a 2.1% increase over the prior year (extrapolated from partial year results and adjusted for seasonality).

According to the Kidder Mathews report, excluding bed & breakfast inns and older independent motels, the tri-county lodging market now encompasses about 300 properties and 45,000± guest rooms. At year end 2017, 20 hotels with about 4,550 guest rooms were under construction, with at least as many rooms in additional projects proposed for the region.

Hotels that opened in 2016 included a Residence Inn in the University District, a Hampton Inn & Suites near Northgate Mall and the Thompson Hotel in downtown. In the region in 2017, 13 new hotels opened and at least 20 more are under construction. Most of the recent openings were in eastern King County with only one, an extended-stay Residence Inn at 1815 Terry Avenue with 302 rooms, near downtown Seattle.

Of the 18 or so properties slated for openings in 2018, per Kidder Mathews, five are located downtown: Moxy, a select hotel at 1016 Republican Street; Embassy Suites (full service) at 255 S King Street; 801 Fifth Avenue (full service); The Charter (select) at 1608 2nd Avenue; and the Hyatt Regency (convention) at 800 Howell Street, representing a total of 2,103 new rooms.

There were 23 significant sales of hotels in the Puget Sound region in 2017 at prices of more than $2M, per Kidder Mathews, excluding national portfolios, resorts and potential tear downs. These transactions included 2,005 guest rooms at an average weighted price per room of $206,906, down 10% from the record average of $228,871/room in 2016. In January 2016, the 120-room Hotel 1000 in downtown Seattle sold for $83.5M or $695,833/room, which is the highest price ever recorded in this market. In 2017, there were four sales at prices over $50M. The 222-room Hilton Garden Inn (built in 2015, on the northern edge of the Seattle downtown core) sold for $88M or just under $400,000 per room; the Pan Pacific (built in 2006 downtown) sold for $79M or $516,340/room; the Kimpton Alexis (built in 1904/1982 downtown) sold for $71.625M or $591,942/room; and the Hotel Deca (built in 1931 in the University District) sold for $55M or $348,101/room.

DESCRIPTION OF "BEFORE AND AFTER" LID CONDITIONS (PROVIDED BY THE CITY OF SEATTLE)

LID "Before" Conditions

Under the "Before" condition, none of the LID Project Elements would be built. However, as a result of several ongoing projects that are separate from those elements, conditions in the area would be different from those that currently exist. Major changes assumed to be in place under the "Before" condition are:

- The Alaskan Way Viaduct Replacement Project (AWVRP) will be complete, with the viaduct eliminated and the SR 99 tunnel in operation.
- The Seawall project will be complete and will include a new sidewalk inset with light-penetrating surface (LPS).
- The Pike Place MarketFront (MarketFront) Project will be complete.
- The Pier 62/63 Phase 1 rebuild will be complete.

In addition, the "Before" condition assumes a rebuilt "Main Corridor" (see description below). It would serve some of the functions that will no longer be provided by SR 99 after the Alaskan Way Viaduct, serve both local and regional transportation needs and providing access between SR 99, downtown Seattle, and northwest Seattle. The proposed improvements would consist of:

- Construction of the new Alaskan Way between S King Street and Pine Street, along the east side of the right of way
- Construction of a new arterial connection, called Elliott Way, which would follow the path of the existing Alaskan Way Viaduct from Alaskan Way at Pine Street up the hill into Belltown, where it would connect with Elliott and Western Avenues
- A new intersection at Pine Street (referred to as the Pine Street extension) that would connect the new Alaskan Way and new Elliott Way with the existing Alaskan Way north of Pier 62/63
- A dedicated transit lane in each direction along Alaskan Way between S. King Street and Columbia Street and on Columbia Street between Alaskan Way and First Avenue

- Northbound ferry queuing lanes between S. King Street and Yesler Way, which include double left-turn lanes between S. Main Street and Yesler Way onto Colman Dock
- On-street parking and loading zones located along the curbside where space is available

Improvements for pedestrians would include wider sidewalks along the east and west sides of the new Alaskan Way. Sidewalks would continue along both sides of Elliott Way, with other pedestrian improvements including:

- Rebuilding the portion of the Marion Street pedestrian bridge over Alaskan Way, which connects to the Seattle Ferry Terminal.
- Reconstructing sidewalks and parking at Seneca Street between Alaskan Way and Western Avenue.
- Reconnecting the Lenora Street pedestrian bridge to the new Elliott Way.

A two-way bicycle facility would run along the west side of the new Alaskan Way. The facility would begin at S. King Street and continue north on the west side of Alaskan Way to about Virginia Street, where it would cross the road to join the existing path on the east side of the roadway. At the new intersection with Elliott Way, the bicycle facility would transition to separate northbound and southbound paths that would connect with existing bicycle lanes on Elliott and Western Avenues in Belltown.

Within the footprint of the proposed "Promenade" LID element, the City could either install an extensive sidewalk or a double aisle, 60-degree angled parking arrangement between Union and Pike streets, and a single aisle parking arrangement between Union and Madison Street, totaling 115 new parking spaces.

— LID "After" Conditions

Promenade

The Promenade would be a continuous public open space along the west side of the new Main Corridor from S King Street to Pine Street that would be designed for walking, sitting, gathering, and viewing the waterfront. The "Light Penetrating Surface" panels which constitute the westernmost 15± feet of the future promenade and were built with the seawall are considered part of the "Before" condition and so are not factored into the LID special benefit calculations for the Promenade. The southern end of the Promenade would be adjacent to the Washington Street Boat Landing and Pioneer Square. Design features and landscaping would create a series of three different environments, or "places," in specific segments of the Promenade that would reflect the character of the surrounding areas. From south to north, these places are:

- Colman Dock Transit Hub – This area would support the regional transit hub in front of the Seattle Ferry Terminal. It would accommodate the heavy pedestrian, bicycle, and vehicle traffic coming through the Yesler Way, Columbia Street, and Marion Street intersections. The area's primary design features would be a grouping of trees, seating, and bicycle facilities. The curb zones along Alaskan Way near the Colman Dock Transit Hub would be designed to accommodate general-purpose vehicles, transit, taxi, and ADA drop-offs and pick-ups.

- Historic Piers 54 through 59 – This area of the Promenade would be a wide-open space along the front of the piers. Along its east edge, the Promenade would have a narrow path that would traverse planted terraces. These areas would provide social and gathering spaces. The lower terraces would be designed to collect storm water runoff from the Promenade. Kiosks would be located in this area of the Promenade near Spring, Seneca, University, and Union Streets (the LID does not fund the construction of the kiosks).
- Aquarium Plaza – This area would be a public space between the south edge of Pier 59 and Pine Street, the existing Aquarium to the west and the future Aquarium Ocean Pavilion to the east. It will include planting, seating, lighting and room for walking and gathering.

Artwork is anticipated to be installed in several locations, primarily along the Promenade. The planning and design efforts for artwork installations are being led by the City's Office of Arts and Culture (the LID does not cover the installation of public art).

New, permanent railings would replace the temporary railings installed by the Seawall project at the western edge of the Light Penetrating Surface panels. The remainder of the Promenade would be constructed of an architectural concrete surface that would feature exposed aggregate and metal inlays.

A linear canopy of trees would provide a buffer between the Promenade, bicycle facility, and Alaskan Way along the majority of the street. The species mix would combine native plants with non-native, non-invasive, and salt-tolerant species. Many areas have been identified as open planting areas, which would be completely pervious. Where paving is required adjacent to planting zones, a supported pavement system would provide tree roots with access to soil underneath the adjacent pavement.

Lighting along the Promenade would be designed in a layered pattern to provide visual interest and wayfinding clarity. The Promenade would include pedestrian-scale lighting. In some locations, LED light sources would provide low-level illumination of benches, handrails, planters and pathways.

Visualization of the Promenade, looking south from Union Street Pier (Waterfront Park)

Overlook Walk

The Overlook Walk would occupy existing and new public space south of Victor Steinbrueck Park, west of Pike Place Market, and northeast of the existing Seattle Aquarium. The Overlook Walk begins east of Elliott Way and west of MarketFront, with walkways, landscaping and play elements above building space below fronting on Elliott Way. That space connects to a lid structure spanning Elliott Avenue, a café and covered terrace atop the space, staircases, and one elevator. The lid would include pedestrian pathways, open space, and landscaping that would extend southwest from the Pike Place Market across the new Alaskan Way, where the lid would be approximately 28 feet above the new surface street. Space for park operations and maintenance, as well as public restrooms, would be provided under the staircases.

On the west side of Alaskan Way, staircases and an elevator would connect down to the Promenade near the Seattle Aquarium. On the east side of the Elliott Way-Pine Street intersection, a set of stairs and an elevator would connect Overlook Walk to Elliott Way.

The Overlook Walk lid would include approximately 47,000 square feet of public open space that would provide public gathering spaces with opportunities for scenic views. The lid also would create an accessible pedestrian pathway with many connections between Pike Place Market and the waterfront, thereby providing opportunities to enhance the pedestrian experience and revitalize the area. Views from the lid would include Elliott Bay to the west and the piers to the south as well as city views from several vantage points. The public open space would include landscaping and benches to provide seating at various points.

Union Street Pedestrian Connection Schematic Design between Alaskan Way and Western Avenue

Pioneer Square Street Improvements

Improvements to Pioneer Square streetscape will include locations on S. Main, S. Washington, Yesler Way, and S. King Streets. The improvements would include new sidewalk paving and landscaping to create more pedestrian-friendly links between the waterfront and Pioneer Square. Improvements could include curb extensions, new seating opportunities and coordinated development of sidewalk cafes with food and beverage uses fronting on these streets. Because this area lies within the Pioneer Square Preservation District, improvements would be made in accordance with the Preservation District guidelines.

Union Street Pedestrian Connection

The Union Street Pedestrian Connection, located on Union Street from Alaskan Way to Western Avenue, would serve as a universally accessible pedestrian link between the new waterfront and Western Avenue. This one-block portion of Union Street currently has access problems stemming from a steep, hard-to-find staircase.

The Union Street Pedestrian Connection would construct an elevated pedestrian walkway and associated elevator and stairs in the right of way along the south side of Union Street between Western Avenue and Alaskan Way. The walkways would provide space for social gatherings and lookouts. The improvements include lighting that would operate during nighttime hours to illuminate the pathway.

The Union Street pavement would be reconstructed between Alaskan Way and the retaining wall on the west side of Western Avenue. Additional pedestrian improvements, such as curb bulbs and ramps, would be made at the intersection of Union Street and Western Avenue.

Pike/Pine Streetscape Improvements

The Pike and Pine Streetscape Improvements Project will design and construct pedestrian improvements on Pike and Pine Streets between First Avenue and Melrose Avenue on Capitol Hill. This project will create high-quality pedestrian connections between Capitol Hill and the Pike Place Market, capturing the spirit of the Pike/Pine Renaissance Streetscape Design Vision (a plan commissioned by the Downtown Seattle Association), and achieving placemaking goals in tandem with improving the safety and quality of the pedestrian experience. Only improvements west of 9th Ave will be funded using LID funds. Improvements east of 9th would be funded using separate sources.

The project potentially includes: new and widened sidewalks, curb bulbs, crosswalk paving inlays, intersection treatments, curbless street treatments, drainage and green storm water infrastructure, street trees, planting, lighting, seating (fixed and movable), bike racks, public art and wayfinding elements. Key corridor-wide improvements should be implementable without significantly disrupting existing hardscape. For example, these elements might include supplemental lighting, public art, paving inlays, vertical elements, seating and wayfinding. A more detailed scope of improvements will be defined as part of the initial 10% design.

Waterfront Park

Located between Pier 57 and Pier 59, the new Waterfront Park will become a lively, fun and flexible space that will play host to events, performances and activities while providing open views to Elliott Bay. The park will feature the relocated Fitzgerald fountain, a sitting lawn, a children's play area and flexible plaza space with an interactive water feature.

Appraisal Experience

Principal with Macaulay & Associates. Appraisal assignments include a wide variety of commercial, industrial and residential properties for financial institutions, governmental entities, law firms, corporations and private individuals. Examples include office buildings, retail shopping centers, multifamily residential complexes, industrial warehouses, restaurants, retail stores, mobile home parks, service stations, single family subdivisions and special purpose properties. Other valuation assignments cover rental valuations, partial interest studies (leasehold/leased fee estates), waterfront commercial and industrial properties for various port authorities, together with remote large acreage agricultural and forest land.

One of Mr. Macaulay's specialties in which he has extensive knowledge and over 25 years of experience with is Local improvement district (LID) special benefit and feasibility study analysis. Robert's (LID) special benefit and feasibility study experience includes a variety of road improvement, utility and other infrastructure projects. The firm's extensive experience with these projects dates back to 1975. Right-of-way projects include easement analysis for the United States Navy and analysis of 70+ parcels for the City of Renton for acquisition and easement purposes. Numerous appraisals were also prepared for a large trunk water line easement extending under the Snohomish River to the Tulalip Tribes and City of Marysville for the City of Everett.

Similar to right-of-way work, special benefit and economic feasibility studies have been completed for the cities of Marysville, Vancouver, Bellevue, Burien, Ferndale, Freeland, Kent, Lynnwood, Ocean Shores, and Yelm (2006 to 2015). Consultation work on a road improvement district (RID) project for unincorporated Clallam County was performed in 2010. Other current or recently completed projects (2010-2014) include special benefit and feasibility studies for the cities of Bellevue, Edgewood, Freeland, Lynnwood and Tacoma. In addition to over 30 other feasibility and special benefit studies completed.

A wide variety of multi-parcel right-of-way acquisition appraisals have been completed, such as riverbank protection easements for the City of Tukwila, right-of-way acquisition for road widening for the City of Bellingham and utility line easements, road widening and other public improvement projects for the City of Everett. A large right-of-way project for the Montana Department of Highways near Kalispell, Montana was completed several years ago. Also, eminent domain appraisals have been completed for the Washington State Department of Transportation (WSDOT) and Burlington Northern Santa Fe Railroad in Wenatchee and Tacoma. Other special purpose assignments are 6,000 acres on the Tulalip Indian Reservation for the Tulalip Tribes, 80 acres on Burrows Island in Skagit County, 900 acres in Skagit County for Skagit County Parks and Recreation Department, and the Eagle Harbor ferry maintenance site on Bainbridge Island for WSDOT. Various reports on mineral rights have been completed, including an 80-acre operating quarry in Bremerton, WA.

Testified in various cases in King, Snohomish and Skagit counties, together with presentations at LID hearings on preliminary and final assessment rolls. Qualified as expert witness in the states of Washington and Montana.

Other Experience

Mr. Macaulay has been involved with MRSC dating back to the late 1990's and involves published (and updated) information on their website pertaining to local improvement district (LID) special benefit analysis, methodology and proportionality issues for a wide range of LID projects such as freeway interchange/arterial road improvements, utility (large sewer/water installation) infrastructure, slope stabilization, bridge improvements and other related publicly funded development.

Numerous presentations have been made around the state for MRSC involving LID analysis examples completed for various cities and utility districts. Conferences have been made touching upon a wide variety of special benefit analysis issues relating to a wide variety of LID projects ranging from $500,000 to over 100 million in project cost.

RE: SUMMARY OF FINAL SPECIAL BENEFIT/PROPORTIONATE ASSESSMENT STUDY FOR WATERFRONT SEATTLE PROJECT LOCAL IMPROVEMENT DISTRICT (LID), FAS 2016-048 (OUR FILE 19-0101).

Dear Mr. Lee:

In response to your request, we have completed a final special benefit/proportionate assessment study for the Waterfront Seattle Local Improvement District (LID) which, briefly, includes development of a promenade, overlook walk, waterfront park improvements and other pedestrian realm enhancements. The client for this assignment is the City of Seattle, Department of Finance and Administrative Services.

This report presents a summary of the findings and conclusions reached in the study. It is intended to assist the City in estimating special benefit (increase in market value) to affected property resulting from the LID-funded improvements within the Waterfront Seattle Project. Based on Washington State legal statutes, the fee simple interest in the market value of each individual parcel is estimated herein. The depth of discussion is specific to the needs of the client and for only the intended use stated above. This report is authorized for use by the client and its agents, representatives and legal counsel.

ABS Valuation, formerly doing business as Valbridge Property Advisors | Puget Sound, completed an economic feasibility study for the Waterfront Seattle Project in August 2017, an executive summary of the formation special benefit study in March 2018, and a formation special benefit study in May 2018. For other reporting requirements and market area data, the reader is referred to the addenda of this report. Additional exhibits and documents relied upon and provided by the City of Seattle are in the accompanying separate companion document entitled, "Waterfront Seattle Project LID – Summary of Final Special Benefit/Proportionate Assessment Study Addenda Volume."

The purpose of a final special benefit/proportionate assessment study is to provide a fair and proportionate allocation of recommended assessments, based on highest and best use and market value of affected property, without as opposed to with the LID project completed. Currently, the design process for the Promenade portion of the improvements is 100% complete. Design for the Pier 58 (formerly Waterfront Park) improvements is 30% complete, the Lower Union improvements' design is 90±% complete, and design is 30±% complete for the Overlook Walk portion of the project. The Pike/Pine corridor and Pioneer Square elements of the project have not yet reached the 30% design milestone. However, based on design and engineering work completed to date and a number of discussions with the City's utilities department and others, the design teams believe that the renderings provided reflect a level of confidence commensurate with a 30% design milestone and will not change substantively once that official milestone has been reached.

As discussed further within the report, in the "without LID" (existing) situation, there is poor connectivity between the Puget Sound shoreline/Alaskan Way vicinity and the higher elevation city streets (i.e. Western Avenue) due to topography, historical street layout and other issues. With the LID project completed, accessibility to the waterfront from nearby areas including the Pike Place Market, downtown business district and Pioneer Square will vastly improve. On an overall basis, referring to the economic studies and rating system discussed herein, the waterfront area in general improves from a subjective quality rating of average in the "before" scenario to excellent with the LID project completed.

Attached is a summary of the final special benefit study, which uses mass appraisal techniques and is reported in a summary format including narrative and tabular presentation. This report is intended to comply with Standard 6 of the Uniform Standards of Professional Appraisal Practice (USPAP) promulgated by the Appraisal Foundation for a summary mass appraisal report. As such, it includes limited discussions of the data, reasoning and analyses utilized in the valuation process; supporting documentation is retained in the appraiser's files. It conforms with the Code of Professional Ethics and Standards of Professional Appraisal Practice of the Appraisal Institute, which include USPAP, as well as additional reporting requirements discussed herein. The appraiser is not responsible for unauthorized use of this report and use by a third party is not intended.

Briefly, the scope of the assignment is to complete a final special benefit/proportionate assessment study centering around the Waterfront Seattle Project as it is currently designed and described in the addenda volume of this report, the aforementioned prior studies and separate documents describing the project, as provided by the client. The local improvement district (LID) is bordered to the west by Puget Sound and the Seattle waterfront, on the east by Interstate Highway 5, to the north by Denny Way and on the south by portions of South Massachusetts Avenue/Edgar Martinez Drive (T-Mobile Park), as visually illustrated by the maps and other exhibits on the following pages. Special benefit is defined as the difference in market value before (without the project) and after (with the project assumed complete) as of the same date.

To make estimates of probable increases in market value or special benefit resulting from the LID project, mass appraisal techniques are utilized and market sales of land and improved properties, together with lease information on properties within and near the boundary, were researched and, depending on type and current use of a specific parcel, various analysis techniques (Sales Comparison Approach, Income Approach and Cost Approach) applied. Property types consist primarily of high rise office buildings, high rise condominium structures, retail uses (both within larger buildings and "stand alone" space), hotels, apartments, unique Pike Place Market properties, sports stadiums, historic/non-designated older buildings in the Pioneer Square and Pike Place Market vicinities, and special use properties. Studies and other information relating to new construction/proposed developments, supply and demand, absorption and population growth trends were also reviewed.

Special benefit to affected properties is derived from enhanced relative location provided by the LID improvements, superior waterfront amenities/market appeal and other factors. This is strongly supported by study of numerous projects with elements of similarity to the Seattle waterfront improvements that have been completed in other cities (New York, Boston, Chicago, Vancouver BC, Portland and San Francisco). These studies, along with others, were also utilized in the condominium valuation process.

As shown on the maps in the 2017 feasibility study, the downtown/waterfront area was originally segregated into distinct study areas identified herein as "areas A, B, C, D and E". Properties within these areas experience different degrees of special benefit due to variations in proximity to the above project elements and other factors that affect value. Based on analysis of these factors, the recommended boundaries of the specially benefited area, as shown on the exhibits in this document, encompass a somewhat smaller area than that covered by the five regions originally studied. As noted in the prior map's legend, it does not depict the final LID boundaries and does not mean all properties within the recommended boundary will be assessed. Examples of property that does not specially benefit from the project are public use parcels and those with various types of deed restrictions.

Within the subsequently established LID boundary, there are 6,238 individual tax parcels. Of this total, 5,187 tax parcels are in 49± condo projects, some of which are associated commercial properties. Considering the large number of parcels (individual ownerships), recommended final assessments and other pertinent information on each has been compiled on a lengthy spreadsheet separate from the remaining 1,051 ownerships, for ease of reading and comprehension. The same type of information on the other 1,051 parcels is aggregated on a second spreadsheet entitled, "All Other LID Commercial Properties"; both spreadsheets are integral parts of this report.

The difference in estimated market value of individual parcels without the improvement project and again with the project assumed completed, as of the same date, is the special benefit estimate. Estimated value ranges without and with the LID project are refined into valuation conclusions based on factors affecting market value of individual parcels. Examples of such factors include changes in locational characteristics and differing highest and best use or development potential before/after completion of the LID improvements.

Electronic data based on records of the King County Department of Assessments forms the basis of the final assessment roll spreadsheets which are integral parts of the report that follows and have previously been electronically provided to the client. Importantly, through the LID formation process and the City of Seattle's outreach program, every effort has been made in the valuation process to acquire and consider all relevant and credible information on individual affected parcels.

The special benefit estimates and recommended final assessments are based on research into the Seattle market, together with review of the other studies in various US cities where similar project elements have been installed. A primary assumption of this study is that in the before (without LID) scenario, the Alaskan Way viaduct has been removed and Alaskan Way is re-built, to WSDOT standards, at street level. Therefore, any view amenity enhancement created by removal of the viaduct is not considered in the analysis as it would be the same both in the before (without) and after (with) LID valuation scenarios.

Estimates are made of the value of individual parcels without the improvement project and again with the project assumed completed, as of the same date. Estimated value ranges without and with the LID are refined into valuation conclusions by making the appropriate adjustments based on factors affecting market value of individual parcels. For each assessable parcel within the LID boundary, this basis of valuation results in a special benefit estimate, which is the difference in value before (or without) the project as compared to the same parcel after (or with) the project.

The recommended final assessments are reasonable and proportionate to each other; they are based on consideration of the physical characteristics and highest and best use of individual affected parcels with market value estimates derived from comparable sales data. In this research, market analysis, and subject to the accompanying assumptions and limiting conditions, the entire area outlined on the exhibit entitled "Aerial Photo/LID Boundary Map" has been considered.

It is also important to note that, absent the LID project, it is assumed that a rebuilt/new surface roadway to fulfill some of the functions no longer provided by State Route 99 (after the Alaskan Way Viaduct is removed) by serving both local and regional transportation needs and providing access between SR 99, downtown Seattle, and northwest Seattle, will be built in the approximate footprint of the former viaduct. A two-way bicycle facility runs along the west side of the new Alaskan Way (other details contained in city documents).

In addition to this work, which is separate and apart from the LID project, the Waterfront Seattle project would construct six main elements; each is briefly described below:

1) Promenade is a continuous public open space with amply green, landscaped spaces along the west side of the new Alaskan Way from S Washington Street to Pine Street designed for walking, sitting, gathering, and viewing the waterfront. Highlights of the 26± block-long promenade include street art, extensive plantings (evergreen trees, shrubs and flower bulbs), pedestrian walkways with railings in various sections, and lighting designed in a layered pattern to provide visual interest and wayfinding clarity including LED light sources for low-level illumination of handrails.

2) Overlook Walk, immediately west of the recently completed Pike Place MarketFront building, is a pedestrian bridge and landscaped public space that connects the Pike Place Market with the Promenade, spanning over the Elliott Way surface street. Beginning at the MarketFront, a switchback pathway referred to as the "Bluff Walk" connects to a 28-foot-high elevated lid over the new Alaskan Way surface street. Other features are 47,000 SF of public open space with excellent view amenities and an accessible pedestrian pathway, enhancing existing connections and adding new connections between Pike Place Market and the waterfront, providing opportunities to enhance the pedestrian experience and revitalize the area.

3) Pioneer Square Street Improvements include enhanced streetscapes on S Main Street, S Washington Street, Yesler Way, and S King Street featuring new sidewalk paving, landscaping, and traffic redirection to create more pedestrian-friendly links between the waterfront and Pioneer Square. Improvements could include curb extensions, new seating opportunities and coordinated development of sidewalk cafes with food and beverage uses fronting on these streets. Because this area lies within the Pioneer Square Preservation District, improvements are in accordance with the preservation district guidelines.

4) Union Street Pedestrian Connection (also known as Lower Union), in the right of way on the south side of Union Street between Alaskan Way and Western Avenue, is a universally accessible pedestrian link between the new waterfront and Western Avenue. An elevated pedestrian walkway, elevator and stairs are enhanced by public art and nighttime lighting to illuminate the pathway, elevator, and the area underneath the pedestrian bridge.

5) Pike/Pine Streetscape Improvements provide enhanced pedestrian access to and from the Pike Place Market and waterfront. Both streets, between First and Second avenues, will be reconstructed as "shared space", without curbs. Single travel lanes (westbound on Pine and eastbound on Pike) designed for slow vehicle movement and local access will share the space with pedestrians and bicycles. Bollards and detectable warning strips help define the area to be used by vehicles, along with light poles, trees and paving treatments, and there will be more room available for sidewalk cafes. Other improvements will be made in the various blocks of Pike and Pine streets between Second and Ninth avenues (planters protecting bike lanes, etc.) including construction of a new paved public plaza, a flexible space designed to accommodate diverse programming similar to Westlake Park, on the south side of Pine Street between Third and Fourth avenues.

6) Pier 58 (formerly known as Waterfront Park), located between Piers 57 and 59, provides a unique atmosphere for social gathering/performance spaces with excellent view amenities. Containing approximately 49,000 square feet providing a seamless connection between the park and the Promenade, highlights include a children's play area, 4,900 SF of open water coverage protected by railings, and 3,600± square feet of raised lawns.

Extensive detail on each of the six main project elements summarized above can be found in the documents prepared by the City of Seattle; they are included in a separate publication by this office ("Seattle Waterfront LID Final Special Benefit Study Report Addendum") and also on various websites created and maintained by the city, including www.waterfrontseattle.org.

Proportionality is an important element in any special benefit study. Properties with similar highest and best use, location and physical characteristics should experience a roughly similar special benefit on an overall property basis. Both land value for a specific parcel and overall improved property value are analyzed as part of this study. Many properties within the LID boundary are improved but, due to high land values, the existing improvements may not contribute to overall property value. Also, because zoning within the downtown core often allows new construction at high density (i.e., skyscrapers built on relatively small parcels of land), investors/developers are acquiring underimproved (currently developed at low density) properties for redevelopment or investment hold.

Completing a separate land value analysis offers comparisons between the land and improvements components of these redeveloped sites. It also maintains proportionality of the estimated increase in market value (special benefit). Therefore, properties improved to their highest and best use (not underimproved) such as office/retail buildings, apartments and condominiums---typically multi-storied structures---specially benefit in a proportionate manner; this is, there is benefit to both the land and to the improvements.

Both unimproved land and improved parcels located closer to the waterfront and various project amenities (Promenade, Pier 58---aka Waterfront Park, Overlook Walk, Pike-Pine Corridor, and Pioneer Square) specially benefit, or reflect a higher overall market value difference without as opposed to with the project, than those parcels located further east, north or south of the main LID-funded improvements.

A unique aspect of this special benefit study is that the analysis does not consider any view enhancement (or resultant market value increase) due to removal of the Alaskan Way Viaduct. Therefore, this special benefit study reflects only the amenities provided by the LID project as compared with characteristics of the viaduct vicinity absent the project, as of the October 1, 2019 valuation date. The valuation conclusions resulting from this final special benefit/proportionate assessment study are summarized in the table below.

Typically, properties located closer to the waterfront improvements experience the highest overall increase in market value (special benefit). Hotels and retail properties reflected slightly higher special benefit in most instances, depending on location relative to the LID improvements. Apartments/condominiums and office buildings varied in overall special benefit, again depending on specific locations. Special purpose properties, such as the sports stadiums, experience lesser special benefit due to use restrictions and location at the far south end of the project. Lower estimated market value increases accrue to properties in the Pike Place Market and Pioneer Square vicinities, again due to use restrictions imposed within the respective historical district overlays. Properties closer to Interstate Highway 5 and in the eastern and northeastern quadrants of the district experience the lowest extent of special benefit due to distance from the LID-funded improvements and the various amenities provided by those improvements.

In general, because the project elements focus on the waterfront, Pike/Pine corridor and Pike Place market vicinities, these areas experience the highest special benefit, as reflected in the following spreadsheets. Property abutting the waterfront improvements reflects the highest range in special benefit; from approximately 2.5% to less than 4% of estimated market value without the project, depending on location and use. These increases are based on total property value, comprised of both land and improvements.

The Pike/Pine corridor reflects the second highest increase in market value due to the project, generally ranging from 1% or less at the eastern periphery of the corridor to over 3% of market value without the project at the western (Pike Place Market area) end. The Pioneer Square neighborhood generally experiences slightly less special benefit as it is situated further from significant project amenities such as the Overlook Walk. Average property value increases are slightly less than for the Pike/Pine corridor to the north. Similarly, the Belltown, Denny Triangle and Stadium District neighborhoods reflect lesser (1±%) market value increases.

The table below is to be used for general discussion purposes. It summarizes the estimated special benefit ranges for each affected property type, based on the percentages of property value increase. It is noted that market value estimates without and with the LID project may fall outside the summarized ranges for some individual parcels.

Estimated Special Benefit Ranges By Property Class

Property Class	Percentage of Property Value Increase
	High	Low
Land value	<4.00%	<0.50%
Office/Retail	<3.50%	<0.50%
Hotel	<3.50%	<1.00%
Apartment/Subsidized housing	3.00%	0.00%
Residential condominium	3.00%	<0.50%
Waterfront	<4.00%	<0.50%
Special purpose	0.10%	1.00%

The total cost for the above-described LID improvements is approximately $346 million, with funding provided through a variety of sources. Further discussion of both the before (without) and after (with) conditions is in subsequent sections of this report and more detailed project descriptions provided by the city are contained in the addenda volume. There are several neighborhoods within the LID boundary; as stated above, properties within these areas experience different degrees of special benefit due to variations in proximity to the above project elements and other factors that affect value.

The main valuation methods used are the Sales Comparison Approach and the Income Approach. Due to the special purpose nature of some of the properties (i.e., the sports stadiums), the Cost Approach was used on a limited basis. The primary reason the market reflects increased value due to the project is enhanced location, improved pedestrian connectivity and higher market appeal created by the waterfront improvement amenities. In the Income Approach, this is reflected in increased rents and lower vacancy levels/capitalization rates as well as lower perceived investment risk. In the Sales Comparison Approach, higher land values and overall property values result from improved market perception.

These factors are interrelated in the decision-making process of an investor/developer/market participant when buying income-generating property like many properties in the study area. Condominium values typically increase due to enhanced location/appeal and positive market perception of the elements of the waterfront project. This study also recognizes that, with the LID project constructed, Alaskan Way will be widened to eight lanes at the south end of the project. Additionally, some parking losses along Alaskan Way in the waterfront area will occur due to the project and this is considered in the analysis.

The conclusions reached herein are presented subject to the specific assumptions and limiting conditions listed at the end of this report. The comments made on the currently strong downtown market trends are not meant to infer that the project would create further positive demand and intense development activity but rather that the new waterfront amenities and improved waterfront access would enhance trends already in evidence in the various downtown Seattle real estate markets. For example, as discussed in the "Seattle Market Data" section of the separate addenda volume, there is a strong supply of new hotel, office, multi-family residential and retail space coming on-line in the subject area over the next several years. Although it is recognized that this new supply will be competing with existing space, the currently strong demand will be enhanced by the subject LID project and is expected to shorten the absorption period and aid in lowering vacancy rates, increasing rental rates and lowering capitalization rates for properties within the LID boundary.

Aspects of property considered as a parcel include: (a) the economic unit, (b) the physically contiguous unit, and (c) the continuity of ownership. In cases where multiple tax lots comprise a single entity, this entity is often called the "larger parcel". As required by state statute, recommended assessments for parcels comprised of more than one county tax lot are segregated into individual tax parcels. It should be emphasized that the individual parcels, as defined above, are the entities to which the special benefits accrue and against which the assessments are levied. Division of the proposed assessments into tax lots used by the King County Assessor's and Treasurer's offices, artificial boundaries from an appraisal standpoint, are made to comply with statutory requirements and the City's accounting procedures.

Without the LID project, rebuilt Alaskan Way would be considered a transportation corridor whereby management, maintenance, security, and other factors are commensurate with that provided for typical city thoroughfares/arterial streets. It is hereby noted that Washington State Ferries (part of the Washington State Department of Transportation) already operates the ferry terminal known as the Colman Dock, in the subject area, as part of the state highway system. With the project completed, certain defined areas along the waterfront (Overlook Walk, Promenade, Union Street and Waterfront Park, formerly known as Pier 58) would be governed by the City of Seattle's public parks ordinances, and specifically Ordinance Number 125761, which was passed by the Seattle City Council on January 28, 2019.

These new waterfront amenities will be designated as "park land", conveying broader powers to the City regarding upkeep, maintenance and security of the vicinity. The ordinance grants additional authority to the city, through their employees, to maintain the integrity, security and cleanliness of these areas and eliminate undesirable activities such as loitering. Furthermore, a percentage of all affected property owners (comprising most of the owners of downtown property) have signed maintenance agreements with the City, furthering the public/private partnership and maintaining the ambience, desirability and quality of the newly installed park areas. Copies of both the 2019 ordinance and a discussion, recently provided by the client, of the impact of an operation and maintenance (O&M) agreement on various LID elements, together with what operation and maintenance in the LID area would look like absent the project, are included in the separate addenda volume.

Maps and an aerial photograph showing the LID boundary, together with the spreadsheets of recommended final assessments, follows this letter. Other exhibits are presented in the addenda volume. The findings resulting from this final special benefit/proportionate assessment study, which is subject to the accompanying assumptions and limiting conditions and those in the addenda document, as of October 1, 2019, are as follows:

Residential Condos & Associated Commercial - Total Estimated Market Value Without LID	$ 5,036,188,000 (Rd)
All Other LID Commercial Properties - Total Estimated Market Value Without LID	$51,323,051,000 (Rd)
Total Estimated Market Value Without LID	$56,359,239,000 (Rd)
Residential Condos & Associated Commercial - Total Estimated Market Value With LID	$ 5,097,699,000 (Rd)
All Other LID Commercial Properties - Total Estimated Market Value With LID	$51,709,448,000 (Rd)
Total Estimated Market Value With LID	$56,807,147,000 (Rd)
Residential Condos & Associated Commercial – Estimated Special Benefit	$ 61,511,000 (Rd)
All Other LID Commercial Properties – Estimated Special Benefit	$ 386,397,000 (Rd)
Total Estimated Special Benefit	$ 447,908,000 (Rd)
Cost/Benefit Ratio	39.2% (Rd)

The total estimated cost for the LID improvements is $346 million; however, as of the date of this document, the City of Seattle has set a cap of $160 million plus financing costs ($175,500,000 total) as that portion of the total cost to be paid by the owners of property specially benefited by the project. Dividing $175,500,000 by the total estimated special benefit to assessable property of $447,908,000 yields a cost/benefit ratio of (R) 39.20%. In other words, each parcel receives one dollar in market value increase (special benefit) for each $0.39± of LID assessment. Multiplying the individual special benefit estimates for the affected parcels by this constant cost/benefit ratio results in recommended proportionate final assessments to each parcel.
