Comments: Since youth Martin has been passionate about linking people to each other and to ideas in ways which create an environment where the voices of the most marginalized are heard and respected. Following studies in international law and human rights Martin joined the work of securing those rights on the ground level. Martin's professional experience includes conflict resolution work in Israel and Palestine, minority rights research in France, operations and translation in public health in West Africa and microfinance in India and East Africa. As Martin's exposure to human rights work has grown, the importance of the structural environment where the work is being performed has become increasingly clear. In each location the frameworks and systems in place, whether legal, political, economic or other, played a consistently important role in determining whether or not goals were achieved. Newly returned to Seattle, Martin is thrilled for the opportunity to help define and deliver that framework on a civic level as a member of the SHRC, and to support the goals of maximizing impact at the highest levels and to greatest effect for those whose voices so often go unheard.
