The Seattle Human Rights Commission is composed of fifteen members: seven appointed by the Mayor, seven appointed by Council, and one appointed by the Commission. All appointments are subject to City Council confirmation. Attached to this memorandum is the current membership roster of the Seattle Human Rights Commission, including the new appointees.

Brief biographies for all reappointments and new appointees are as follows:

New Appointments:

Keith Toussaint

Keith Toussaint is a Senior Project Manager for Microsoft Health Solutions Group and long-time Seattle resident and business leader. Keith is a former volunteer member of the Central Area Motivation Project's Rights of Passage Experience program and former President of Blacks at Microsoft diversity advisory council group. Recently, Keith has committed his efforts to human rights issues involving Health Care Reform. Keith has worked with clinicians and technical staff from over 50 organizations to design and implement solutions for chronic care management, hospital-patient interchange of data and remote patient monitoring.

Nika Dahlbacka

Nika Dahlbacka has consistently pursued activities that furthered equality and multi-culturalism. In high school, she joined Amigos de las Americas, working in a village of 200 in Costa Rica to promote community-based, sustainable development. At the UW, Nika was a senator in student government, and volunteered for Washington Citizen Action, First Place School, Franklin High School, and the Burke Museum. While at UW, Nika interned at Boeing where she implemented the first 737 Diversity Council. She graduated UW with distinction and a BA in International Business and marketing. After college, Nika continued her career with Boeing, as a Procurement agent with International Suppliers and the Flight Test Program. Nika Dahlbacka has served as the Get Engaged Commissioner since September 2009 and will fill the unexpired term of former Commissioner Alexandra Davis.

Reappointments:

Mica Powers

Mica Powers graduated in 2005 with a degree in Political Science, and a minor in African American Studies. While in college, Mica had two life altering experiences: interning at a magazine that critically looked at race and poverty and visiting the United Nations building in New York City. Those experiences taught Mica to dig deep when problem solving, and to surround herself with great company when searching for answers. Mica has been featured in Newsweek Magazine's Generation O multimedia blog. Additionally, Mica's various life experiences, including tutoring 2nd graders in reading and writing and being a Precinct Committee Officer, have made Mica personally aware of some problems that we face locally. As a proud resident of Seattle, Mica has brought her life experiences to create a meaningful, educational, and unique experience as a Commissioner.

Jesse Aspuria

Jesse Aspuria graduated from Washington State University with a bachelor's degree in the School of Hospitality Business Management Program and attended Apicius Culinary Institute of Florence, Italy. He works as a sales and marketing director for Marriott. According to Jesse, "My upbringing has motivated me to help others and fight for human rights causes. I don't see it as a responsibility, but more so as my passion and hope to always give back and play a role in public service." Jesse served as the WSU Student Body President in 2003-2004, gained governance of the University's Diversity Celebration, developed strategies for recruitment and retention of students and faculty of color, and created policies for long term sustainability. Jesse has chaired the Commission's Homelessness Task Force for nearly two years.

Roslyn Solomon

Ms. Solomon has focused her efforts in health and human rights over the past three years. She is the co-founder of The Implementation Project which focuses on promoting comprehensive and equitable health care reform through innovative advocacy work. Prior to founding The Project, Ms. Solomon was the Director of the US program at Uplift International, a Seattle-based health and human rights organization. Ms. Solomon also served as a consultant for Health Alliance International, and the Grameen Technical Center. Before turning her attention to health issues, Ms. Solomon worked as an administrative law judge for the State of Washington. During that time, she also taught trial advocacy as an adjunct professor at the Seattle University School of Law. An active volunteer, Ms. Solomon is a founder and board member of the Jewish Women's Funding Network, an active member of the Healthy Washington Coalition, the Women's Funding Alliance, and the American Jewish Committee. She is currently a volunteer consultant for Northwest Law Health Advocates and for the health and human rights project of the New York-based, National Economic and Social Rights Initiative. Ms. Solomon received her B.A. in political science and economics from Wellesley College and a J.D. from the University of Washington School of Law. Ms. Solomon serves as Chair of the Commission.
