

"Fautleroy" is the community name, taken from the nearby Cove on Puget Sound + Lincoln Park. The Cove was named in 1857 by Lt. Geo. Davidson, who took soundings in the area, to honor his betrothed - Ellinor Fautleroy (of Indiana). He also named peaks in the Olympic Mts. to honor her and her family: Mts. Ellinor, Rose, Constance + The Brothers (Arthur + Edward). In 1904 John F. Adams, realtor, developed the area into a summer colony. In 1907 Laurence Colman + others built permanent homes + a church (built in 1 day). Then came electrical engr. E. C. Kilbourne to build the Fautleroy (Av) trolley + to live. Major growth of area followed WWII.
