The Honorable Charles Royer
Mayor
City of Seattle

Dear Mayor Royer:

Submitted herewith is the 1978 Annual Report of the Seattle Police Department. This report is prepared in conformance with Article XXII, Section 12, of the Charter of the City of Seattle.

This report contains a brief summary of activities of the Police Department during the year 1978. A statistical compilation of information has been included for administrative purposes, and for use as a reference by municipal, governmental, educational and social groups, and other law enforcement agencies.

Very truly yours,

H. A. Vanden Wyer

CHIEF'S MESSAGE

To a police officer, as well as those he serves, public service is more than just a concept, for when people need help it is to a police officer that they are most likely to turn. Unlike some service organizations, the officer responds immediately, not hesitating to first ascertain the status of the person in need. It does not matter whether the call for help comes from the young or the old, the rich or the poor, and the person need not meet complicated criteria to qualify as a recipient of aid.

Our priorities are often established and influenced more by the wishes of those policed than by any other single consideration. We are accountable to these people for our decisions and the consequences of those decisions, and our success depends to a great extent upon their support.

Guided by the philosophy that the police draw their authority from the will and consent of the people, that we are, in fact, drawn from their ranks, our department has redirected its law enforcement priorities in recent years. In an effort to become more sensitive to the needs of those we serve, to become more proactive, we have initiated many programs to assist in improving our communication with the public.

Increased hiring over the past year and striving to reach a more equitable balance of minority representation are all part of that overall effort. Half of our new hires in 1978 were women or minority men and a dozen minorities were promoted to supervisory and management positions.

By effectively utilizing resources and enlisting community support, we have drawn the various neighborhoods that comprise Seattle into the fight against crime. We have broken down many of the barriers that have long existed between the police and the public.

Our Community Service Officer Program has been invaluable in that regard, taking on several responsibilities which allow our police officers to more effectively use their time. The CSO Officers have worked hard on the Commercial Burglary Reduction Program this year, and we expect that their efforts will help reduce the number of nonresidential burglaries in 1979. Because of efficient patrol work and the accomplishments of programs such as Community Crime Prevention and Block Watch, the rate of residential burglaries declined this year for the fifth year in a row.

Our newly incepted Evidence Collection Project has trained officers so that we have increased both the quality of evidence and the frequency with which it is collected at burglary and rape scenes. Not incidentally, rape also decreased in 1978. Other programs such as the Anti-Fencing Project, Patrol Alarm, and the Hidden Robbery Camera, all of which require community involvement, continue to be effective.

In the latter part of the year we experienced changes in our shooting policy which resulted in much controversy. In reexamining our training in the application of deadly force, we developed an entirely new concept and the simulator now being used by our department is the only one of its kind in the nation. The interest it has generated in other departments would indicate that our initial estimate of its value as a training aid was correct.

Another technological advance which should greatly increase our efficiency is the new automated REPORT System, begun in September. When the system becomes operational in March, it will eventually eliminate the need to hand search police records for information.

The 15% increase in the Crime Index this year should not be perceived as totally bleak since many factors beyond our control, such as a 51% increase in murder, contributed to that rise. Since 1976 and 1977 witnessed respective Crime Index reductions of 13% and 4%, our crime rate today is actually no higher than it was two years ago and, as previously mentioned, the crimes of rape and burglary have declined.

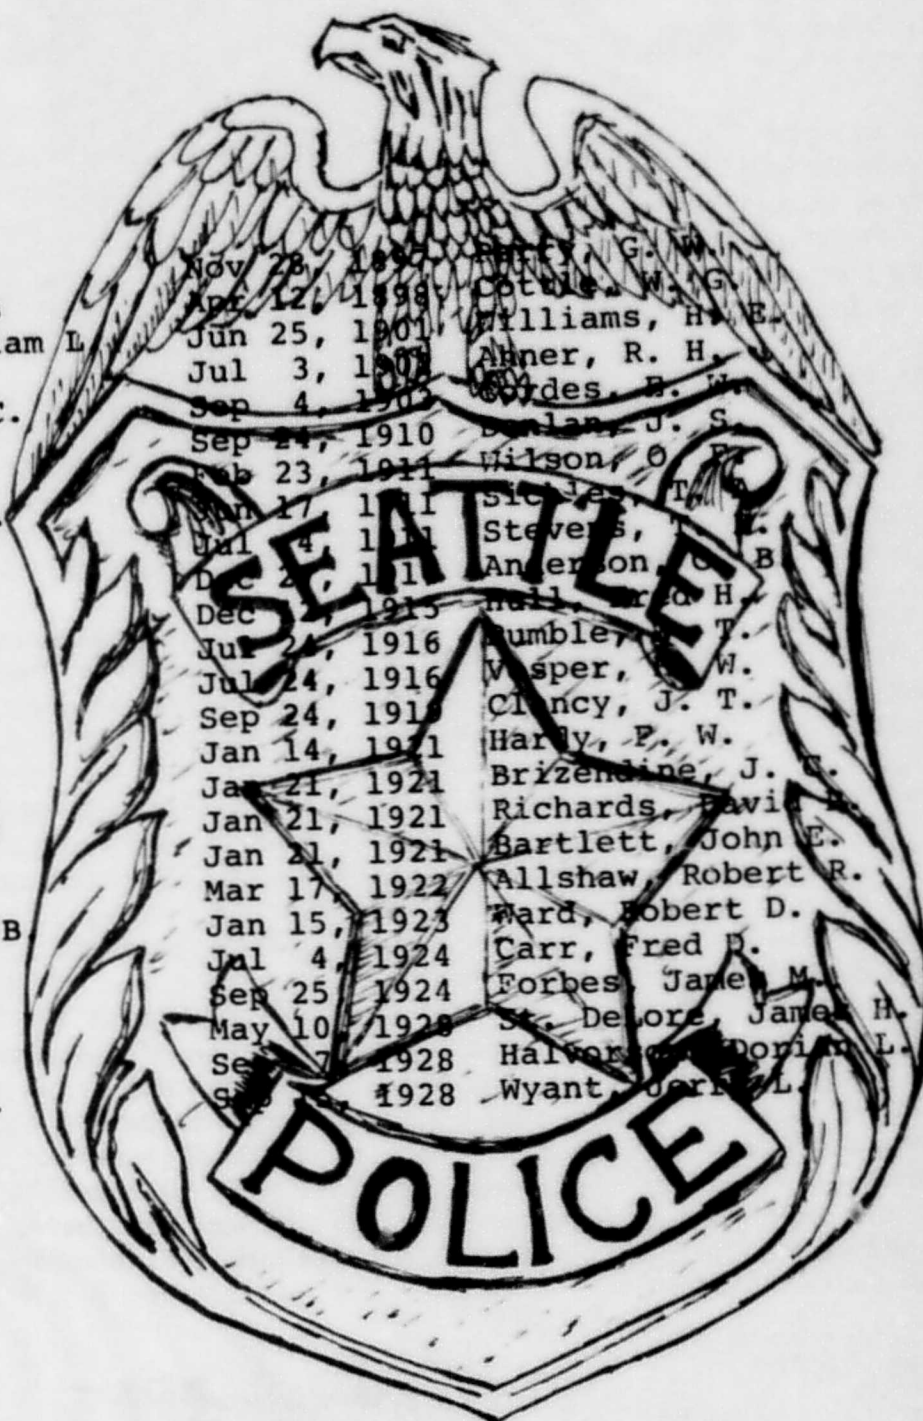

I have been a police officer for more than a quarter of a century, and in that time I can truly say that I have found no department any finer than ours. I can only add to that statement that we are as good as we are because of you--the men and women of this department who make it work and make it responsive to the needs of the community it serves. Our fellow citizens can take pride in their police department and themselves for the efforts we have all made, police officer and citizen alike, to make Seattle the most livable city in the United States.

INTERNAL INVESTIGATIONS SUMMARY, 1978

During 1978 the Seattle Police Department received 659,604 phone requests for service resulting in 226,136 dispatches of police units. Officers reported another 61,439 "on-view" incidents in which they initiated police action in the field without being dispatched by police radio.

The 1308 employees of the Department worked 2,280,888 hours of regular duty and 69,950 hours of overtime duty.

In addition, officers worked 22,000 hours of security work for the Seattle Art Museum during the King Tut Exhibit, 9,826 hours providing security at rock concerts and 12,266 hours providing security inside the Kingdome complex.

The Seattle Police Reserves, augmenting the sworn police force, added another 16,936 hours of voluntary service in a variety of functions.

There were 120,670 traffic citations issued, 15,093 ordinance citations written and 25,197 physical arrests made.

There were 762 complaints of employee misconduct resulting from employee/public contacts in 1978. Of these, 389 were settled by phone contact with complainant, 236 were referred to the employees' commander/supervisor and 137 complaints against 204 employees were judged serious enough to warrant a full investigation by the Internal Investigations Section.

The following disciplinary actions were taken on the 16 sustained cases:

Termination..... 1 employee allowed to retire
 Forfeiture of time..... 62 days
 Written reprimand..... 3 employees
 Retraining..... 3 employees

The above listed disciplinary actions do not reflect the results of 31 cases which at the time of this report were still in the investigative, review or appeal process. At least 10 of these 31 cases are sustained complaints with disciplinary action or final employee appeal pending.
