The appointment bio for appointee is as follows:

Dane Boog

Dane G. Boog recently graduated from the University of North Florida, where he received a B.A. in International Studies with a minor in French. He has previously held leadership roles with Florida's leading LGBT advocacy organizations and in an international human rights organization focused on hate crime legislation in France, Eastern Europe and the Russian Federation. Boog has also done extensive work within the HIV/AIDS community and has lived in every region of the United States. Most recently, Boog relocated to Seattle from Jacksonville, FL, in September of 2009.

Boog quickly made Seattle his home and finds himself constantly encouraged and inspired by the vitality of the Emerald City. He currently works as a faculty assistant at the University of Washington in the Department of Global Health. His many interests include civil rights, public policy, conflict transformation, global health and community activism. Boog is excited to offer his new home an active hand in leadership and community development.

In his spare time, Boog enjoys traveling and studying different cultures through food, linguistics and ritualistic celebrations. Boog's top priorities are serving his community and making time for family and friends.

Vy Chu

Vy Chu (pronounced 'vee choo') was born in Saigon, Vietnam. As the son of a South Vietnamese Army Colonel and his diplomat wife, Vy was fortunate to have grown up in McLean, Virginia, a suburb of Washington, DC. He traveled south by one state to obtain his Bachelor of Science Degree at Duke University, where he rowed crew and developed a love of photography. It was after his first year at Duke when he met his partner of nearly seventeen years, Justin Voskuhl. Justin's acceptance of a position at Microsoft in 1997 brought Vy to the city he now calls home. He spent a few years obtaining residency in the state of Washington by working as an emergency medical technician while taking post-baccalaureate classes at the University of Washington. He matriculated into the UW School of Medicine in 2000, where he developed a passion for primary care.

He completed his residency in Internal Medicine at Virginia Mason Medical Center in 2007. He is board certified in Internal Medicine and is credentialed by the American Academy of HIV Medicine as an HIV Specialist. In August 2008 he co-founded Capitol Hill Medical with two other providers: Robert Killian, MD, and David Holt, ARNP. The mission of the clinic is to provide best quality evidence-based healthcare to the LGBT population of the greater Seattle area. Vy enjoys long-distance running, having completed over ten half marathons and having run the London Marathon twice. He loves nothing more than traveling the world with the love of his life, Justin, and returning home to his precious two cats, Scratchy and Voltron.

Eleazar Juarez-Diaz

Eleazar Juárez-Díaz was born in Mexico and relocated with his family to the US at the age of 4. He grew up in Arizona where he first discovered his passion for volunteering at a local hospital when he was in high school. While studying Political Science at Arizona State University he became passionate about LGBT and Immigrant rights through his work with Amnesty International. Eleazar relocated to Seattle in 2007 to work at a local Gay Men's health organization and has since fallen in love with the city and its people. Eleazar serves on the Board of Directors of Entre Hermanos, a local Latino LGBT health organization. He currently works for the YMCA of Greater Seattle as a Volunteer Coordinator and loves to be able to facilitate community engagement through volunteerism.

Brad Hoover

Brad Hoover began working with the city of Seattle in 1999 as a Community Service Officer with the Seattle Police Department, assigned to the East Precinct. In 2004 he transferred over to the Human Services Department where he continues to provide Case Management services for South King County senior and disabled residents who are utilizing COPES or MPC funded in-home care services. First with the Cultural Competency Training Committee, and also as co-lead of the HSD RSJI change team. Brad has lived in Tacoma Washington his entire life, however him and his partner of 8 years and their son have moved to Seattle as recently as April 2010.

Tiffany Nelson

Tiffany Nelson is a Washington native and have lived in Seattle for 25 years. She grew up in a small farm town North of Seattle. During college, she realized she was a lesbian and had her first relationship. After college she moved to Seattle to work and started volunteering for Chicken Soup Brigade. Through her volunteer work, she met her partner and has been together for 22 years. She had a ten year old when they started their relationship. With the help of a friend, they had another child together. Sophie became the second child in the US and first in WA State to have three legal parents (they didn't want her Dad to "give up" his parental rights in order for her partner to be legally responsible for her). Prior to working in health care, she started a volunteer program for people with AIDS in Snohomish County at Catholic Community Services. She has a Masters in Public Administration from Seattle University. She has worked in health care most of her career, non-profit community clinics and now at Group Health. She is actively involved in her Parish and religious community. She has two grandchildren and two grown children; new she feels like she has the time and energy to devote to important issues facing her community.

Lincoln Rose

Lincoln Rose is a native of California and Michigan, who came to Seattle by way of Missouri, and has been active in several LGBT communities for over 15 years. He has a B.A in Criminal Justice from Northern Michigan University, and his biggest LGBT related accomplishment during his college years was the reforming and recreating of his schools LGBT student group. That group, OUTlook, is still going strong today. He also volunteered with the Triangle Foundation and helped gather information on hate crimes in Upper Michigan.

The Honorable Richard Conlin

Shortly after coming to Seattle in 2000, he began transition from female to male, and got first hand experience in some of the support and discrimination the world has to offer trans people. Job issues and legal needs for transition (name change etc), combined with his enjoyment of legal research, led him to find out and then show others how to access the information they needed to get their paperwork in order. This led to volunteering with Verbena Health (may it rest in peace), where Lincoln co-created the first Trans Health Fair with Verbena staff, as well as setting up the Rainbow Women's Health Challenge. One other project he managed from this time frame was the Trans Jail Policy Group. This amazing gang of activists worked for over a year to write a policy laying out proper treatment of TGI inmates for the King County Jail. The policy is now officially part of King County Jail's Administrative Guidelines.

Currently, Lincoln is slowly returning to community work after a round of serious illnesses. His present projects include growing his school's LGBTQ alumni Facebook page, writing for Whosoever.org, and developing a micro-enterprise training program for the TGI community. He's looking forward to serving on the Commission, and encourages people to pull him off to the side when you see him out in the community if you want to talk about ideas or concerns!
