Biographical Sketch: Sara Patton

Sara Patton has led the NW Energy Coalition as its Executive Director since November 1993. The Coalition is an influential regional alliance of conservation, low-income, and consumer advocate organizations, utilities, businesses, communities of faith and citizen activists. It has more than 115 member organizations primarily from Oregon, Washington, Idaho, Montana, and British Columbia. The Coalition works for a clean and affordable energy future through energy efficiency, consumer protection, clean renewable energy resources and restoration of fish and wildlife.

For 15 years prior to her tenure at the NW Energy Coalition, Ms. Patton worked for energy efficiency at Seattle City Light. She managed energy efficiency planning, integrated resource plans, research and development projects, lobbying, and program demonstrations.

Ms. Patton is a member of the Washington State Bar Association and holds degrees from Antioch School of Law and Reed College.

Before settling down in clean energy policy, she worked for PRIM Laundry in Seattle as a mangle operator, for Excursion Inlet Packing Company near Hoonah, Alaska as a salmon cannier, for West Side Alliance Day Care Center in New York City as a day care teacher, and for the Honorable Shirley Chisholm in Washington DC as a legal intern.

Community service and honors include the Board of Save Our wild Salmon, the Board of the Northwest Energy Efficiency Alliance, the Seattle City Light Advisory Board, the Energy Trust of Oregon's Energy Conservation Council, the Sierra Club's Cascade Chapter Executive Committee, the Northwest Energy Efficiency Taskforce, the Regional Technical Forum Policy Advisory Committee, the Pike Place Market Historical Commission, and 2006 Helen H. Jackson Woman of Valor Award.
