Dear Mr. Jewett:

The Mayor is proposing to the City Council that the enclosed legislation be adopted.

REQUESTING

SUBJECT: An ordinance relating to and regulating plumbing; repealing existing Section 22.502.015 of the Seattle Municipal Code, and replacing it with a new Section 22.502.015 to adopt the 1988 Uniform Plumbing Code, various IAMPO Installation Standards and the Seattle Amendments thereto as the Plumbing Code of The City of Seattle.

Pursuant to the City Council's S.O.P. 100-014, the Executive Department is forwarding this request for legislation to your office for review and drafting.

After reviewing this request and any necessary redrafting of the enclosed legislation, return the legislation to OMB. Any specific questions regarding the legislation can be directed to Alan Painter.

Dear Councilman Smith:

The Seattle-King County Department of Public Health recommends adoption of the enclosed Council Bill, enacting the Uniform Plumbing Code of 1988 and repealing the Uniform Plumbing Code of 1985. The legislation has been prepared by Gordon Crandall of the Law Department. The substantial impact of the legislation will be minimal, because State law will cause this supersedure to take effect on July 1 of this year.

Our lead person for this legislation is our chief plumbing inspector, Dick Andersen (296-4767). Another Council Bill, making various changes to the Code, is being simultaneously transmitted.

Sincerely,

Bud Nicola, M.D.
Director of Public Health

Dear Councilman Smith:

The Seattle-King County Department of Public Health recommends adoption of the enclosed Council Bill, enacting Seattle's amendments to the 1988 Uniform Plumbing Code and repealing amendments to the 1985 Uniform Plumbing Code. Legislation to replace the 1985 code with the 1988 code is being submitted simultaneously. Although the Bill is thirty pages long, there are only a few changes.

Currently an aggrieved applicant can appeal to the Plumbing Appeals Board, and then to the Hearing Examiner. No one has ever taken the latter step. We recommend that appellants be afforded only one administrative appeal, as is usual in other City programs. (p. 11)

The 1985 and 1988 Uniform Codes establish a maximum water pressure of eighty pounds per square inch (80 p.s.i.) Seattle's code allows 100 p.s.i. Our experience with this more lenient standard has not been satisfactory, and we recommend that the Uniform Code's standard apply in Seattle.

We propose exclusion of galvanized malleable iron and galvanized steel from the list of approved materials. There are no recognized standards for their use, and they tend to corrode faster than other materials in soft water systems, such as ours. (p. 16)

Finally, we propose to increase the number of restroom fixtures for women in places of public assembly, roughly threefold. Current standards are based on antiquated assumptions about the ratios of the sexes at sporting events, theaters, etc., and account for disproportionately long lines outside women's restrooms. We propose to bring Seattle's standards up to those in the 1988 Uniform Code. (p. 28)

No additional City employment would be required to implement this ordinance. Seattle as the owner of places of public assembly (at Seattle Center) would be required to spend more on construction and maintenance of larger women's restrooms. However, there are several offsetting considerations. First, this requirement (like most construction code requirements) applies only to new construction or major remodels. Second, public pressure already has caused installation of more fixtures for women than current codes require, at Husky Stadium, the Kingdome, and at Seattle Center itself. Third, shorter lines will mean shorter intermissions, which will mean shorter operating hours at these facilities. And fourth, attendance (and therefore revenue) should increase, to the extent that women who are especially averse to excessive waiting periods (for medical or other reasons) would increase patronage of places of public assembly operated by the City or subject to its admissions tax. We cannot quantify these changes; Seattle Center personnel could be helpful.

Gordon Crandall of the Law Department prepared this legislation, and Councilmembers Noland and Williams have indicated a desire to sponsor it. Substantially identical legislation was reviewed without objection by the Plumbing Advisory Board and is now pending in the County Council. If you have further questions, feel free to contact me (296-4603), Director of Environmental Health Chuck Kleeberg (296-4731), or Chief Plumbing Inspector Dick Andersen (296-4767).

Sincerely,

Bud Nicola, M.D.
