Background: Caitlin McKee graduated from the University of Washington in 2007 with a bachelor's degree in Community, Environment and Planning. She then served in the Peace Corps for two years in Guatemala as a Municipal Development Advisor. Her main project was to establish a Municipal Women's Office to increase citizen participation among rural Guatemalan women. Caitlin then continued to work for the Peace Corps as a Regional Recruiter in Seattle to encourage and select others to serve overseas. In her spare time she enjoys playing soccer, bachata dancing, trail running, volunteering with a Latino immigrant day workers center, and participating in public planning meetings. Caitlin strives to be a good steward for Seattle's parks, open spaces, and recreational programs and is currently pursuing a Master of Public Administration degree at the University of Washington Evans School of Public Affairs.
