Objective

Shape and enhance our community by securing a position as a City of Seattle Design Review Board Member.

Background Summary

My interest in architecture, construction and community involvement was heightened while participating in a foreign study program with the University of Washington, School of Architecture. I was a member of a team of students that designed and built a health clinic for women and children living in a squatter community outside of Tejalpa, Mexico. This experience spurred me to continue my education in Architecture, while pursuing my degree in Construction Management. I continue to have a dedicated interest in bringing community involvement and strong design together to develop healthier communities and neighborhoods.

Over the past 13 years, my professional focus has been mainly in general contracting and construction project management. However, my architectural degree has proved invaluable in my daily activities. The insight from this combined knowledge of building and design allows me to more readily communicate and understand the vision of the project. This ability to work with individuals possessing different viewpoints will translate well as a Design Review Board Member.
