

Healthcare/Global Health/Life Sciences

Seattle City Council

Regional Development and Sustainability Committee

Steve Johnson, Tina Vlasaty, OED

Vajra Allan, WGHA; Jon Scholes, DSA

June 7, 2011

Why This Sector

Seattle has a significant concentration of innovative health care providers, biotechnology firms, global health organizations, and life science research institutions.

OED's Support For This Sector

Business Advocacy

- Roundtable and Sector Tour
- Life Sciences Situation Assessment
- South Lake Union Development Update (2004-2010)
- Global Health Mapping and Economic Opportunity Study

Business Retention and Expansion

- Business outreach visits

Workforce Development

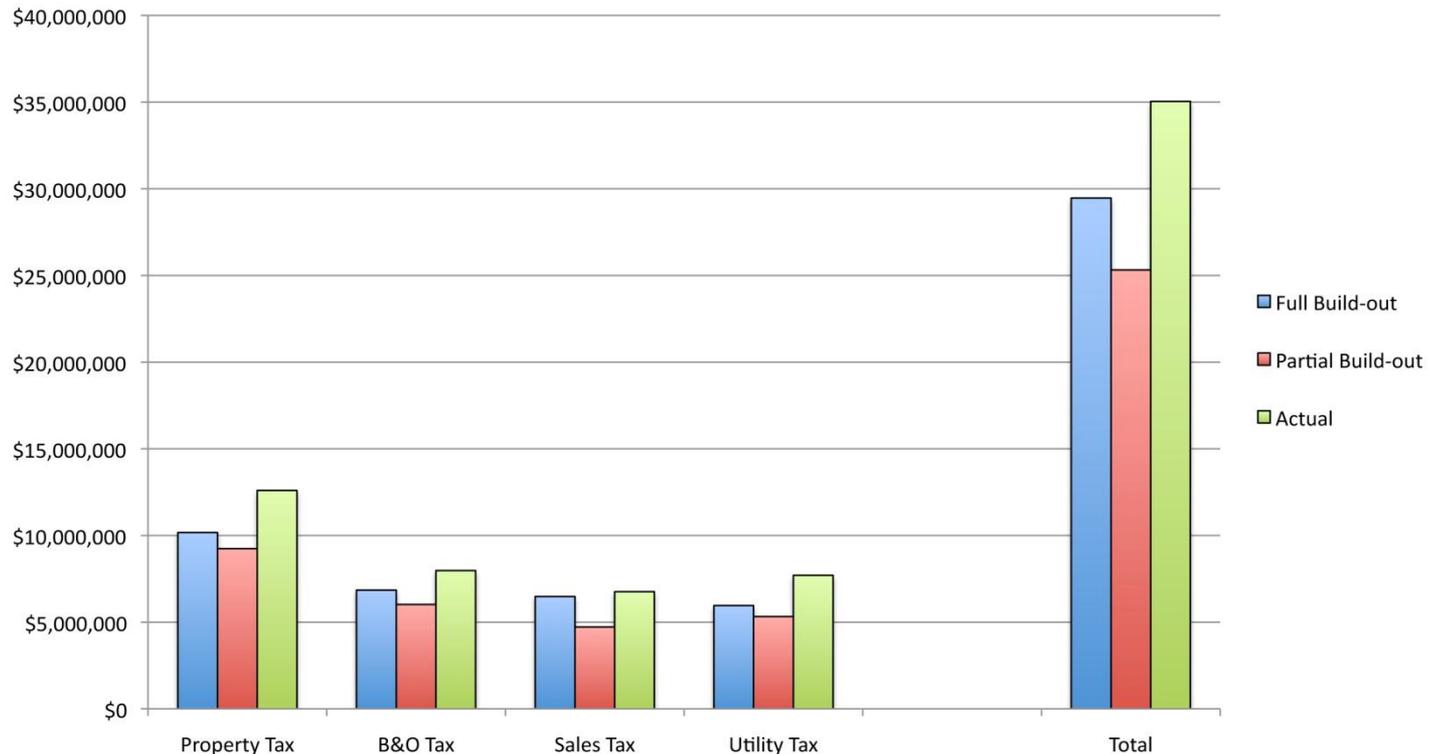

- Community Colleges, SkillUp, and SEIU

Total Development in 2010 Compared to 20-year Projections (Square Feet)

Source: South Lake Union Development Update (2004-2010)

Additional Total Tax Revenue to the City of Seattle vs. Projected During 2004-2010 Period

Source: South Lake Union Development Update (2004-2010)

Policy Implications

Hazardous Materials Restrictions – Seattle Fire Department

South Lake Union Zoning Changes – Department of Planning and Development

Power Infrastructure – Seattle City Light

Moving Forward: Partnerships

City of Seattle's Office of Economic Development

www.seattle.gov/economicdevelopment

www.growseattle.com

www.onlyinseattle.org

www.seattleinvestmentfund.com

