Hannah Trettenero

High school: Garfield

Current grade: Sophomore

1. Why do you want to become a member of the Seattle Youth Commission? I want to become a member of the Seattle Youth Commission because I am interested in learning more about our government. I read about relevant issues in the newspaper and in school, but I think the Commission would be a fascinating way to get involved as a teenager. I want to better understand the issues and make a difference in my community. I marched last Fall, to City Hall with my school, protesting education budget cuts. I was intrigued by what Mayor McGinn had to say to us. It made me want to have a conversation with him, and get involved with how our city works.

2. What issues are you passionate about in your community, and why? I attend Garfield High school, and I have met and become friends with kids from all over the city of Seattle. I have enjoyed meeting kids who aren't from my neighborhood, and who may have backgrounds, beliefs, and opinions that are different from mine. This has stretched preconceptions that I have had. It makes me think about issues in a new way, and issues that I wouldn't have necessarily thought about.

I am passionate about community issues. I live in the Roosevelt neighborhood, so I have been following the expansion of light rail, and how the increased density will affect our neighborhood, and how change can be difficult for a community. In addition to land use issues, I am interested in education, environmental impacts, and racial profiling, all related to its affects on communities.
