City of Seattle

Dear Sir:

Submitted herewith is the 1968 Annual Report of the Seattle Police Department. This report is prepared in conformance with Article XXII, Section 12 of the Charter of the City of Seattle.

This report contains a brief summary of activities of the Police Department during the year 1968. A statistical compilation of information has been included for administrative purposes, to submit reports to the Federal Bureau of Investigation, for use as a reference by municipal, governmental, educational and social groups and other law enforcement agencies.

Very truly yours

City of Seattle

Dear Sir:

1968 was a very unusual year for the City of Seattle and for the Police Department. The most significant characteristic was a series of occurrences variously entitled "disturbances", "violence", or "Civil Rights actions". From April 5, 1968 to August 4, 1968, there were intermittent criminal acts on the streets in a small geographic area in Seattle. Concurrent with, but separate from, the police problem that the incidents themselves created, was the staggering increase in crime in the same small geographic area.

A chronological listing of the incidents would serve no real purpose, but an indication of the scope of the problem can be found in the following figures. More than one million dollars in property loss has been attributed to arson and fire bombings; more than seventy thousand dollars in property damage, i.e., broken windows, automobiles damaged, places of business ransacked. More than twenty businesses have ceased operation in this area. More than five hundred persons including one hundred fifty juveniles were arrested and charged with criminal offenses by the Seattle Police Department.

These activities have, of course, been subjected to deep scrutiny by various agencies. Official, quasi-official, and private organizations or individuals state that the causes of the disturbances are rooted in sociological conditions and that the Police Department, indeed all city agencies, acquitted themselves well.

Contrary to the experience in other cities, no lives were lost and no police officer fired a shot, although many of them were subjected to gun fire. There were injuries; some forty-five police officers required hospitalization and an undetermined number of civilians were the victims of assaults by other civilians.

An objective evaluation indicates that the morale, training and planning of the Seattle Police Department did, at least in 1968, meet the needs of the city in this critical situation.

The statistical portion of this Annual Report will show an increase of 6% in Part I Offenses. The 6% increase does not reflect the seriousness of violent crime in Seattle. The calendar year 1968 showed a 119% increase in robbery and a 22% increase in assaults. The vandalism, property damage, and other offenses related to the information contained above would not be reflected in Part I Offenses. Obviously, there is reason for the Seattle Police Department to be concerned about the crime problem. The increase in crime in 1968, however evaluated, was disproportionate to the economic condition of the city and to the general tone of the population of Seattle.

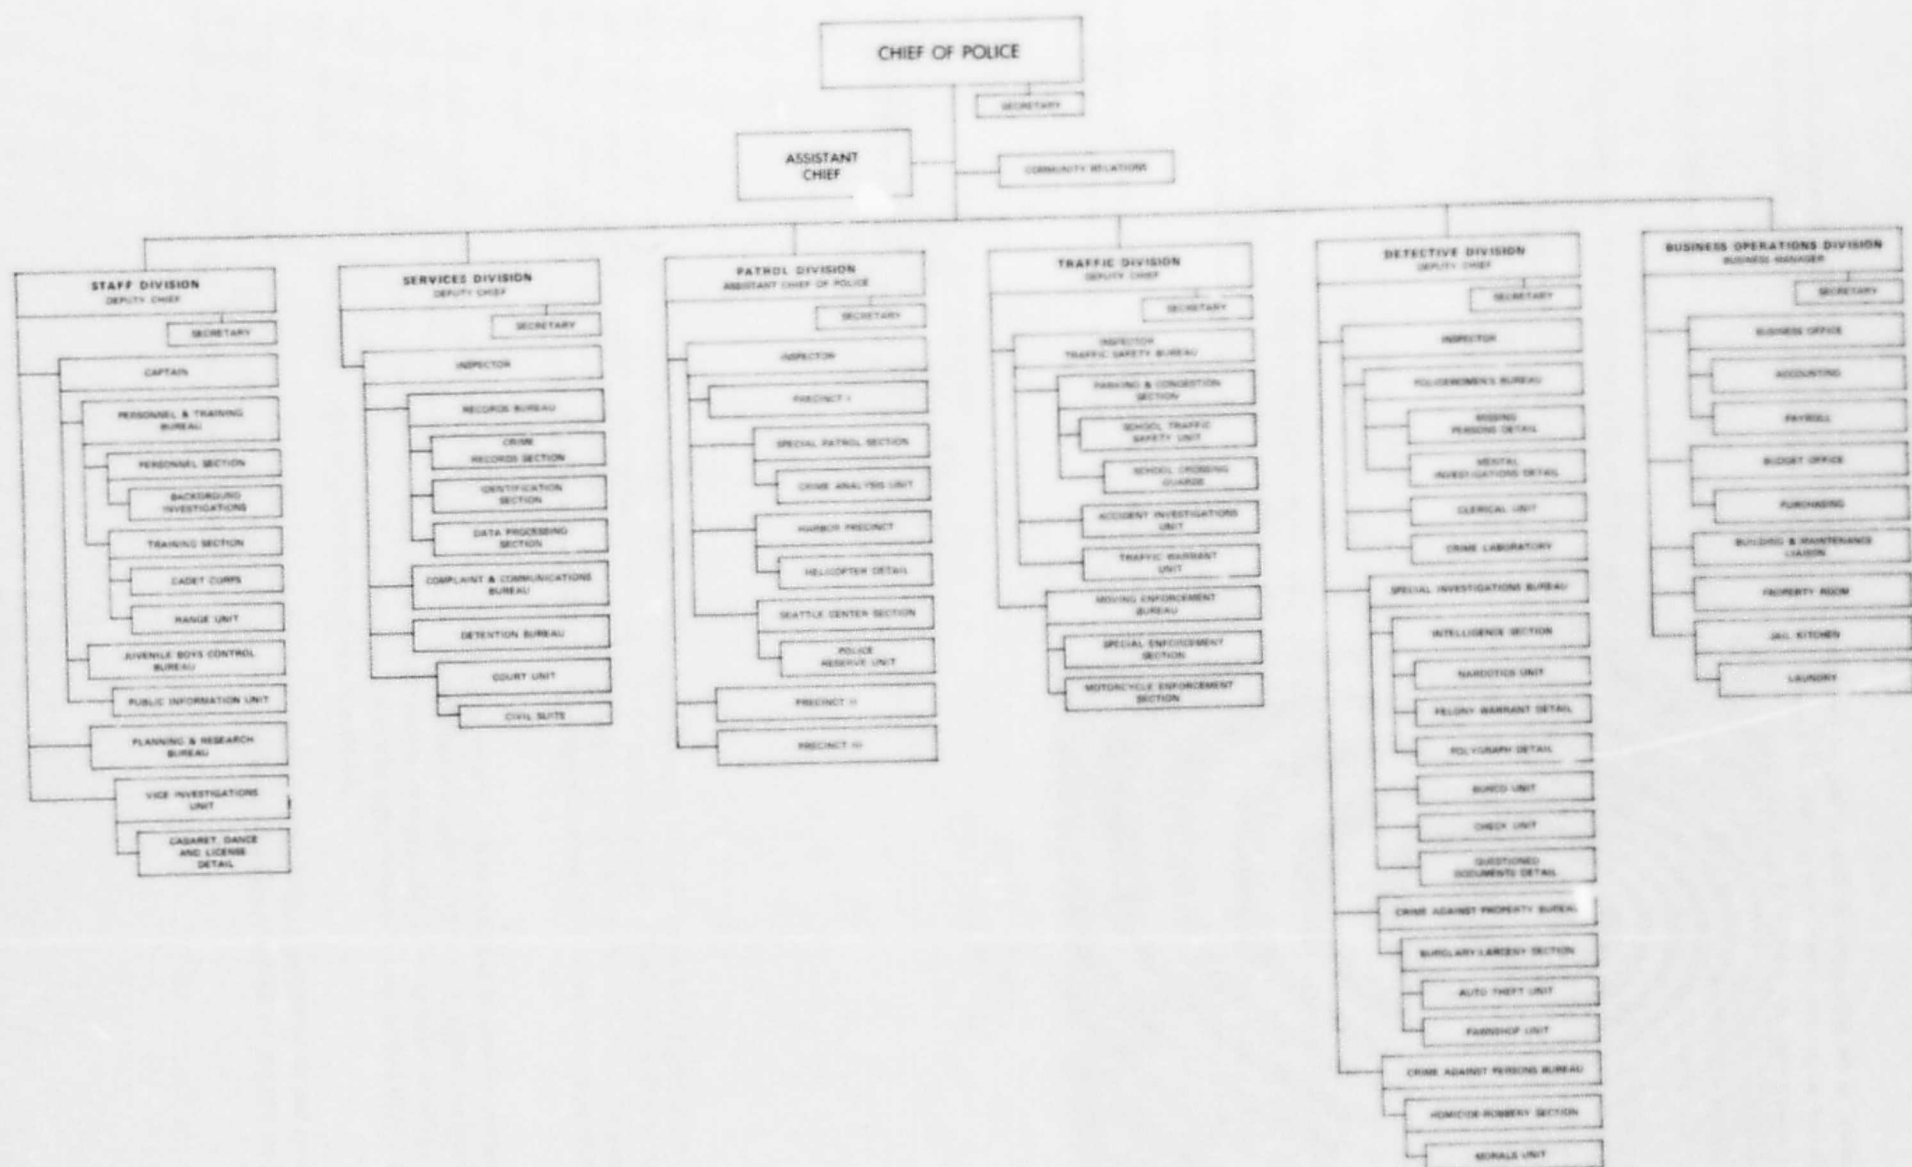

An examination of the clearances of offenses did show, however, that of the Part I Offenses reported to the Seattle Police Department in all categories, there was a 27% clearance rate. This is substantially above the national average.

In December of 1968 the most important steps in implementing the survey of the Seattle Police Department were accomplished. Beginning January 1969, the Seattle Police Department actually reorganized, re-deployed, and substantially strengthened its supervisory ranks and manpower to meet the current crime problems. In 1969 further implementation of many of the recommendations of the survey will result in a more efficient and more effective Police Department.

As assessment of 1968, however, would indicate a high degree of personal courage, personal integrity and professional competence on the part of the men and women of the Seattle Police Department in meeting their responsibilities in providing protection and security to the people of Seattle.

Yours very truly,

F. C. Ramon
